Spacemen Confident Of Safe Landing

Scientists Elated Over 'Moonquake'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The rest of the Apollo 13 mission may be a washout but scientists are elated with the moonquake created by crashing the Saturn 5 booster rocket into the lunar surface.

The impact at 8:09 p.m. EST Tuesday sent a four-hour shudder through the moon that was recorded by a seismometer erected in the lunar Ocean of Storms last November by the Apollo 12 crew.

Describing the seismic signals radioed to earth as exciting data scientists said the moonquake proves that crashing manmade objects into the lunar sphere can be a powerful tool for ultimately unraveling the mystery of the moon's origin.

"We now have a powerful and effective method for investigating the lunar interior even if we never get a big meteor impact and even if we never get a moonquake," said Dr. Maurice Ewing of Columbia University.

Ewing, Dr. Gary Latham of Columbia's Lamont Geophysical Observatory and Dr. Frank Press of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology spoke at a news conference Tuesday, several hours after the booster rocket impact.

The three seismologists were baffled by the seismic signal received last November when the Apollo 12 lunar lander was purposely crashed in a similar experiment. Such an impact on earth would have produced a brief signal, but on the moon the seismic waves lasted an hour.

When the seismic signal received Tuesday was almost identical with the one last November, the scientists knew the Apollo 12 moonquake was not a unique event. It proved that man-made impacts can produce significant seismic data and that seismic investigations aren't dependent on meteor hits or natural moonquakes.

"Now we can think in terms of a series of studies, maybe four or five moon missions or so, where you have impacts of succeeding distances so that seismic waves penetrate deeper and deeper into the moon," said Press.

The seismologists have not agreed yet on what causes the strange reverberating seismic signals from the spacecraft crashes.

Latham prefers the idea that the moon's outer shell is extremely broken up—a layer of jumbled blocks that bounce seismic waves like sound in an echo chamber.

Press thinks perhaps the impact of a spacecraft in the vacuum of the lunar atmosphere creates a "wave of debris" that fans out for miles under the surface.

"As this debris moves horizontally along the surface it continues to pump energy into the ground. It continues to excite seismic waves" he explains.

Two Apollo Wives Resume Vigil

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Having talked with the President and met with NASA's top official, two Apollo 13 wives resumed the vigil today over their husbands' troubled space mission.

President Nixon telephoned Marilyn Lovell and Mary Haise late Tuesday to express concern for the crew.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the President assured the wives that he and the entire nation were watching with concern the progress of the disabled craft, which swung around the moon Tuesday night and began the 250,000-mile trip homeward.

NASA Administrator Thomas O. Paine visited the homes of astronauts James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. and, in response to a question about the problems, said, "Things could be worse."

Lovell, Haise and John L. Swigert fired the descent engine of the lunar lander Tuesday night to kick Apollo 13 toward a Pacific Ocean splashdown scheduled for Friday.

Mrs. Haise and Mrs. Lovell stuck close to home, watching television newscasts and listening to communications between the crew and flight controllers.

Mrs. Haise kept her three children home from school Tuesday and, like Mrs. Lovell, was visited by a large number of friends and astronauts' wives.

Mrs. Lovell sent the youngest of her children, Jeffrey, 4, to nursery school but the other three remained at her side.

In Denver, Colo., Swigert's father, J. Leonard Swigert, told newsmen he was confident NASA "won't leave any stone unturned to bring them back."

He said his wife perhaps was "more emotional" than he and had a tendency for "continual worry" about her bachelor son.

In Milwaukee, Mrs. Lovell's sister, Mrs. Robert McCann, said, "Once I heard Marilyn say she wasn't worried and that everything was going to be all right, then there was no reason for me to be anxious."

Mrs. McCann, who returned home from Cape Kennedy after watching the Apollo 13 launch, said Mrs. Lovell told her on the telephone: "Jim and the others will be home safe soon."

The sister added, "I haven't stopped praying all day."

Biggest Mass Killing Noted

NEAKLEUNG, Cambodia (AP) — The bodies of hundreds of Vietnamese floated down the Mekong River in southeast Cambodia today, many with their hands tied behind them. It appeared to be the biggest mass killing yet revealed in Cambodia.

A police official at the Neak Leung ferry crossing 36 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, said he had counted 400 bodies this morning. But still they came, and more could be seen for a mile up the river, until it disappeared around a bend.

The stench was overpowering, and passengers on the ferry gagged as the boat moved through the bodies.

Some women were among the slain but very few. Most were men clad only in black shorts. One group of eight bodies, including one woman, floated by tied together.

Cambodians along the bank including the police said they had no idea where the bodies came from.

The government leaders who deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk have been whipping up an anti-Vietnamese campaign directed not only at the thousands of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops who operate back and forth across the border with South Vietnam but at the 600,000 Vietnamese who live in Cambodia.

Impeachment Stage Prepared

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford has set the stage for a possible impeachment move against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, charging that Douglas may have had long-time ties with gambling and underworld figures.

Ford's attack on Douglas, drafted for presentation to the House today, covers a wide range of the 71-year-old Justice's activities, including his voting record on the court, his off-the-bench writings and his relationships with Las Vegas figure Albert Parvin and possibly with Parvin's associates.

Douglas' dealings with Parvin began in 1960 when he aided in setting up the Albert Parvin Foundation and became a director and later its president at $12,000 a year. Douglas resigned from the post last May.

Ford charges that Parvin has long been connected with underworld figures, the associations dating back as far as 1946 when he was hired by Bugsy Siegel to decorate the Flamingo Hotel, a Las Vegas gambling palace.

Air Controllers Return To Work

By The Associated Press

The Federal Aviation Administration reported today that the air travel problems caused by a three-week air controllers strike are over.

"There are no problems at any facility in the country," an FAA spokesman said.

Air travel began returning to normal Tuesday as hundreds of striking controllers reported back to work. The FAA said the manpower level was normal or near normal in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and most other spots around the country.

Nixon Names Blackmun For Justice Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judicial record of Supreme Court nominee Harry A. Blackmun, a federal appeals judge considered a strict constructionist by President Nixon, does not appear that easy to pin down.

The judge himself brushed aside labels shortly after he learned Tuesday in St. Louis, where he sits on the U.S. 8th Court of Appeals, that Nixon had named him to fill the vacancy created almost a year ago with the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas.

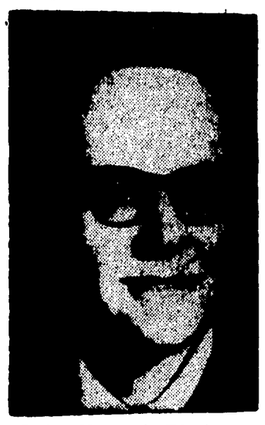

"I've been called liberal and conservative," Blackmun said. "Labels are deceiving. I call them as I see them."

Blackmun, 61, who lives in Rochester, Minn., has been compared judicially with his old friend and fellow Minnesotan, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the Supreme Court, as being fairly liberal on civil rights issues and strict on the rights of criminal defendants.

Nixon, who has frequently criticized court decisions expanding the rights of defendants in criminal cases, was reported by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler to have been highly impressed when he studied Blackmun's judicial record.

Twice Blackmun wrote decisions turning back challenges to the constitutionality of the death penalty. One of them is before the Supreme Court now in a major test case, apparently deadlocked awaiting a ninth justice. But Blackmun would not be able to help out in this case since he wrote the decision being challenged.

Last week the Supreme Court overturned a Blackmun decision rejecting the contention that a man was placed in double jeopardy when he was tried twice in connection with the robbery of a poker game.

Short Circuit Caused Trouble?

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Some spacecraft engineers believe an electrical short may have caused an explosion which disabled the Apollo 13 spacecraft.

A short circuit in either a fan or a heater in one of the spacecraft's two oxygen tanks could have caused a rise in pressure which exploded the tank, a source at the Manned Spacecraft Center said Tuesday.

The two oxygen tanks in the spacecraft are in the service module. Each tank has a sort of electric blanket heater on the outside and a fan on the inside.

The heaters force an increase in oxygen pressure by causing the liquid oxygen in the tanks to turn into gas. The fans circulate the oxygen and make the heating uniform.

The source said a short in a heater could have caused a rapid rise in pressure as more oxygen was turned into gas than the oxygen system could use. When this pressure reached 1,530 pounds per square inch the tank would explode.

If the short was in a fan the oxygen would heat up unevenly, again causing a rise in pressure.

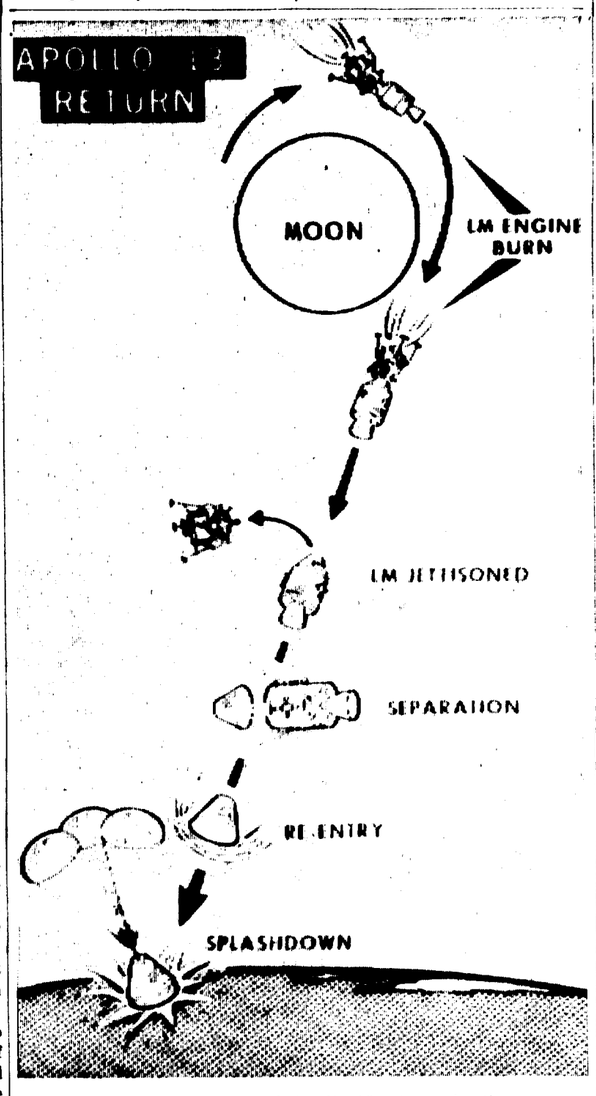

The explosion of a metal oxygen tank could have sent shrapnel-like fragments into the second tank or nearby plumbing. This could account for the slow loss of oxygen which emptied the second tank in three hours.

Space officials discounted reports that the oxygen leak and explosion might have been caused by the impact of a meteoroid.

Such an impact, they said, would not explain the increase of pressure before the explosion.

Officials will not be able to search the service module for the exact cause of the explosion. It will be left in space and will burn up when it re-enters the earth's atmosphere.

Flight Director Gene Kranz said however that he believed enough data was obtained before and after the emergency to permit investigators to determine the cause.

THIS IS HOW the crippled Apollo 13 will make the emergency homeward trip to earth. The lunar module craft provided thrust that placed the command module on target for earth and later will be jettisoned before separation and reentry to the earth's atmosphere for final splashdown Friday. (AP Wirephoto)

Stronger Postal Plan In Trouble?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is reported about to get an even stronger postal corporation proposal than it had before the mail strike—and already is mapping strategy to kill it.

Administration and postal union negotiators have reached basic agreement on a postal reform plan a knowledgeable source says "will be a little harder for the unions to swallow" than the corporation plan approved by a House committee last month.

The agreement, tying an 8 per cent pay boost for postal employes to the reform, is to be submitted to President Nixon for transmittal to Congress as soon as union and administration lawyers are convinced the technical language says exactly what they want.

The 8 per cent boost for postal employes effective next July would come on top of the 6 per cent across-the-board pay increase passed by Congress Tuesday.

Corporation has become a bad word to influential congressmen and the proposed agency would not be given that name. Nor would it be called a U.S. Postal Authority as proposed before the mail strike.

It may even keep the present name: Post Office Department.

The agency will reportedly take the nation's mails from the control of Congress and put them under the direction of an independent management board that would appoint its own postmaster general.

Splashdown Slated In S. Pacific Friday

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 13's astronauts nursed their disabled spaceship back toward earth today as confidence built among space officials that they would make it.

But the dangers remained clear. The men have no margin for error or further malfunctions. They are living and flying on emergency supplies.

Supplies Hoarded

James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. were hoarding their vital oxygen, water and power supplies effectively as Apollo 13 escaped from lunar gravity and sped into the earth's sphere of influence at a point 219,000 miles in space. The spacecraft was going 2,650 miles an hour.

The astronauts rested and did little activity as they conserved their consumables. They were in good spirits after the tense hours of Monday and Tuesday. An oxygen tank rupture late Monday aborted their moon landing plans and placed them in the gravest danger ever faced by American astronauts.

Crew Confident

Although confidence was building that they would land safely in the Pacific, officials cautioned there is always a possibility something could go wrong in the remaining two days. The astronauts have been reduced to dependence on the power and other resources of the attached lunar landing craft.

On the performance of the lunar module, flight director Eugene Kranz said, "I think the LM spacecraft is in excellent shape, and I think it's fully capable of getting the crew back. I feel we are much better off than we were last night as far as consumables and everything is concerned. We have a better margin to work with and we have more flexibility."

Landing Time Set

The astronauts will ride the command ship through the atmosphere to a planned splashdown near Samoa in the Pacific at 1:04 p.m. EST Friday, some 46 minutes later than earlier estimated by the space agency.

Because of the possibility that Tropical Storm Helen, now about 500 miles away, might be in the recovery area, Mission Control told the astronauts it might delay a final course correction until Thursday afternoon.

This would give them a chance to make the best possible adjustment in aim and, doing it only once, conserve power.

Will Use Battery

The command vessel normally relies on power and oxygen from the attached service module. But these were made useless in the accident. For re-entry, the astronauts will switch on a battery and auxiliary oxygen system, the standard procedure on all Apollo missions.

But this time there will be no chance to recharge the batteries from the service module's systems since they are dead.

First, they will jettison the lunar and service modules, both of which will burn up in the atmosphere.

One part of the lunar vehicle is not expected to burn up. It is a canister carrying a small amount of radioactive plutonium 238, which would have been used to power a science station Lovell and Haise had planned to leave on the moon.

No Harm To Life

To prevent escape of the radioactive material, the canister was designed to survive a blazing dive through the atmosphere. It is expected to sink in the Pacific. Even if plutonium should be exposed, the dose is so small it would not harm life, officials reported.

As Apollo 13 streaked closer to earth, Mission Control spent more than an hour today radioing up instructions for setting hundreds of switches in the command ship, placing them in the proper order for re-entry and landing.

Oil Flow From Alaska Could Face Slowdown

NEW YORK (AP) — A court challenge by conservationists is likely to hold back for perhaps a year the flow of oil from the rich, newly discovered Alaskan North Slope fields, and cost oil companies drilling there many millions of dollars.

A U.S. District Court judge in Washington Monday granted an injunction requested by three conservation groups prohibiting Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel from issuing a right-of-way permit for a road leading from the oil fields to southern Alaska.

This had the effect of preventing the start of construction of a $1-billion paralleling 48-inch pipeline from Prudhoe Bay to the port of Valdez.

Oil companies a year ago paid the State of Alaska $900 million for North Slope leases in the greatest bidding competition in industry history.

The 800-mile pipeline, under and above the frozen Alaskan surface, is to be built by Trans Alaskan Pipeline System—TAPS—owned by subsidiaries of Atlantic Richfield Co., B. P. North America Ltd. and Humble Oil & Refining Co.

"We can't go ahead with our hoped for start on the pipeline this spring," a TAPS spokesman said in Anchorage, Alaska, Tuesday.

The federal government has yet to issue a permit for the pipeline, but an industry source said, "A pipeline permit without a road permit is worthless."

Another source said he expected that the oil companies already engaged in drilling would go ahead even though they would not be able to move the oil out as expected. This, he said, would add millions of dollars to their costs.

Russ Offer Help

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin told President Nixon today that his government stands ready to help rescue astronauts of Apollo 13 and dispatched two ships to the Pacific area where the splashdown is expected, Tass said.

The Soviet news agency dispatch from Moscow said the Russian ships Akademician Rykoc Rykachev and Novopolotsk had changed course at sea and were speeding toward the Fiji Islands.

Wildcat Strikes Forcing Layoffs

By The Associated Press

Wildcat strikes by truck drivers in scattered cities have caused increased layoffs and an embargo on some piggyback freight rail shipments to Chicago. Teachers remained on strike in Los Angeles and Minneapolis. But an air traffic controllers strike was reported virtually ended.

The trucker strikes were blamed by nine railroads for an embargo they imposed today on piggyback freight shipments to many Chicago companies. However, a Chicago Teamsters union official termed the embargo an attempt by the railroads to help the trucking industry break the truckers' walkout.

One part of the lunar vehicle is not expected to burn up. It is a canister carrying a small amount of radioactive plutonium 238, which would have been used to power a science station Lovell and Haise had planned to leave on the moon.

No Harm To Life

To prevent escape of the radioactive material, the canister was designed to survive a blazing dive through the atmosphere. It is expected to sink in the Pacific. Even if plutonium should be exposed, the dose is so small it would not harm life, officials reported.

As Apollo 13 streaked closer to earth, Mission Control spent more than an hour today radioing up instructions for setting hundreds of switches in the command ship, placing them in the proper order for re-entry and landing.

Oil Flow From Alaska Could Face Slowdown

NEW YORK (AP) — A court challenge by conservationists is likely to hold back for perhaps a year the flow of oil from the rich, newly discovered Alaskan North Slope fields, and cost oil companies drilling there many millions of dollars.

A U.S. District Court judge in Washington Monday granted an injunction requested by three conservation groups prohibiting Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel from issuing a right-of-way permit for a road leading from the oil fields to southern Alaska.

This had the effect of preventing the start of construction of a $1-billion paralleling 48-inch pipeline from Prudhoe Bay to the port of Valdez.

Oil companies a year ago paid the State of Alaska $900 million for North Slope leases in the greatest bidding competition in industry history.

The 800-mile pipeline, under and above the frozen Alaskan surface, is to be built by Trans Alaskan Pipeline System—TAPS—owned by subsidiaries of Atlantic Richfield Co., B. P. North America Ltd. and Humble Oil & Refining Co.

"We can't go ahead with our hoped for start on the pipeline this spring," a TAPS spokesman said in Anchorage, Alaska, Tuesday.

The federal government has yet to issue a permit for the pipeline, but an industry source said, "A pipeline permit without a road permit is worthless."

Another source said he expected that the oil companies already engaged in drilling would go ahead even though they would not be able to move the oil out as expected. This, he said, would add millions of dollars to their costs.

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin told President Nixon today that his government stands ready to help rescue astronauts of Apollo 13 and dispatched two ships to the Pacific area where the splashdown is expected, Tass said.

The Soviet news agency dispatch from Moscow said the Russian ships Akademician Rykoc Rykachev and Novopolotsk had changed course at sea and were speeding toward the Fiji Islands.

Wildcat Strikes Forcing Layoffs

By The Associated Press

Wildcat strikes by truck drivers in scattered cities have caused increased layoffs and an embargo on some piggyback freight rail shipments to Chicago. Teachers remained on strike in Los Angeles and Minneapolis. But an air traffic controllers strike was reported virtually ended.

The trucker strikes were blamed by nine railroads for an embargo they imposed today on piggyback freight shipments to many Chicago companies. However, a Chicago Teamsters union official termed the embargo an attempt by the railroads to help the trucking industry break the truckers' walkout.

Shared Time Approved; School Budget Adopted

By MIKE UTT

A tentative operating budget for 1970-71 and shared time with Holy Name High School were approved by the Escanaba Area Board of Education Tuesday night at the Soo Hill School.

The board unanimously adopted a proposed budget of $3,256,705 and will now submit it to the Delta County Tax Allocation Board.

The tentative budget represents an increase of $341,095 over the current year's operating budget. The increase includes salary and wage increases for nearly 300 teaching and non-teaching employes included in negotiated contracts, needed capital outlay and maintenance items deleted from the present year's budget, and other demands for improvement.

Pledges Cooperation

The board also pledged its full cooperation in trying to work out shared time programs with Holy Name in vocational subjects. The only limitations to such time sharing would be dictated by space limitations.

Superintendent Luther Barrett stated that Escanaba High School is proud of its facilities and said that it would be able to accommodate a limited number of Holy Name students in vocational educational classes.

The Holy Name Board of Education had requested consideration on this matter through its superintendent, Father Vincent Oulette, prior to the meeting.

The board also went on record as pledging support in the area of matching funds up to $600 for the 1970-71 school year towards any fund raising group wishing to work towards the improvement of playground equipment for the area schools.

Urge Physicals

Board approval was also given to the school administration to strongly urge the parents of all students entering the seventh grade to have a doctor's physical examination taken by the students and have a report turned in to the school on a form that will be provided.

This move taken in the interest of the welfare of the students and their parents as well as in the protection of physical education teachers in the school, board members said. If a child has some physical condition which would make strenuous exercise inadvisable the school should know this and the program for this child would be altered accordingly. If a child has such a condition, and the school does not have knowledge of it, then the school and its employes would have no liability, they indicated.

The board also approved the purchase of three new 66-passenger busses similar to the specifications of those bought last year. Diesel engine busses had been talked about, but a representative of the diesel companies has not contacted the school yet, so the board decided to purchase the new busses and think about diesels next year.

Joseph Hampton, Vocational Education Implementer through the Intermediate Schools attended last night's meeting and asked the board's cooperation in geting a vocational program in the Upper Peninsula moving. Th board unanimously accepted his proposal, which now needs approval from other school boards in the U. P.

Change Curriculum

Other action taken by the board last night included the approval of the submission of the 1969-70 NDEA Title III project in the amount of $16,600 to cover projects in industrial arts, reading, language arts and audio-visual; acceptance of teacher resignations from Susan Diehm, Mary Halvorson, Carolyn Davis and Richard Terry; and approval of curriculum changes in the departments of home economics, industrial arts, mathematics, social studies, science, English and health.

Board President Albin Pearson was recently elected to the Escanaba City Council and the board accepted his resignation as of June 30.

In his letter, Pearson stated that his association with the board had been gratifying for him and that he regretted not being able to complete the last year of his term. He said that in his nw role as a councilman, he hoped to nurture a cooperative relationshin between county and city government and the schools.

Allocation Board

With the resignation of Albin Pearson Jr., from the Esnaba Area Board of Education Tuesday evening, Ron Lankford, a member of the board, will replace him on the Delta County Tax Allocation Board.

This move was made at a previous meeting of the board, but made public at last night's meeting.

Death Claims Mrs. LaLande

Mrs. Della LaLande, 91, of Gladstone died at 9:25 p.m. Tuesday at the Pinehaven Nursing Home. She was born Sept. 15, 1878 in Wisconsin and had resided most of her life in Delta County.

She is survived by four sons, Frank LaLande of Austin, Minn., Joseph Andrew and Eli LaLande of Seattle and Eli T. of Pontiac; four daughters, Mrs. William (Eva) Lancour of Escanaba, Mrs. Walter (Georgianna) Jensen of Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Henry (Filicate) Drossart of Escanaba, Mrs. Stewart (Louise) Helsten of Traverse City and 47 grandchildren.

Friends may call after 4 p.m. Thursday at the Skradski Funeral Home and parish prayers will be recited at 8 p.m. Funeral services will be conducted at 9 a.m. Friday at All Saints Church with Msgr. Matt LaViolette officiating. Burial will be in Fernwood Cemetery.

Party Workers To Be Honored

MACKINAC CITY — The 11th District Democratic Party Organization voted to honor two outstanding party workers for their years of dedicated service at its meeting held here Saturday.

Special recognition will be given to Ann Villeneuve of Escanaba as "Democratic Precinct Worker of the Year" and Stanley Jaroski of Naubinway as 'Democratic Senior Citizen of the Year." The two will be welcomed as special guests at the Democratic Party's $35 a plate Jefferson - Jackson Day Dinner on April 25 in Detroit.

Other activities at the district meeting included election of Iron Mountain Attorney Francis D. Brouillette to fill the post of treasurer of the organization, succeeding Nino Green of Gladstone, who recently resigned to devote full attention to his congressional candidacy.

LeRoy J. Nelson of Powers was elected to fill a new position on the Democratic Party's State Central Committee. Nelson is chairman of the Menominee County Democratic Committee and Brouillette is the chairman in Dickinson County.

Nelson's seat on the State Central Committee represents implementation of one of the political reforms adopted by the Democratic Party at its State Convention in January and gives greater representation to the 11th District.

Guests and speakers at the meeting were Frank J. Kelly, Michigan's Attorney General; George Googasin, David Vaughn and Robert Beckem, members of Sen. Phillip A. Hart's campaign staff; Robert Mitchell of the Democratic State Central staff; and Nino Green, 11th District Democratic candidate for congress.

Rotarians Tour Tower:

High Rise View Impresses Club

Members of the Escanaba Rotary Club were conducted on a tour of the Senior Citizens housing structure on Tuesday —and were impressed by the spectacular panorama seen from the top of the 18-story tower.

From the roof, 180 feet above Ludington St., the Rotarians could see virtually the length and breadth of Delta County, from distant Lake Michigan on the east to the wooded inland to the west.

The tour was arranged by Escanaba City Manager George Harvey with the cooperation of the Housing Commission, of which John Gannon is director.

Serving as guides on the tour of the 176-unit apartment building for senior citizens of low income were Harvey, Gannon, City Engineer John Dulek, Controller Howard Smale and Administrative Assistant Gary LaPlant.

Thomas Straebel, Rotary president, conducted the club meeting at which Harvey and Gannon presented information about the housing project in advance of the tour. Members of the Housing Commission who have worked to successfully bring the $2.6 million project to reality are Gannon, Carl Anderson, William Winkler, Arnold Williams, William DeHaan and Mike Jensen.

Members of the City Council were also present for the Rotary meeting and the visit to the tower, including Mayor Ronald DeVos, Albin Pearson Jr., Robert Bink and Cecil Chase. Councilman Richard Pryal could not be present.

The tower is scheduled for completion on June 18, dedication is set for July 13 in a program to be highlighted by the presence of Miss America, and occupancy of the 176 units is scheduled for mid-July.

Gannon reported that more than 600 applications had been received originally, that the number is being reduced as ineligibles are removed from the list, and that final determinations will continue to the time of occupancy. This is necessary since the situation changes from time to time because of several factors, including death of some of the applicants.

Consolidation Meetings Slated

Public meetings have been scheduled in Hermansville and in Powers - Spalding by the Boards of Education of the two school districts to discuss with residents of the area the proposed consolidation of the two school districts.

The consolidation election is scheduled Monday, May 11.

The meeting at Powers-Spalding will be held Thursday April 30, in the Powers - Spalding gymnasium. The meeting at Hermansville is set for Thursday, May 7, at the Hermansville Community Club. Both meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

"Everyone is urged to attend at least one of these meetings to become well-informed about all of the issues in this election," the school boards said.

Board members of the two districts met recently with Attorney Thomas Nordberg to review legal matters concerning the proposed consolidation.

Some of the items discussed were: legal procedures to be followed if consolidation is approved by the voters; the interim board of education; operational millage for the new district; status of teachers in the new district; bonded indebtedness and the election of a new board of education for the new district.

Information on those subjects along with answers to questions from residents will be provided at the public meetings, the school boards said.

Kindergarten Registration Set For Friday

Kindergarten registration for the 1970-71 school year will be held Friday, April 17.

Parents of pre-kindergarten students whose last names begin with letter A through L should come in to register during the hours from 9-11:30 a.m. and those whose last names begin with letter M through Z from 12:30-3:30 p.m. At least one parent should accompany the child.

The child's birth certificate, entrance data sheet and immunization sheet indicating the parent's desire with regard to the required immunizations are needed.

The Delta-Menominee Health Department will provide preschool physicals and immunizations at a clinic on Wednesday, April 22 at 12:30 p.m. at the Sheltered Workshop in Hermansville.

The tower is scheduled for completion on June 18, dedication is set for July 13 in a program to be highlighted by the presence of Miss America, and occupancy of the 176 units is scheduled for mid-July.

Gannon reported that more than 600 applications had been received originally, that the number is being reduced as ineligibles are removed from the list, and that final determinations will continue to the time of occupancy. This is necessary since the situation changes from time to time because of several factors, including death of some of the applicants.

Consolidation Meetings Slated

Public meetings have been scheduled in Hermansville and in Powers - Spalding by the Boards of Education of the two school districts to discuss with residents of the area the proposed consolidation of the two school districts.

The consolidation election is scheduled Monday, May 11.

The meeting at Powers-Spalding will be held Thursday April 30, in the Powers - Spalding gymnasium. The meeting at Hermansville is set for Thursday, May 7, at the Hermansville Community Club. Both meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

"Everyone is urged to attend at least one of these meetings to become well-informed about all of the issues in this election," the school boards said.

Board members of the two districts met recently with Attorney Thomas Nordberg to review legal matters concerning the proposed consolidation.

Some of the items discussed were: legal procedures to be followed if consolidation is approved by the voters; the interim board of education; operational millage for the new district; status of teachers in the new district; bonded indebtedness and the election of a new board of education for the new district.

Information on those subjects along with answers to questions from residents will be provided at the public meetings, the school boards said.

Kindergarten Registration Set For Friday

Kindergarten registration for the 1970-71 school year will be held Friday, April 17.

'Spring Thing' Set Thursday At Rapid River

"Spring Thing" is the title of this year's Spring Festival, which will be presented at the Rapid River High School gymnasium, Thursday, at 8 p.m. by Rapid River High School students.

The general program, directed by Mrs. Johnson, will feature musical numbers by the high school chorus. Accompaniment will provided by Linda Jo Deneau and Carol Holmlund on the piano and Dale Morin on the guitar.

Robert Debelak will direct the tumbling acts, trampoline and parallel bars demonstrations. A style revue will be presented by the home economics girls directed by Mrs. Fran Phillips. Forensic presentations will be given by Judy Hansen, Ruth Olson, and Cheryl Johnson directed by Mr. Pete Brock.

Classes displaying projects will include science, biology, math, geometry, bookkeeping, typing, shop; driver education, art, home economics, mechanical and architectural drawing.

Beaver, Otter Trappings Drop

The Department of Natural Resources reported today that the number of animals taken and number of licenses issued showed a sharp decline in the beaver and otter trapping season which ended April 8.

Only 324 licenses were sold this spring in the Escanaba district (Delta, Marquette and the western half of Alger counties) compared with 389 in 1969 and 478 in 1978.

Number of beaver taken dropped to 572 from 1,033 last year and 1,815 in 1968. There were only 73 otter trapped, compared with 99 last year and 125 in 1968.

"Trapping conditions were far from ideal with ice covered waters and cold weather prevailing," officials reported.

Prices averaged $20 for blanket beaver with a $3 drop in sizes and large otter brought $25.

Snow in the open areas, particularly in Delta County, is rapidly disappearing and burning permits are now required. Permits are available free of charge from the DNR by advising the legal description of the property upon which you wish to burn, providing conditions are otherwise safe for burning.

Spring fish runs have not developed to any great extent as yet, officers reported ..

There is some activity off Thompson Creek, where open water exisits, for rainbow trout. The Munising area is producing fair for lake trout, rainbow and salmon as is the mouth of the AuTrain River, but fishing is thru the ice.

Ice conditions are rapidly becoming unsafe.

WITCH, CAT AND MAGIC SPELLS are part of the delightful comedy in "Bell, Book and Candle" to be presented by the Players de Noc beginning April 23. Lead parts are played by Betty Donalds and Jim Bruce, who cast spells over each other. (Daily Press Photo)

Players To Present Comedy Of Witches

Another well-casted, well-produced Players de Noc production is coming to the Escanaba stage beginning next week, Thursday. "Bell, Book and Candle," a delightful and entertaining hit, will star two well-known Escanabans—Betty Donalds and Jim Bruce.

Betty Donalds, who portrays the role of Gillian Holroyd, an alluring 20th Century witch, has graced the Escanaba stage in many high school and Players productions. She recently appeared in Mame, this season's musical, and adds the Crucible, Glass Managerie and Carousel to her credits.

Betty is employed as the assistant Lab technician at St. Francis Hospital. In her role as Gillian, Betty casts a bewitching spell on Shepherd Henderson, Jim Bruce, to fall in love with her and eventually finds herself falling into the magic-spell of love.

Jim Bruce, who plays the part of Shep, first appeared on stage as the older Patrick in Mame. He has become very active in Players as well as many community affairs. Jim is a CAP specialist in the Community Action Program for UPCAP.

Players de Noc will present "Bell, Book and Candle" for its third production of the '69-'70 season. The comedy will be produced three nights — Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 23, 24 and 25 at the Escanaba Area High School Auditorium with an 8 o'clock curtain time.

Tickets are on sale at Gust Asp, Wolverine Discount, all the First National Bank locations in Escanaba and Gladstone, Beck's Western Auto and the high schools and college. Tickets are adults $2 and students $1.

Bay Alumni Meet Saturday

There will be spring meeting of the Bay de Noc Community College Alumni Association on Saturday the 18th in the club room of the Civic Center beginning at 1 p.m.

Topics scheduled for discussing at the meeting include, soliciting for membership within the area and establishing a student scholarship for students at Bay de Noc Community College.

Oliver Turan, membership officer for the Alumni Association stated, "that any persons interested in becoming a member can contact him at room 105 in the Civic Center or by calling him at 786-6723.

The goal of the board of the BDNCC Alumni Association, is to encourage anyone who is interested in furthering education, by scholarships, students loans and by associating within the organization to help create new ideas.

The members of the board of trustees are as follows, Joe Viau, President, Eugene Slagstad Vice-President, Gene Herbert Treasurer, Betty Nelson Secretary and Oliver Turan. The appointed committee chairman are Mrs. Jeannie Savard corresponding secretary and Rudy Lydmark by-law chairman.

Blewett Heads Petition Effort On Parochiaid

Paul F. Blewett of Escanaba has been appointed Delta County coordinating chairman in the petition campaign by the Council Against Parochiaid to place the question of aid to non-public schools on the November ballot in Michigan.

"If the necessary 280,000 signatures are obtained, the question of giving public money to private schools will be decided by the voters in Michigan in the November election," Blewett said.

"I hope that we can obtian the help and support from the citizens of Delta County to achieve our goal."

Any registered voter is eligible to circulate a petition and all registered voters may sign. Anyone desiring further information may call 786-0567, Blewett said.

Newspaper Firm Reports Higher Revenue In 1970

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Knight Newspapers Inc. reported Tuesday operating revenue for the first three months of 1970 was $59,853,000, up from $37,790,000 for the same period in 1969.

Net income for this period was $2,558,000 or 49 cents per common share, compared with $2,862,000 or 56 cents per share last year.

The decline, which had been forecast, resulted from a combination of high interest charges and start-up costs in Philadelphia where the Inquirer and Daily News became Knight Newspapers Dec. 31, the company said.

GREENVILLE (AP) — Lloyd Walker has been appointed as Greenville's mayor at a reorganizational meeting of the city council. Walker succeeds Mayor Ronald Blanding.

Worth Is Named Award Recipient

Jean Worth of Escanaba, former editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, has been selected to receive the 1970 Lake Superior State College Distinguished Service Award, it is announced by Dr. Kenneth J. Shouldice, president.

The award will be presented at commencement exercises to be held on June 13.

"Mr. Worth does us honor in accepting this award," said Shouldice. "It is particularly fitting that the College should this year draw attention to a man who has devoted much of his life to writing on the Upper Peninsula and the conservation of our natural resources."

Awards in the past have been presented to Richard Burnett, president of the Soo Electric Co., and to Prentiss M. Brown, former U.S. Senator.

Worth was editor of the Menominee Herald-Leader before coming to Escanaba as editor of the Daily Press in 1955. He retired from the Daily Press in 1969 as editor and continues associated with the Panax Corp. as a contributing writer.

U.P. Gerontology Meeting Delayed

The Upper Peninsula conference on gerontology, originally scheduled for May 6-7 in Marquette, has been postponed until June 10-11, announced John Rukavina, Marquette Catholic Social Services worker for the Upper Peninsula.

Rukavina, who is chairman of the planning committee for the UPCAP Committee on Aging sponsoring the conference, said that the date was changed to avoid conflict with other professional meetings in May.

Rusk Fears Spread Of Asia Fighting

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk says there is "a real possibility" the fighting in Southeast Asia can spread seriously into Cambodia.

Rusk, the nation's chief diplomat under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, made the statement recently in a question-and-answer session with students of Agnes Scott College here.

He said he was surprised that Prince Sihanouk had been overthrown in Cambodia.

"On the whole, he had done a good job," Rusk said. He added, however, that Sihanouk "had fudged a little on his neutrality."

Order In Court

What can a trial judge do to maintain order in the court when dealing with violently obstreperous defendants? On the basis of a ruling by the U. S. Supreme Court, he can do just about anything he thinks necessary.

The judge may employ the relatively gentle practice of citing the defendant for contempt of court and impose a jail sentence upon him. Or he may have the defendant bound and gagged whenever in court. Or he may have him removed from the courtroom entirely and order the trial to proceed in the defendant's absence.

With the exception of Justice William O. Douglas, who wrote a separate opinion, the court was unanimous in ifs ruling.

The defendant in the case heard by the Supreme Court was William Allen, who was charged with holding up a tavern and robbing it of $200. His defense against the charge was insanity. When he appeared in court in Chicago 14 years ago on the charge, Allen did indeed carry on like a madman. Judge Grover Niemeyer finally ordered him removed from the court room, and the trial continued without him.

The U. S. Court of Appeals in Chicago invalidated the conviction last July on the grounds that it was in violation of the Sixth Amendment granting defendants the right to face their accusers.

* * *

The Supreme Court's reversal of the appellate court's ruling came at a timely moment. It vindicates Judge Julius J. Hoffman's decision to order Bobby G. Seale bound and gagged during the trial of eight radicals charged with inciting riots during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968. (Seale was later ordered to stand trial separately from the other seven defendants.)

What the Supreme Court said in this recent ruling, in effect, was that, above all, there must be decorum in the nation's courts.

The constitutional rights of defendants lie at the heart of the American system of jurisprudence and democracy. But these rights and freedom itself are meaningless if we have chaos in the courts.

As Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said in a concurring opinion, the guarantees of liberty, justice and equality "cannot endure if we allow our precious heritage of ordered liberty to be ripped apart amid the sound and fury of our time." And even Justice Douglas agreed that a criminal trial cannot exist in bedlam.

Justice Hugo L. Black, who wrote the opinion for the majority, summarized the issue thusly: "It would degrade our country and our judicial system to permit our courts to be bullied, insulted and humiliated and their orderly progress thwarted and obstructed by defendants brought before them charged with crimes."

Trial judges may now run their courts secure in the knowledge that they need tolerate no violent disruptions from defendants.

Government Guide

The League of Women Voters has published a handbook of local government for Delta County, "Know Your County," which should be required reading for everyone in the county.

In its 47 pages, the paperbound book contains a wealth of information about how government is organized and operates in the county through sections on Delta County, Libraries of Delta County, Education, City of Escanaba and the City of Gladstone. Included are maps which show school district boundaries and voting precincts and diagrams which illustrate the structuring of government and the chain of command.

Did you know, for example, that including school districts there are 27 individual units of government functioning within the county? That the Escanaba Area School district, which includes the City of Escanaba and Wells, Ford River and Cornell Townships is not contiguous? That the county operates five parks? That Delta County had 14,953 registered voters in 1968?

The book was edited by Mrs. Louis Gregory and Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder of Escanaba and dedicated to the citizens of Delta County, reports Mrs. William E. Taylor, president of the league, "in the hope that it will assist them in the fulfillment of that responsibility (as citizens), that they will use it as an index to governmental services and find it a ready source of information."

The League of Women Voters over the years has provided many valuable services to the people of the county. It is appropriate in 1970, the 50th anniversary of the League of Women Voters of the United States, that this is one of their finest contributions.

Sale of $1,600,000 in school bonds for construction of a new school (kindergarten through 12th grade) in the North Dickinson County School District was announced by Superintendent Stewart Oja. The bonds were sold to First of Michigan Corp. & Associates at an interest rate of 6.35202 per cent. Site of the new school, which is expected to be completed by September of 1971, will be on County Road 569 just east of the Groveland mine entrance road. The school district now has 530 children enrolled in the Channing and Felch areas. When the building is completed, Channing and Felch High Schools will become one school to be known as the North Dickinson County High School.

Industry, Environment Crusades Clash Headon

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A West German company, the BASF Corp., is suspending plans to build a $100 million chemical plant on the South Carolina coast until "responsible federal agencies" have passed judgment on the pollution risk to beach resort areas.

This is a good example of the new wariness about the need for protecting the environment, and it is certainly to be commended. It shows that Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel, once the object of suspicion in a conservation-minded U.S. Senate, is right on the ball in his zeal to make this a cleaner country.

Even so, there is a certain irony connected with it, for if any region needs new industries, it is the Carolina Low Country. The Negroes who remain there, resisting the urge to pile into the squalid slums of our northern cities, definitely need jobs; they suffer from hookworm, dysentery, and various deficiency diseases, and they can't make enough out of farming and shrimp catching to keep body and soul together.

The irony is that two crusades, both of them desirable, have clashed in the Carolina impasse. There is the crusade for a clean environment, and there is the crusade to decentralize our industry. Somehow the two crusades must be merged, for it is the congested cities, "spewing out their wastes," that are the chief menace to a decent life for 200 million Americans.

* * *

It so happens that, just as South Carolina was experiencing difficulties in its drive to attract new industry to its open countryside, a Presidential Task Force on Rural Development report, "A New Life for the Country," was reposing on Richard Nixon's White House desk.

The report looks at the drift to city life, and is properly horrified by what happens when bodies are impacted in rundown urban areas, when children become heroin pushers at the age of 12, and when rape and murder are so common that decent people barricade themselves in their homes at night.

The Task Force report addresses itself to the need for reversing what has been one of the "largest migrations in recorded history," a migration that has brought 25 million people from the rural areas into the cities in the past quarter of a century. Some three-fourths of our population now lives on two per cent of our land, which is a ridiculous waste of a country that is still wide open and beautiful no matter what its detractors may say.

* * *

The Task Force ticks off a number of things that might be done to restore the balance between city and country. It speaks of using tax incentives to lure businesses into the open spaces, and of building new "people-to-job" roads to get workers from their part-time farms to supplementary jobs in factories. It suggests a Rural Development Credit Bank, not for providing investment capital directly to farmers but to develop rural industries.

Somehow the Task Force recommendations sound wistful. Not that they aren't worthwhile in themselves, but they run up against all the things that the government has been doing to force the drift into the cities.

Franklin D. Roosevelt talked eloquently about restoring the balance between city and country, but his New Deal farm programs worked to displace the small farmer and encourage the development of large - scale corporate farming. This sort of thing still goes on. The big farmer used his support money to buy new tractors, better seed, more abundant fertilizer. However, the small farmer, lacking benefits in volume, couldn't afford the capital equipment to keep pace in a continually overproduced market. He has been crowded off the land.

Nevertheless, the balance between city and country may be redressed by a natural growth in repugnance to city life. A talent - hunting firm reports that it is increasingly difficult to recruit executives to work in big cities, particularly in New York. If this attitude snowballs we may see more and more corporations decentralizing their activities.

Yet if we are to hasten the day, we shall have to find ways to avoiding the South Carolina impasse. In moving to the country, our industries must recycle their wastes.

This is the technical problem to which our young "Earth Day" enthusiasts should be addressing themselves, which means that they should spend less time demonstrating and more time in their chemistry and biology laboratories.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead—six of spades.

It is not uncommon for the outcome of a contract to hinge on the play of one card. Consequently, whenever declarer is faced with a situation where his decision on which card to play may make or break the contract ,he should direct every vestige of his energy and logic to that particular problem.

Consider this case where West leads a spade. East wins with the ace and returns the jack, and it is at this point that South must make the crucial decision of whether to play the queen or the nine.

If he puts on the queen, he goes down two; if he ducks, he winds up with nine ironclad tricks.

The question is how declarer can tell which play is more likely to succeed. The answer is actually quite simple — if you know the Rule of Eleven.

Declarer's main concern is to diagnose East's spade holding. If East started with four spades, which is unlikely, South will make the contract whatever he does — because his only losers are four spade tricks.

Equally, if East started with A-J-x, declarer will be unhorsed whatever he does, for the defense will promptly score five spade tricks.

The only situations that matter are where East has A-J bare — in which case South must duck and leave East hopelessly on lead — and where East has A-J-10, in which case South must cover the jack in order to block the suit and prevent it from being run.

According to the Rule of Eleven, declarer can tell by subtracting six (the card led) from eleven that the North, East and South hands contain five cards higher than the six.

Since those five cards—dummy's seven, South Q-9 and East's A-J — are fully accounted for, it follows that East cannot have started with the A-J-10 and that the only real chance of blocking the suit is to play East for the A-J doubleton.

Iowan Has Trouble Swallowing The Bait

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is either the most loving and Christian man in the world or he is trying to brainwash me for reasons of his own.

Tim says he loves me so much he wants me to have an affair with another man. He claims he wants my life to be complete and that he would not mind if I had a side romance, provided it didn't change my feelings for him.

Do you believe it is possible for a woman to take a lover and feel the same about her husband? I don't. I've told Tim I am unable to give myself just for kicks. I'm a one-man woman and I'll never change. I was a virgin when I married and I have no desire to have an affair.

Tim keeps hounding me—insists I am missing something. Have you ever heard of a husband urging his wife to be unfaithful because he wants her to enjoy life more? Sounds fishy to me. What do you say? —Iowa Dilly

Dear Dill: Sounds fishy to me, too. No man in his right mind would encourage his wife to have an affair just for the halibut.

There's something sick about Tim's suggestion. Either he wants to even the score because he has guilt feelings about his own philandering or he finds the mental image of you with another man sexually stimulating. In any event, stick to your principles and tell Tim to throw the idea back in the tank.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I just had to write and tell you I saw myself in your advice to Warren's mother. I hung on to my son too fiercely for too long. I kept telling myself the boy needed me because his father was weak. I made excuses for letting him come home from camp after two days (allergies), getting him excused from physical education (asthma) and letting him come home from college after ten days (skin rash). I encouraged him to break two engagements with girls who were lovely.

My "Warren" is now 29. He has no friends, male or female. All he wants to do is hang around me and my widowed friends. He is an overgrown baby and I am to blame. Thanks for letting me get this out of my system.—A Twin To Warren's Mother

Dear Mother: Getting it out of your system doesn't help your son much. Urge him to see a therapist and let's hope he is salvageable.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Here's the situation. I think I am pregnant. I am not married. The father of my unborn child is a nice guy but nobody I would care to marry. He probably wouldn't marry me anyway, so it's just as well that I'm not ape over him.

Is there any way I can arrange to give the baby away if it is a girl and keep it if it's a boy? Or must a girl make up her mind in advance and stick to it? Can I name the baby Jr. and use the father's last name? My last name is terrible and I'd hate to hang it on a kid. Please give me some advice.—Blue Eyes

Dear Eyes: The person in charge of the Home For Unwed Mothers will answer your first question. As for your second question please don't give your child the name of a man to whom you are not married. It would be a mess, and from the way your letter reads, you're going to have plenty of problems without this one.

Milliken Plans Five-Stop Fly-In On Pollution Tour

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken planned again today to set off on a five-stop flying tour of local antipollution programs across Lower Michigan.

The flying trip to Saginaw, Detroit, Benton Harbor, Muskegon and Grand Rapids, aboard a National Guard C-54, had been scheduled two weeks ago but was canceled when a sudden spring storm dumped eight to 16 inches of snow across the state's midsection.

"Our tour today," Milliken said in a statement from his office, "should serve to highlight the problems we face in the environment, outline in some detail the steps being taken to solve them and stimulate greater voluntary effort as well as greater state-local cooperation."

The tour's scheduled stops were aimed at stressing positive, successful pollution combat, in contrast to developments of recent weeks that kept Milliken and chief departmental aides on the defensive.

Tuition Up

ALLENDALE (AP) — Tuition and fees go up at Grand Valley State College this summer with an increase in dormitory room and board charges scheduled to take effect in the fall.

Tuition and fees for Michigan residents will rise $15 per term to $140. For nonresidents, the increase is $30 per term to $360. Room and board charges will be hiked $81 per academic year to $1,080.

Russ Leader, U.S. 'Boss' Share Some Of Same Ideas

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Observations from the world of business and finance:

—The top-ranking official in the world's most powerful Communist nation, and the top man in the largest manufacturing concern in the capitalist world, apparently share some thoughts.

In criticizing lagging labor productivity, Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's comments sounded a bit like those of James Roche, chairman of the board of General Motors Corp.

Wants Workers Penalised

In a television address this week to the Russian people, Brezhnev said:

"Many of our rank-and-file workers and many leading officials at times lack a heightened sense of responsibility and discipline. Some sectors of the economy fail year after year to fulfill their plan."

He demanded stiff penalties against shirkers and drunkards, and he reminded workers that each "has an interest in the improved functioning of enterprises."

In a speech several weeks ago to the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Roche complained that worker productivity was falling badly, that absenteeism had doubled in a decade, and that the quality of work was not what it should be.

Responsibility Cited

Roche said workers had a responsibility to produce quality in keeping with their demands for higher quality in the goods they buy. Like Brezhnev, he reminded workers that their efforts do indeed affect the total picture.

"Our ability to improve our standards of living depends directly on our willingness to work to create the goods and services we enjoy," Roche said.

—Boeing Co. officials are puzzled by the long lines that seem to develop near restrooms on the new 747s. The 12 facilities on most 747s were based on studies of prior usage on smaller planes. But for some reason, perhaps because they are free to roam about, 747 jumbo jet passengers seem to have changed their habits.

Nothing Confused?

—After months of pleading that a misbilling be corrected, a customer said to the service representative of a large utility: "Things must be pretty confused in your billing department."

"Oh no," she replied. "We've got only 10,000 similar situations now."

Told that this appeared to be a very high figure, she stated: "A few months ago we had 40,000."

The bookkeeping and paperwork breakdown illustrated by this conversation is considered by concerned observers, businessmen included, to be the ranking scandal of American business.

Broad Spectrum Involved

It involves a broad spectrum of business. On Wall Street, some firms have actually capitulated under a confusion of paper. In many retail stores, the flood of complaints is simply ignored. Some mail order houses are immersed in troubles.

Damage greater than what can be measured in dollars and cents may be the consequence of the breakdown. Frustrated in their attempts to communicate with business, customers often find that the only response they get is a threat to their credit rating.

Smoke from the funnels of the four big ore carriers and an occasional blast from one of the hoarse whistles, or from the light ship fog horn in the harbor, led to many conversations about the possible date for the opening of navigation here. Federal Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $415,000 federal grant has been awarded the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity to help provide program administration, neighborhood centers, community organization and senior opportunities and services.

Local contribution for the programs is $137,888.

U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said the grant was made by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

Sale of $1,600,000 in school bonds for construction of a new school (kindergarten through 12th grade) in the North Dickinson County School District was announced by Superintendent Stewart Oja. The bonds were sold to First of Michigan Corp. & Associates at an interest rate of 6.35202 per cent. Site of the new school, which is expected to be completed by September of 1971, will be on County Road 569 just east of the Groveland mine entrance road. The school district now has 530 children enrolled in the Channing and Felch areas. When the building is completed, Channing and Felch High Schools will become one school to be known as the North Dickinson County High School.

The Western Union telegraph office in Ironwood has found a new home. Company officials, who previously had announced that the office would be closed and the service relocated in the Kilponen Hardware Store, relented in the face of negative public opinion and will move the office to the Chicago & North Western Railroad depot.

Ronald L. Johnson, a graduate of Graveraet High School in Marquette, has been named principal of Crystal Falls Forest Park secondary school, grades 7 through 12, for the 1970-71 school year. He succeeds Walter Berglund, who will retire in June of 1970.

Industry, Environment Crusades Clash Headon

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A West German company, the BASF Corp., is suspending plans to build a $100 million chemical plant on the South Carolina coast until "responsible federal agencies" have passed judgment on the pollution risk to beach resort areas.

This is a good example of the new wariness about the need for protecting the environment, and it is certainly to be commended. It shows that Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel, once the object of suspicion in a conservation-minded U.S. Senate, is right on the ball in his zeal to make this a cleaner country.

Even so, there is a certain irony connected with it, for if any region needs new industries, it is the Carolina Low Country. The Negroes who remain there, resisting the urge to pile into the squalid slums of our northern cities, definitely need jobs; they suffer from hookworm, dysentery, and various deficiency diseases, and they can't make enough out of farming and shrimp catching to keep body and soul together.

The irony is that two crusades, both of them desirable, have clashed in the Carolina impasse. There is the crusade for a clean environment, and there is the crusade to decentralize our industry. Somehow the two crusades must be merged, for it is the congested cities, "spewing out their wastes," that are the chief menace to a decent life for 200 million Americans.

It so happens that, just as South Carolina was experiencing difficulties in its drive to attract new industry to its open countryside, a Presidential Task Force on Rural Development report, "A New Life for the Country," was reposing on Richard Nixon's White House desk.

The report looks at the drift to city life, and is properly horrified by what happens when bodies are impacted in rundown urban areas, when children become heroin pushers at the age of 12, and when rape and murder are so common that decent people barricade themselves in their homes at night.

The Task Force report addresses itself to the need for reversing what has been one of the "largest migrations in recorded history," a migration that has brought 25 million people from the rural areas into the cities in the past quarter of a century. Some three-fourths of our population now lives on two per cent of our land, which is a ridiculous waste of a country that is still wide open and beautiful no matter what its detractors may say.

The Task Force ticks off a number of things that might be done to restore the balance between city and country. It speaks of using tax incentives to lure businesses into the open spaces, and of building new "people-to-job" roads to get workers from their part-time farms to supplementary jobs in factories. It suggests a Rural Development Credit Bank, not for providing investment capital directly to farmers but to develop rural industries.

Somehow the Task Force recommendations sound wistful. Not that they aren't worthwhile in themselves, but they run up against all the things that the government has been doing to force the drift into the cities.

Franklin D. Roosevelt talked eloquently about restoring the balance between city and country, but his New Deal farm programs worked to displace the small farmer and encourage the development of large - scale corporate farming. This sort of thing still goes on. The big farmer used his support money to buy new tractors, better seed, more abundant fertilizer. However, the small farmer, lacking benefits in volume, couldn't afford the capital equipment to keep pace in a continually overproduced market. He has been crowded off the land.

Nevertheless, the balance between city and country may be redressed by a natural growth in repugnance to city life. A talent - hunting firm reports that it is increasingly difficult to recruit executives to work in big cities, particularly in New York. If this attitude snowballs we may see more and more corporations decentralizing their activities.

Yet if we are to hasten the day, we shall have to find ways to avoiding the South Carolina impasse. In moving to the country, our industries must recycle their wastes.

This is the technical problem to which our young "Earth Day" enthusiasts should be addressing themselves, which means that they should spend less time demonstrating and more time in their chemistry and biology laboratories.

Smoke from the funnels of the four big ore carriers and an occasional blast from one of the hoarse whistles, or from the light ship fog horn in the harbor, led to many conversations about the possible date for the opening of navigation here. Crews of the four boats are arriving and it was expected that all would be fully manned by the end of the week. This week also will see an official government inspection.

Russ Leader, U.S. 'Boss' Share Some Of Same Ideas

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Observations from the world of business and finance:

—The top-ranking official in the world's most powerful Communist nation, and the top man in the largest manufacturing concern in the capitalist world, apparently share some thoughts.

In criticizing lagging labor productivity, Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's comments sounded a bit like those of James Roche, chairman of the board of General Motors Corp.

Wants Workers Penalized

In a television address this week to the Russian people, Brezhnev said:

"Many of our rank-and-file workers and many leading officials at times lack a heightened sense of responsibility and discipline. Some sectors of the economy fail year after year to fulfill their plan."

He demanded stiff penalties against shirkers and drunkards, and he reminded workers that each "has an interest in the improved functioning of enterprises."

In a speech several weeks ago to the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Roche complained that worker productivity was falling badly, that absenteeism had doubled in a decade, and that the quality of work was not what it should be.

Responsibility Cited

Roche said workers had a responsibility to produce quality in keeping with their demands for higher quality in the goods they buy. Like Brezhnev, he reminded workers that their efforts do indeed affect the total picture.

"Our ability to improve our standards of living depends directly on our willingness to work to create the goods and services we enjoy," Roche said.

—Boeing Co. officials are puzzled by the long lines that seem to develop near restrooms on the new 747s. The 12 facilities on most 747s were based on studies of prior usage on smaller planes. But for some reason, perhaps because they are free to roam about, 747 jumbo jet passengers seem to have changed their habits.

Nothing Confused?

—After months of pleading that a misbilling be corrected, a customer said to the service representative of a large utility: "Things must be pretty confused in your billing department."

"Oh no," she replied. "We've got only 10,000 similar situations now."

Told that this appeared to be a very high figure, she stated: "A few months ago we had 40,000."

The bookkeeping and paperwork breakdown illustrated by this conversation is considered by concerned observers, businessmen included, to be the ranking scandal of American business.

Broad Spectrum Involved

It involves a broad spectrum of business. On Wall Street, some firms have actually capitulated under a confusion of paper. In many retail stores, the flood of complaints is simply ignored. Some mail order houses are immersed in troubles.

Damage greater than what can be measured in dollars and cents may be the consequence of the breakdown. Frustrated in their attempts to communicate with business, customers often find that the only response they get is a threat to their credit rating.

Federal Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $415,000 federal grant has been awarded the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity to help provide program administration, neighborhood centers, community organization and senior opportunities and services.

Local contribution for the programs is $137,888.

U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said the grant was made by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead—six of spades.

It is not uncommon for the outcome of a contract to hinge on the play of one card. Consequently, whenever declarer is faced with a situation where his decision on which card to play may make or break the contract ,he should direct every vestige of his energy and logic to that particular problem.

Consider this case where West leads a spade. East wins with the ace and returns the jack, and it is at this point that South must make the crucial decision of whether to play the queen or the nine.

If he puts on the queen, he goes down two; if he ducks, he winds up with nine ironclad tricks.

The question is how declarer can tell which play is more likely to succeed. The answer is actually quite simple — if you know the Rule of Eleven.

Declarer's main concern is to diagnose East's spade holding. If East started with four spades, which is unlikely, South will make the contract whatever he does — because his only losers are four spade tricks.

Equally, if East started with A-J-x, declarer will be unhorsed whatever he does, for the defense will promptly score five spade tricks.

The only situations that matter are where East has A-J bare — in which case South must duck and leave East hopelessly on lead — and where East has A-J-10, in which case South must cover the jack in order to block the suit and prevent it from being run.

According to the Rule of Eleven, declarer can tell by subtracting six (the card led) from eleven that the North, East and South hands contain five cards higher than the six.

Since those five cards—dummy's seven, South Q-9 and East's A-J — are fully accounted for, it follows that East cannot have started with the A-J-10 and that the only real chance of blocking the suit is to play East for the A-J doubleton.

Iowan Has Trouble Swallowing The Bait

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is either the most loving and Christian man in the world or he is trying to brainwash me for reasons of his own.

Tim says he loves me so much he wants me to have an affair with another man. He claims he wants my life to be complete and that he would not mind if I had a side romance, provided it didn't change my feelings for him.

Do you believe it is possible for a woman to take a lover and feel the same about her husband? I don't. I've told Tim I am unable to give myself just for kicks. I'm a one-man woman and I'll never change. I was a virgin when I married and I have no desire to have an affair.

Tim keeps hounding me—insists I am missing something. Have you ever heard of a husband urging his wife to be unfaithful because he wants her to enjoy life more? Sounds fishy to me. What do you say? —Iowa Dilly

Dear Dill: Sounds fishy to me, too. No man in his right mind would encourage his wife to have an affair just for the halibut.

There's something sick about Tim's suggestion. Either he wants to even the score because he has guilt feelings about his own philandering or he finds the mental image of you with another man sexually stimulating. In any event, stick to your principles and tell Tim to throw the idea back in the tank.

Dear Ann Landers: I just had to write and tell you I saw myself in your advice to Warren's mother. I hung on to my son too fiercely for too long. I kept telling myself the boy needed me because his father was weak. I made excuses for letting him come home from camp after two days (allergies), getting him excused from physical education (asthma) and letting him come home from college after ten days (skin rash). I encouraged him to break two engagements with girls who were lovely.

My "Warren" is now 29. He has no friends, male or female. All he wants to do is hang around me and my widowed friends. He is an overgrown baby and I am to blame. Thanks for letting me get this out of my system.—A Twin To Warren's Mother

Dear Mother: Getting it out of your system doesn't help your son much. Urge him to see a therapist and let's hope he is salvageable.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's the situation. I think I am pregnant. I am not married. The father of my unborn child is a nice guy but nobody I would care to marry. He probably wouldn't marry me anyway, so it's just as well that I'm not ape over him.

Is there any way I can arrange to give the baby away if it is a girl and keep it if it's a boy? Or must a girl make up her mind in advance and stick to it? Can I name the baby Jr. and use the father's last name? My last name is terrible and I'd hate to hang it on a kid. Please give me some advice.—Blue Eyes

Dear Eyes: The person in charge of the Home For Unwed Mothers will answer your first question. As for your second question please don't give your child the name of a man to whom you are not married. It would be a mess, and from the way your letter reads, you're going to have plenty of problems without this one.

Milliken Plans Five-Stop Fly-In On Pollution Tour

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken planned again today to set off on a five-stop flying tour of local antipollution programs across Lower Michigan.

The flying trip to Saginaw, Detroit, Benton Harbor, Muskegon and Grand Rapids, aboard a National Guard C-54, had been scheduled two weeks ago but was canceled when a sudden spring storm dumped eight to 16 inches of snow across the state's midsection.

"Our tour today," Milliken said in a statement from his office, "should serve to highlight the problems we face in the environment, outline in some detail the steps being taken to solve them and stimulate greater voluntary effort as well as greater state-local cooperation."

The tour's scheduled stops were aimed at stressing positive, successful pollution combat, in contrast to developments of recent weeks that kept Milliken and chief departmental aides on the defensive.

Tuition Up

ALLENDALE (AP) — Tuition and fees go up at Grand Valley State College this summer with an increase in dormitory room and board charges scheduled to take effect in the fall.

Tuition and fees for Michigan residents will rise $15 per term to $140. For nonresidents, the increase is $30 per term to $360. Room and board charges will be hiked $81 per academic year to $1,080.

St. Clair Waters Closed To Fishing By Milliken

LANSING (AP) — Michigan waters of the Mercury - contaminated St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair are closed to fishing by executive order of Gov. William Milliken.

The closure, effective at 1 p.m. today, follows similar steps taken several days earlier by Canada.

Banned By Canada

However, Canada also banned fishing in the Detroit River. Michigan has not.

Milliken, in announcing over the weekend his intention to declare the St. Clair closures, said he did not have enough information to justify it for the Detroit River as well.

Violators of the closure order are subject to a fine of up to $100 and a jail term of up to 90 days.

In signing the closure order, Milliken also said he will propose legislation soon to require "registration of processes, materials and manufacturing products in Michigan and the content and volume of waste discharges" into state waters. "I am also evaluating alternative methods of expanding the state's capabilities for monitoring and surveillance necessary to increase protection of the state's waters," he said.

Question Evaded

The governor has sidestepped the question of legal action against companies responsible for mercury pollution, and said the important matter is stopping pollution in the future.

Meanwhile, Ohio Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown announced his state would bring suit against Dow Chemical Co. of Sarnia, Ont., and Wyandotte Chemical of Detroit.

Ohio has banned commercial fishing on its side of Lake Erie.

Brown said he expects attorneys in adjoining states to join in the lawsuit. Leon Cohan, deputy attorney general for Michigan, said Michigan legal authorities had not yet been contacted and he did not know whether the state would join in such a suit.

Lawsuit Planned

Meanwhile, Ohio Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown announced his state would bring suit against Dow Chemical Co. of Sarnia, Ont., and Wyandotte Chemical Co. of Detroit and an Ontario official said the province is studying legal technicalities of launching its own suit against the two chemical companies.

George Kerr, Ontario energy and resources minister, also says the province has begun issuing invitations to both American and Canadian government leaders to attend an international conference on pollution that may be held in Toronto in June.

Charges Denied

Donald Collins, chairman of the Ontario Water Resources Commission denied Ohio's charges Tuesday that Ontario is a primary contributor to Great Lakes pollution.

Collins told a meeting of Kent County municipalities that 97 per cent of the pollutants dumped into the Detroit River come from Michigan and charged that Ohio also is contributing "massive doses" of pollutants to its own waterways such as the Maumee River. He suggested pollution control in the state is less effective than Ontario's.

A flock of 1,000 starlings will consume about 65 lbs. of feed in one day.

Cattle Farmers Asking Top 'Cut'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen say they will produce plenty of beef for expanding consumer appetites, but only if prices remain high and the federal government keeps its nose out.

"We think, and we're confident, that the cattle industry is going to continue to produce beef at a rate which would allow a further increase in the per capita level of consumption," says C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association.

"But we need to be sure to have the economic incentive to do it," McMillan said during an interview with ANCA leaders. "Of course, this is reflected in prices."

William D. Farr, ANCA president, whose feedlots near Greeley, Colo., turn out nearly 20,000 tons of quality beef annually, said today's cattle prices—generally the highest in many years—would provide such incentive.

The ANCA remarks followed a congressional committee action last Thursday which turned back a report calling for more federal supervision of the cattle business.

The report, written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., urged Congress to set up a special commission to determine "the adequacy of the meat supply" at all marketing levels from ranches to supermarkets.

The report also said present U.S. meat import quota regulations were detrimental to consumers by restricting the amount of foreign beef allowed to come into this country.

Farr and other cattlemen opposed the recommendation and effectively lobbied last week against the report.

St. Clair Waters Closed To Fishing By Milliken

LANSING (AP) — Michigan waters of the Mercury - contaminated St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair are closed to fishing by executive order of Gov. William Milliken.

The closure, effective at 1 p.m. today, follows similar steps taken several days earlier by Canada.

Banned By Canada

However, Canada also banned fishing in the Detroit River. Michigan has not.

Milliken, in announcing over the weekend his intention to declare the St. Clair closures, said he did not have enough information to justify it for the Detroit River as well.

Violators of the closure order are subject to a fine of up to $100 and a jail term of up to 90 days.

In signing the closure order, Milliken also said he will propose legislation soon to require "registration of processes, materials and manufacturing products in Michigan and the content and volume of waste discharges" into state waters. "I am also evaluating alternative methods of expanding the state's capabilities for monitoring and surveillance necessary to increase protection of the state's waters," he said.

Question Evaded

The governor has sidestepped the question of legal action against companies responsible for mercury pollution, and said the important matter is stopping pollution in the future.

Meanwhile, Ohio Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown announced his state would bring suit against Dow Chemical Co. of Sarnia, Ont., and Wyandotte Chemical of Detroit.

Ohio has banned commercial fishing on its side of Lake Erie.

Brown said he expects attorneys in adjoining states to join in the lawsuit. Leon Cohan, deputy attorney general for Michigan, said Michigan legal authorities had not yet been contacted and he did not know whether the state would join in such a suit.

Lawsuit Planned

Meanwhile, Ohio Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown announced his state would bring suit against Dow Chemical Co. of Sarnia, Ont., and Wyandotte Chemical Co. of Detroit and an Ontario official said the province is studying legal technicalities of launching its own suit against the two chemical companies.

George Kerr, Ontario energy and resources minister, also says the province has begun issuing invitations to both American and Canadian government leaders to attend an international conference on pollution that may be held in Toronto in June.

Charges Denied

Donald Collins, chairman of the Ontario Water Resources Commission denied Ohio's charges Tuesday that Ontario is a primary contributor to Great Lakes pollution.

Collins told a meeting of Kent County municipalities that 97 per cent of the pollutants dumped into the Detroit River come from Michigan and charged that Ohio also is contributing "massive doses" of pollutants to its own waterways such as the Maumee River. He suggested pollution control in the state is less effective than Ontario's.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

"POOFF SMOOCH"-Actress Juli Reding, president of POOFF (Preservation of Our Feminity and Finances), smooches the cheek of Kemmons Wilson, Holiday Inns head, in Fort Smith, Ark., for his support of the organization's campaign to retain mini-skirts. The other lovely is Mrs. Lance Reventlow. They were in Fort Smith for opening of a Minitek theater, a joint venture of United Artists Theatres and Holiday.

A flock of 1,000 starlings will consume about 65 lbs. of feed in one day.

Cattle Farmers Asking Top 'Cut'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen say they will produce plenty of beef for expanding consumer appetites, but only if prices remain high and the federal government keeps its nose out.

"We think, and we're confident, that the cattle industry is going to continue to produce beef at a rate which would allow a further increase in the per capita level of consumption," says C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association.

"But we need to be sure to have the economic incentive to do it," McMillan said during an interview with ANCA leaders. "Of course, this is reflected in prices."

William D. Farr, ANCA president, whose feedlots near Greeley, Colo., turn out nearly 20,000 tons of quality beef annually, said today's cattle prices—generally the highest in many years—would provide such incentive.

The ANCA remarks followed a congressional committee action last Thursday which turned back a report calling for more federal supervision of the cattle business.

The report, written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., urged Congress to set up a special commission to determine "the adequacy of the meat supply" at all marketing levels from ranches to supermarkets.

The report also said present U.S. meat import quota regulations were detrimental to consumers by restricting the amount of foreign beef allowed to come into this country.

Farr and other cattlemen opposed the recommendation and effectively lobbied last week against the report.

Agnew Wrong About U-M, Governor Milliken Claims

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An aide to Michigan Gov. William Milliken said Tuesday he plans to voice a private complaint to Vice President Spiro Agnew about Agnew's attack on the University of Michigan.

Milliken, a Republican, said Agnew was "wrong" in leveling criticism at the university during a speech at Des Moines, Iowa, Monday.

Agnew charged University president Robben Fleming with "surrender" in negotiating with black students and a "callow retreat from reality" by meeting the demands of the Black Action Movement.

10 Per Cent Blacks

The university agreed to try for a 10 per cent black enrollment by the 1973-74 school year.

A spokeman for Milliken said the governor would "make his views known" to Agnew, perhaps while the governor is in Washington Thursday for a Republican leadership conference.

Milliken said, in reacting to the Agnew speech that the Vice President "did not have as much information as did the elected board of regents in making its decision." Milliken added that Michigan will "continue to be" one of the nation's leading universities.

Lowering Standards?

Agnew charged that by admitting what he called "unqualified" students, the University of Michigan would be lowering its standards and reputation.

Michigan's president Robben Fleming said Tuesday "We do not wish to apologize in any way, we are proud" of our program. Felming said that Agnew was "very badly informed, among other things" in regards the black student enrollment program at the Ann Arbor school.

Fleming Strikes Back

Fleming said that in the United States "we say we stand for equality of educational opportunity. If we mean that we should open the university to the black student population who have been disadvantaged for so long."

Fleming said that Agnew "concludes that the students admitted would be unqualified, while in fact "they will be most able to compete at the university, perhaps with a little help" to make up for their academic background in certain areas.

Fleming called race relations in the nation "a cancer, and if we are not ready to move, then we are in a sorry state."

Apology Asked

Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, majority leader in the state House of Representatives said "If Vice President Agnew opens his mouth again, it should only be to apologize to the regents, administration, faculty and students."

Montgomery, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said Agnew's speech represented an "irresponsible and malicious attempt to interfere with the affairs of the people of the state."

Gardner Ackley, Henry Carter Adam's professor of economics at Michigan and former United States Ambassador to Italy, who was quoted by Agnew in his speech said Tuesday "I very much resent the fact that the Vice President has used a sketchy and rather misleading newspaper report of my remarks at a faculty meeting several weeks ago to support his unwarranted attack on the University of Michigan."

Campus Authority Hit

Ackley said the quotes used by Agnew were "not directed at the 10 per cent black enrollment program, which I support, but to campus authority during student unrest."

Ackley also commented on the Agnew statement about Italian universities' devalued diplomas. Ackley said "as a student of Italian history and affairs his (Agnew's) remarks are incomprehensible and completely irrevelent to the U.S. situation."

William Keast, president of Wayne State University in Detroit supported Fleming's statement and said in a telegram to President Nixon, "I deplore (Agnew's) irresponsible and inaccurate remarks on the complex problems of extending opportunity in higher education to black students."

Not His Concern?

When asked at a news conference Tuesday if the Dniversity of Michigan was the "proper" concern of the Vice President, Robben Fleming said "well, I suppose if one is Vice President then he can concern himself with anything around the country, and he does."

Births

THELANDER — A daughter, weighing 6 pounds and 6½ ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thelander, 430 Delto Ave., on Sunday, Apr. 12, at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital. The mother is the former Mary Lou Selling.

Police Discover Stolen Goods In Own Department

ROOSEVELT PARK (AP) — The trail of one of 16 typewriters stolen during an August, 1968 burglary at Kenowa Hills High School near Grand Rapids led right to the police station in this Muskegon suburb.

Lawrence Flynn, a Kent County sheriff's deputy, said one of the typewriters was used at the police station for more than a year after its purchase from a local businessman.

Police Chief Dale A. DeMarr, a bit embarrassed by the incident, said the department had no idea the typewriter was stolen. DeMarr helped recover six other stolen machines in the Muskegon area but thus far no charges have been filed against anyone in the case.

PO Job Okayed

CADILLAC (AP) — Rep. Guy VanderJadt, R-Mich., says construction of a new post office has been approved for Cadillac.

The city is currently using a post office that is more than 60 years old. Construction of the new building is expected to begin within the year, the Cadillac congressman said. No cost figures for the building were announced.

Hospital

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital over the weekend were Dawn Russell, Harold Rochefort, Gladys Scott, Josephine Derwin, Al Lavigne, Lorraine Ozanich, Robert Burton, Patricia Stapleton, Mary Lou Thelander, Emily Anderson and Myron Moore.

MISS HELEN VOISINE, cooperative vocational distribution education teacher at the Manistique High School, will serve as a member of the advisory committee to the Center for Vocational and Technical Education at Ohio State University. Her appointment was recommended by Richard J. Shupe, state supervisor for cooperative vocational distributive education in Michigan. The committee will work on developing programs for professional preparation of vocational and technical teachers of disadvantaged youths and teacher-coordinators of cooperative programs. Miss Voisine, who formerly worked in retailing in the Detroit area, taught in Detroit schools and at Wayne State University, holds both a B.A. and M. A. from Wayne.

Briefly Told

Michigan State Police ticketed William B. Johnson, Escanaba, and John Froese, Waterloo, Ont., for speeding on Monday.

Troopers report an automobile driven by Rose M. MacGregor of Gulliver struck and killed a deer at 8:45 Monday morning in Doyle Township on U.S. 2.

Cheese pizza, buttered green beans, fruit and beverage is the hot lunch menu for Thursday in the Manistique Area Schools.

Lakeside School PTA meets Thursday at 8 p.m. with the first grade mothers as hostesses.

The Cooks School will hold its annual Carnival on Thursday, April 16 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Games and prizes for all who attend. A ten-cent admission fee will be charged

MANISTIQUE

Library Week Will Be Observed Here

National Library Week is being observed with special projects being inaugurated in honor of the occasion at the Manistique School and Public Library.

The library is emphasizing the theme "Read-Look-Listen" with the emphasis on listening. A cassette check-out service has been stated with a listening station installed so patrons may use tapes available from the school audio-visual department. Posters, book marks, lapel buttons and bumper stickers (imploring the looker to "Follow me to the Library") are available for distribution.

Board of Education members are to be special guests of the Library Advisory Board at their regular luncheon meeting Thursday in the Conference Room of the high school.

A Story Hour is scheduled for Saturday morning at 10:30 and all children three years and older are invited to attend the program at the library.

In cooperation with the Bureau of Library Services, Blind and Physically Handicapped Library in Lansing, the local library has received a Talking Book machine and a pilot program is being inaugurated. Complete novels, biographies, non-fiction material and periodicals are on records for use by the blind and physically handicapped and will be demonstrated during the next month.

Library personnel have issued an invitation to old and new patrons to stop in and browse.

Women's Club Hosts Senior Girls At Tea

Graduating senior girls from the 1970 class of the Manistique High School were guests of the Manistique Women's Club at their annual Senior Girls Tea Tuesday afternoon at the Surf.

About 75 girls attended the one o'clock dessert which featured a spring and summer fashion show, courtesy of Northern Woolen Goods Store. Miss Helen Voisine was narator with organ music provided by James Malloy.

Models included Roberta Ebli, Mary Cockram, Patricia Slining, Meg Moffat, Barbara Beaton, Marlene Pawley, Karen Jetty and Juli Garber.

Mrs. J.P. Quick entended the welcome. Mrs. Clyde Strasler and Mrs. Charles Varnum were co-chairmen of the hostess committee.

Mrs. Mercier Gets Auxiliary Award

Mrs. Gladys Mercier received the Margaret Anderson Membership Trophy during the spring rally of posts and auxiliaries held at Flat Rock last Sunday. Attending from Manistique were Clifford Lambert, Post 83 Commander, Mrs. Wallace Peck, Mrs. Martha Malloch, Mrs. Lalla Martin, and Mrs. Mercier who is auxiliary president.

At a recent auxiliary meeting, the group wrote letters which will be sent to a state officer who will group them with other communications requesting the Hanoi government to release prisoners of war held in North Vietnam. Plans were also announced for the annual Poppy Day sale in May.

Anyone desiring to bup antenna flags for cars should contact Mrs. Mercier at 341-5172 or any other Auxiliary member.

The Auxiliary also announced they had purchased a library memorial book in honor of Mrs. J. Joseph Herbert.

Game awards went to Mrs. Clara Whitman and Mrs. George Stephens. Next meeting will be May 13 at the Lakeside School.

Agnew Wrong About U-M, Governor Milliken Claims

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An aide to Michigan Gov. William Milliken said Tuesday he plans to voice a private complaint to Vice President Spiro Agnew about Agnew's attack on the University of Michigan.

Milliken, a Republican, said Agnew was "wrong" in leveling criticism at the university during a speech at Des Moines, Iowa, Monday.

Agnew charged University president Robben Fleming with "surrender" in negotiating with black students and a "callow retreat from reality" by meeting the demands of the Black Action Movement.

10 Per Cent Blacks

The university agreed to try for a 10 per cent black enrollment by the 1973-74 school year.

A spokeman for Milliken said the governor would "make his views known" to Agnew, perhaps while the governor is in Washington Thursday for a Republican leadership conference.

Milliken said, in reacting to the Agnew speech that the Vice President "did not have as much information as did the elected board of regents in making its decision." Milliken added that Michigan will "continue to be" one of the nation's leading universities.

Lowering Standards?

Agnew charged that by admitting what he called "unqualified" students, the University of Michigan would be lowering its standards and reputation.

Michigan's president Robben Fleming said Tuesday "We do not wish to apologize in any way, we are proud" of our program. Felming said that Agnew was "very badly informed, among other things" in regards the black student enrollment program at the Ann Arbor school.

Fleming Strikes Back

Fleming said that in the United States "we say we stand for equality of educational opportunity. If we mean that we should open the university to the black student population who have been disadvantaged for so long."

Fleming said that Agnew "concludes that the students admitted would be unqualified, while in fact "they will be most able to compete at the university, perhaps with a little help" to make up for their academic background in certain areas.

Fleming called race relations in the nation "a cancer, and if we are not ready to move, then we are in a sorry state."

Apology Asked

Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, majority leader in the state House of Representatives said "If Vice President Agnew opens his mouth again, it should only be to apologize to the regents, administration, faculty and students."

Montgomery, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said Agnew's speech represented an "irresponsible and malicious attempt to interfere with the affairs of the people of the state."

Gardner Ackley, Henry Carter Adam's professor of economics at Michigan and former United States Ambassador to Italy, who was quoted by Agnew in his speech said Tuesday "I very much resent the fact that the Vice President has used a sketchy and rather misleading newspaper report of my remarks at a faculty meeting several weeks ago to support his unwarranted attack on the University of Michigan."

Campus Authority Hit

Ackley said the quotes used by Agnew were "not directed at the 10 per cent black enrollment program, which I support, but to campus authority during student unrest."

Ackley also commented on the Agnew statement about Italian universities' devalued diplomas. Ackley said "as a student of Italian history and affairs his (Agnew's) remarks are incomprehensible and completely irrevelent to the U.S. situation."

William Keast, president of Wayne State University in Detroit supported Fleming's statement and said in a telegram to President Nixon, "I deplore (Agnew's) irresponsible and inaccurate remarks on the complex problems of extending opportunity in higher education to black students."

Not His Concern?

When asked at a news conference Tuesday if the Dniversity of Michigan was the "proper" concern of the Vice President, Robben Fleming said "well, I suppose if one is Vice President then he can concern himself with anything around the country, and he does."

Police Discover Stolen Goods In Own Department

ROOSEVELT PARK (AP) — The trail of one of 16 typewriters stolen during an August, 1968 burglary at Kenowa Hills High School near Grand Rapids led right to the police station in this Muskegon suburb.

Lawrence Flynn, a Kent County sheriff's deputy, said one of the typewriters was used at the police station for more than a year after its purchase from a local businessman.

Police Chief Dale A. DeMarr, a bit embarrassed by the incident, said the department had no idea the typewriter was stolen. DeMarr helped recover six other stolen machines in the Muskegon area but thus far no charges have been filed against anyone in the case.

PO Job Okayed

CADILLAC (AP) — Rep. Guy VanderJadt, R-Mich., says construction of a new post office has been approved for Cadillac.

The city is currently using a post office that is more than 60 years old. Construction of the new building is expected to begin within the year, the Cadillac congressman said. No cost figures for the building were announced.

Hospital

Births

THELANDER — A daughter, weighing 6 pounds and 6½ ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thelander, 430 Delto Ave., on Sunday, Apr. 12, at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital. The mother is the former Mary Lou Selling.

MISS HELEN VOISINE, cooperative vocational distribution education teacher at the Manistique High School, will serve as a member of the advisory committee to the Center for Vocational and Technical Education at Ohio State University. Her appointment was recommended by Richard J. Shupe, state supervisor for cooperative vocational distributive education in Michigan. The committee will work on developing programs for professional preparation of vocational and technical teachers of disadvantaged youths and teacher-coordinators of cooperative programs. Miss Voisine, who formerly worked in retailing in the Detroit area, taught in Detroit schools and at Wayne State University, holds both a B.A. and M. A. from Wayne.

MANISTIQUE

Library Week Will Be Observed Here

National Library Week is being observed with special projects being inaugurated in honor of the occasion at the Manistique School and Public Library.

The library is emphasizing the theme "Read-Look-Listen" with the emphasis on listening. A cassette check-out service has been stated with a listening station installed so patrons may use tapes available from the school audio-visual department. Posters, book marks, lapel buttons and bumper stickers (imploring the looker to "Follow me to the Library") are available for distribution.

Board of Education members are to be special guests of the Library Advisory Board at their regular luncheon meeting Thursday in the Conference Room of the high school.

A Story Hour is scheduled for Saturday morning at 10:30 and all children three years and older are invited to attend the program at the library.

In cooperation with the Bureau of Library Services, Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library in Lansing, the local library has received a Talking Book machine and a pilot program is being inaugurated. Complete novels, biographies, non-fiction material and periodicals are on records for use by the blind and physically handicapped and will be demonstrated during the next month.

Library personnel have issued an invitation to old and new patrons to stop in and browse.

Women's Club Hosts Senior Girls At Tea

Graduating senior girls from the 1970 class of the Manistique High School were guests of the Manistique Women's Club at their annual Senior Girls Tea Tuesday afternoon at the Surf.

About 75 girls attended the one o'clock dessert which featured a spring and summer fashion show, courtesy of Northern Woolen Goods Store. Miss Helen Voisine was narator with organ music provided by James Malloy.

Models included Roberta Ebli, Mary Cockram, Patricia Slining, Meg Moffat, Barbara Beaton, Marlene Pawley, Karen Jetty and Juli Garber.

Mrs. J.P. Quick entended the welcome. Mrs. Clyde Strasler and Mrs. Charles Varnum were co-chairmen of the hostess committee.

Being A Southpaw Has Its Drawbacks

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Are you a cuddy wifter, maybe buck-fisted, coochy-handed, kayneived, gibble-fisted or dolly-pawed?

Dr. Harold Orton, visiting professor of English at the University of Tennessee, says these expressions are just a few of the 88 ways the English have of saying left-handed.

Orton, professor emeritus at the University of Leeds in England, discovered the expressions while compiling his 12-volume "Survey of English Dialects."

Orton, who retired in 1964, is teaching courses in history of the English language at UT.

Rev. John Marrs

Rev. J. Marrs To Headline Church Conclave

The Rev. John Marrs is one of several speakers to present, "Missions Today," at the Calvary Baptist Church of Escanaba during the annual missionary conference to be held April 15-19. This year the missionary emphasis will be on missions at home and around the world.

Beginning this evening a missionary filmstrip on Argentina and the working of God in this country will be shown, with special prayer for the conference.

Thursday evening, the Rev. David Swanson will share the work of the home mission pastor as he relates the beginning of and establishing of new churches in new communities.

Friday evening the Rev. William Murray will be the guest speaker. He is a missionary on furlough from mission work in Ethiopia. Saturday evening the Rev. Elmer Johnson, director of the Great Lakes Baptist Conference will speak on the subject of missions as it relates to the local church in the community.

Sunday, the Rev. John Marrs, missionary from Brazil, will speak at the morning service. Rev. Marrs is a veteran missionary and will tell of the work of God in the South American countries.

Sunday evening the film, "Unanswered Island," will be shown. The film tells of the lives of two young men in the city of Cebu in the Philippine Islands.

All of the evening meetings will begin at 7 in the sanctuary of the church and question and answer sessions will be held at all meetings except the Sunday morning service which begins at 11 a.m. All area persons are invited to attend. The church is located across from the U.P. Fairgrounds.

Save Our Air Report:

Odors Are Discovered At Oregon Kraft Mill

By DAVE ANDREWS

An American Can Co., pulp mill more than 2,000 miles from the Upper Peninsula took on added significance today in the local and state controversy over plans of the Mead Corp., to build a kraft process pulp mill at the Escanaba Paper Co.

The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save our Air indicated Tuesday night that it would pursue its objections to the Mead Corp., plans at a meeting of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission in Lansing next Tuesday on the basis of a report developed on the Halsey, Ore., mill by Ray Sabuco of Escanaba, a member of the SOA committee.

An application by Mead Corp., for a construction permit to build a 700-ton, $65 million pulp mill at the Escanaba Paper Co., will be considered by the Air Pollution Control Commission at 10 a. m.

Two Day Visit

Sabuco spent two days in Halsey, Ore., earlier this month investigating air pollution conditions in the area following a report to the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission last month by Bernard Bloomfield of the State Health Department that the American Can Co., operation is "essentially odor free." The report substantiated the contention of Mead Corp., that modern technology has made it possible to construct a kraft pulp mill without creating an air pollution (odor) problem.

Sabuco, John Walbridge and Amer Pederson of the Save Our Air group indicated Tuesday night at a meeting at Marco's Restaurant that they would challenge the state report on the basis of Sabuco's findings.

"The results of this (Sabuco's trip to Oregon) just reinforce my contention that there's never been a kraft mill built that doesn't smell," Walbridge said. "My firm conviction is that if a kraft mill is built it's going to change the character of the community."

48 Interviews

Sabuco, who reported on his findings to a group of residents and Escanaba, Gladstone and Delta County governmental leaders, said he interviewed 48 residents of the Halsey area.

Two persons found the odors objectionable all the time, 12 found it objectionable some of the time (twice or more per week), 33 found it objectionable some of the time, but not too bad, and one person never smelled it at all.

The interviews all were conducted within a three and a half mile radius of the American Can Co., mill, he said.

Sabuco said the key factor in odor in the area is wind direction.

The American Can mill is located west of Halsey, a town of about 440 population in the Willamette Valley, and the prevailing winds in the valley are north and south. Consequently, he said, the residents of the community generally do not encounter odors from American Can Co., unless winds blow from the west.

Two Other Mills

He also said residents of the area are influenced by odor from kraft mills at Albany, 16 miles north, and Springfield, 31 miles south, from mills which he termed two "of the worst polluters in the nation."

"The only time people in Halsey find odors from the American Can Co., mill objectionable is when the wind is out of the west for a considerable length of time, which is rarely the case," he said.

Sabuco, who showed a short film taken at Halsey, said he did not contact any officials from American Can Co., because his sole purpose was to determine the environmental impact of the mill on the residents of the area.

Sabuco said that when he first arrived in Halsey, about 5 a. m., April 6, the air was heavy and a light rain was falling. Temperature was 47 degrees and wind was out of the southwest at about three miles per hour.

Odor In Area

"Odors of hydrogen sulfide permeated the entire area around the American Can Co. The odors varied from a trace one mile from the plant in a southerly segment to very objectionable in the northerly segment as far as three miles from the plant."

Later in the day, he reported, the weather cleared and "there were no noticeable odors in the southern segment from the plant and only a trace as far away as three miles in the northern segment."

Early in the morning (4:30 a. m.) on April 7, Sabuco also said "no odors noticeable anywhere in the area except a trace as far as three miles to the north."

As far as his interviews, Sabuco said "it was necessary that I interview people of the area in which I could find the people and that was mostly in the towi of Halsey. Halsey is away from the prevailing winds that pass the mill, therefore, out of the "stink" zone. Those people whose homes were in line with the prevailing winds, did, in fact, smell objectionable odors much of the time."

For Michigan Week:

Youth Symphony Coming May 14

The 125 - member Michigan Youth Symphony will play in Escanaba and three other Upper Peninsula cities as a highlight of Michigan Week.

On its first visit to the U. P., the Youth Symphony will play at Escanaba in William Oliver Auditorium at 7:30 p. m., May 14, followed by concerts at Marquette, Houghton and Sault Ste. Marie.

Harry B. Welliver, chairman of the Michigan Week Cultural Activities Committee, said expenses of the tour are being underwritten by the Mott Foundation, together with local sponsoring groups. Tour participants will be lodged at homes of high school musicians in three Upper Michigan communities and at Michigan Tech dormitories after their concerts.

The 1,200 mile tour will be made in three buses which will depart from Dearborn, Ann Arbor and Flint on May 14. Dr. Orien E. Dalley, founder, director and conductor of the Michigan Youth Symphony arranged the tour.

Welliver termed the Upper Michigan visit of the 21-year-old orchestra "a new and heartening profile of young Americans of varied origins and backgrounds fused together in an unusual cultural organization."

A nonprofit group, the youthful orchestra is sponsored by the University of Michigan School of Music and the U. of M's Extension Service.

Proceeds from the more than 200 performances it has given through the years have gone into music scholarships or the advancement of local community programs.

The orchestra members, ranging in age from 12 to 22, are serious music students from areas within a 150 mile radius of Ann Arbor. Rehearsals are held every other Saturday with some students driving 300 miles over the weekend to participate.

In addition to the Upper Michigan tour, the orchestra schedule this year includes appearances at eight Michigan cities —Howell, Marshall, Grosse Ile, Tecumseh, Dearborn, Bay City, Flint and Jackson.

League Aids In Representation Petition Drive

The Escanaba League of Women Voters will participate in a nationwide drive April 15-22 to win congressional representation for the 800,000 residents of Washington, D.C., Dorrine Anderson, Gladstone, Escanaba League President announced.

"Although some of our members have been collecting signatures already," said Mrs. Anderson, "most of our efforts will coincide with the national drive during those eight days."

The League-sponsored petition calls for a constitutional amendment granting a congressional voice to Washington, D. C., residents.

Escanaba League members are working with instructors and students in area high schools and Bay de Noc Community College to collect signatures. By April 23 the drive will be over and all petitions will be sent to the State League office to be taken to Washington, said Mrs. Anderson.

Petitions from all over the country will be formally presented to Congress during the League of Women Voters National Convention in Washington May 4-8.

Nationally, the League hopes to get one million signatures. The Escanaba League has set a goal of 500-700 signatures, 10-15 per member.

Ruppe To Visit Delta County

WASHINGTON D.C.—Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton) has scheduled a visit to Delta County Friday.

Included in the Congressman's schedule are office hours in both Escanaba and Gladstone, a speech before an assembly of students at Escanaba Area High School, and a dinner address at the annual meeting of the Delta County Soil Conservation Service.

Rupp's office hours in the Gladstone City Hall are scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon and all area residents are invited to discuss problems they may have regarding the federal government. Office hours in Escanaba are scheduled in the Civil Service room of the Escanaba Post Office from 3 to 5 p.m.

In a speech before the student body at the Escanaba Area High School, Ruppe will discuss "The Environmental Dilemma," describing the options and choices which face the nation in the field of pollution control.

Saturday, Ruppe will travel to Iron Mountain and Ishpeming before going to lower Michigan for office hours at Cheboygan, Otsego and Charlevox counties.

Wednesday, April 22, Ruppe will participate in the environmental teach in at Alpena Community College.

Heads Group

MIDLAND (AP)—Edgar Madden, chairman of the English department at Northwood Institute, has been named the head of the executive committee of the Midwest Regional Conference on English for the next academic year. He was named at a recent meeting in Minneapolis, at which more than 300 English professors from 13 states attended.

'Reserve' Month

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed April as U.S. Army Reserve Month in Michigan, saying that "members of the Army reserve have chosen to mark their 62nd anniversary selflessly by participating in programs aimed to make their communities better places in which to live."

Dufour Loses Damage Suit

MARQUETTE — After listening to four days of testimony and deliberating for five hours a jury of eight men and four women returned a "no cause of action" in a $25,000 civil suit in U.S. District Court here, Judge W. Wallace Kent, Kalamazoo, presiding.

The trial opened last Tuesday and the case went to the jury Friday, when court was recessed for the weekend. The jury resumed deliberations Monday morning and returned its verdict in the afternoon.

Terry Dufour, Escanaba, was seeking a $25,000 judgment from Stephen A. and Thomas E. Malato, Chicago, for injuries sustained in an automobile accident. It occurred on April 20, 1968, on highway U.S. 41 near the Marquette city limits.

Attorneys were Robert W. Hansley, Escanaba, for Dufour and John E. McDonald, Marquette, for the Malatos.

Area Men Named To Task Force

LANSING — Gov. William Milliken today appointed three Upper Peninsula members to the Advisory Task Force to the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, including Rev. Louis Cappo, pastor of St. Anne's Church in Escanaba, and John W. Moffat of Manistique, vice president and general manager of Inland Lime & Stone Co.

Also appointed were Roger C. Williams of Menominee and Myrton M. Riggs, editor and publisher of the Cheboygan Daily Tribune. Williams, president of the Menominee Publishing Co. and editor and publisher of the Menominee Harold-Leader, is president of Bay Graphics, Inc., a printing sales firm, and president of the Menominee Area Chamber of Commerce.

Fr. Cappo has been active in community development work throughout the Upper Peninsula for many years. He formerly served on the Michigan Tourist Council and now is chairman of the Economic Development Committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress (UPCAP).

Moffat, is a former member of the Board of Trustees of the Michigan Tech Development Fund, former director of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, and former member of the Manistique Area Board of Education advisory committee.

Riggs is a former president of the North Central Health Facilities Planning Council and now is a member of the Hospital Research and Educational Reserve and the Advisory Council of the Small Business Administration.

He also served as president of the Northern Michigan Development Council from 1955 to 1965 and as a member of Gov. George Romney's Blue Ribbon Committee on Higher Education.

The four new appointees will join the 21-member Task Force at its next meeting.

Rest Center Goal Is Near

Manager Walter Lewke of the Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce reported to the Board of Directors Monday that commitments totaling $14,880 have been received which is not quite the minimum demanded by the City of Escnaba for the development of the downtown rest center.

However, there are several who are awaiting word from home offices for authorization to participate in the program, he reported. The project is being let out on bids and construction should begin shortly. President Thomas Straebel conducted the meeting.

Chairman Jack Winters of the Transportation Committee has finalized the date for the transportation seminar to be held on May 18 from 7-9 p. m., at the Chamber building, the Board was advised. Final details are being completed on the agenda.

The Board of Directors approved the purchase of tickets for the Green Bay Packers-Buffalo Bills exhibition game Sept. 12.

The State Affairs Committee will begin study of the daylight savings time controversy immediately after April 15. The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce is attempting by public petition to put this on a referendum ballot in November.

The Delta County Board of Commissioners has approved the printing of 50,000 Delta County tourist folders and the Chamber Board of Directors approved the printing of 50,000 copies of the Escanaba folder for the 1971 season. The Tourism Committee, Fred Sayklly, chairman, met Tuesday evening to discuss potential tourist attractions for the 1970 season.

Under direction of the Retail Division, an assembly was held at Holy Name High School on the prevention of shoplifting. Mrs. Carrie Larson chaired the presentation and Aaron Stein, Nicholas Chapekis, Richard Paradise, Gordon Bean and Lewke participated.

The Board accepted as new members Don's Spur Gas Station, assigned to Donald Grzena; Mr. Ed's Bar, assigned to Edwin H. Young; Delta Sewing Center, assigned to Lawrence Smith; and the Mayflower Restaurant, assigned to Tassos Matiatos.

NMU Schedules Business Seminar

MARQUETTE — The Business Education Department of Northern Michigan University will conduct a seminar for high school business students from the Upper Peninsula from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday at Kaye Auditorium.

Purpose of the seminar is to expose high school students to various careers in the business field, while familiarizing them with educational opportunities at Northern.

To date, 575 students and 26 faculty members have registered to attend the one-day seminar.

Swimming Top Wells Township Recreation Need

Swimming is the greatest recreational need in Wells Township, according to the results of a survey of students of Wells, Soo Hill and Pine Ridge Schools by a Wells Township citizens committee on recreation.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Louis Blanchette, Mrs. Lillian Kentz, John Blanchette and Charles Dean was selected Monday night at a meeting at the Soo Hill School to investigate the possibilities of using the gravel pit for swimming.

The committee was requested to obtain a legal opinion on liability and also investigate the possibility of obtaining of the services of a lifeguard for supervision and also swimming instruction.

Survey results were Swimming, 121; Boys Little League baseball, 88; Hiking, 78; Arts and Crafts, 61; Girls Softball, 56; Volleyball, 52; Archey, 43; Tennis, 32; Adult Social Club, 29; Football, 10; Rod and Gun Club (adults), 6; Boys softball, 3; Hockey, Horse Shoe League (adults), Scouting, Bike riding club, 2 each; Bird watching, fishing, horseback riding 1 each.

Several junior and senior high school students attending the meeting expressed a desire to have dances scheduled several times during the summer for junior and senior high school students and a committee of students will be organized to plan and implement the dances.

The need for a volleyball and tennis court and other facilities was discussed.

Mrs. Shirley Oczus and Mrs. Barabara Turnquist, representatives of the Community Action Agency, are working with the committee and will be involved in obtaining necessary youth for employment as recreation aides for the program.

The committee will meet meet again on April 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Soo Hill School all interested residents are invited to attend. A committee chairman will be elected.

McGillis Gets Prison Term

James McGillis, formerly of Escanaba, was sentenced at Grand Haven to serve 2 to 10 years in prison for breaking and entering the Jenison High School.

McGillis, 24, was sentenced on Tuesday by Ottawa County Circuit Judge Raymond Smith.

Escanaba police said McGillis has a record here and that he was on probation at the time of the offense at Grand Haven.

On Jan. 12, 1968, McGillis broke into Holy Name High School. In Circuit Court here he was sentenced to serve six months in jail and was placed on probation for three years.

Storm Possible At Landing Site

ABOARD USS IWO JIMA (AP) — A tropical storm that could give birth to a hurricane lumbered toward the Apollo 13 splashdown site today but recovery ship officials said they expected no weather they could not cope with.

Observers aboard the Iwo Jima kept a close watch on Tropical Storm Helen as it moved across the Pacific at less than six miles per hour.

If it keeps up its present course and speed forecasters said the storm's fringe could be as near as 230 miles to the target point when Apollo 13 returns to earth Friday.

Winds near the center of the storm were clocked at nearly 50 miles per hour and gusts up to about 35 m.p.h. licked out from the center for 150 miles.

The ship's meteorologist, Lt. R. B. Otis, said the storm probably will intensify. "It could very well become a hurricane" he said. He added that Helen, traveling southeastward, could take a more southerly course and speed up.

Officials noted that if the weather creates critical problems the astronauts could maneuver their craft to land 200 miles beyond or short of the splashdown target, about 600 miles south of Samoa.

Capt. Leland F. Kirkemo, commander of the recovery ship, said he anticipated no problems even if the splashdown occurred in winds of around 45 m.p.h. He said several practice exercises already had been conducted in winds of that velocity off Hawaii.

Save Our Air Report:

Odors Are Discovered At Oregon Kraft Mill

By DAVE ANDREWS

An American Can Co., pulp mill more than 2,000 miles from the Upper Peninsula took on added significance today in the local and state controversy over plans of the Mead Corp., to build a kraft process pulp mill at the Escanaba Paper Co.

The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save our Air indicated Tuesday night that it would pursue its objections to the Mead Corp., plans at a meeting of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission in Lansing next Tuesday on the basis of a report developed on the Halsey, Ore., mill by Ray Sabuco of Escanaba, a member of the SOA committee.

An application by Mead Corp., for a construction permit to build a 700-ton, $65 million pulp mill at the Escanaba Paper Co., will be considered by the Air Pollution Control Commission at 10 a. m.

Two Day Visit

Sabuco spent two days in Halsey, Ore., earlier this month investigating air pollution conditions in the area following a report to the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission last month by Bernard Bloomfield of the State Health Department that the American Can Co., operation is "essentially odor free." The report substantiated the contention of Mead Corp., that modern technology has made it possible to construct a kraft pulp mill without creating an air pollution (odor) problem.

Sabuco, John Walbridge and Amer Pederson of the Save Our Air group indicated Tuesday night at a meeting at Marco's Restaurant that they would challenge the state report on the basis of Sabuco's findings.

"The results of this (Sabuco's trip to Oregon) just reinforce my contention that there's never been a kraft mill built that doesn't smell," Walbridge said. "My firm conviction is that if a kraft mill is built it's going to change the character of the community."

48 Interviews

Sabuco, who reported on his findings to a group of residents and Escanaba, Gladstone and Delta County governmental leaders, said he interviewed 48 residents of the Halsey area.

Two persons found the odors objectionable all the time, 12 found it objectionable some of the time (twice or more per week), 33 found it objectionable some of the time, but not too bad, and one person never smelled it at all.

The interviews all were conducted within a three and a half mile radius of the American Can Co., mill, he said.

Sabuco said the key factor in odor in the area is wind direction.

The American Can mill is located west of Halsey, a town of about 440 population in the Willamette Valley, and the prevailing winds in the valley are north and south. Consequently, he said, the residents of the community generally do not encounter odors from American Can Co., unless winds blow from the west.

Two Other Mills

He also said residents of the area are influenced by odor from kraft mills at Albany, 16 miles north, and Springfield, 31 miles south, from mills which he termed two "of the worst polluters in the nation."

"The only time people in Halsey find odors from the American Can Co., mill objectionable is when the wind is out of the west for a considerable length of time, which is rarely the case," he said.

Sabuco, who showed a short film taken at Halsey, said he did not contact any officials from American Can Co., because his sole purpose was to determine the environmental impact of the mill on the residents of the area.

Sabuco said that when he first arrived in Halsey, about 5 a. m., April 6, the air was heavy and a light rain was falling. Temperature was 47 degrees and wind was out of the southwest at about three miles per hour.

Odor In Area

"Odors of hydrogen sulfide permeated the entire area around the American Can Co. The odors varied from a trace one mile from the plant in a southerly segment to very objectionable in the northerly segment as far as three miles from the plant."

Later in the day, he reported, the weather cleared and "there were no noticeable odors in the southern segment from the plant and only a trace as far away as three miles in the northern segment."

Early in the morning (4:30 a. m.) on April 7, Sabuco also said "no odors noticeable anywhere in the area except a trace as far as three miles to the north."

As far as his interviews, Sabuco said "it was necessary that I interview people of the area in which I could find the people and that was mostly in the towi of Halsey. Halsey is away from the prevailing winds that pass the mill, therefore, out of the "stink" zone. Those people whose homes were in line with the prevailing winds, did, in fact, smell objectionable odors much of the time."

For Michigan Week:

Youth Symphony Coming May 14

The 125 - member Michigan Youth Symphony will play in Escanaba and three other Upper Peninsula cities as a highlight of Michigan Week.

On its first visit to the U. P., the Youth Symphony will play at Escanaba in William Oliver Auditorium at 7:30 p. m., May 14, followed by concerts at Marquette, Houghton and Sault Ste. Marie.

Harry B. Welliver, chairman of the Michigan Week Cultural Activities Committee, said expenses of the tour are being underwritten by the Mott Foundation, together with local sponsoring groups. Tour participants will be lodged at homes of high school musicians in three Upper Michigan communities and at Michigan Tech dormitories after their concerts.

The 1,200 mile tour will be made in three buses which will depart from Dearborn, Ann Arbor and Flint on May 14. Dr. Orien E. Dalley, founder, director and conductor of the Michigan Youth Symphony arranged the tour.

Welliver termed the Upper Michigan visit of the 21-year-old orchestra "a new and heartening profile of young Americans of varied origins and backgrounds fused together in an unusual cultural organization."

A nonprofit group, the youthful orchestra is sponsored by the University of Michigan School of Music and the U. of M's Extension Service.

Proceeds from the more than 200 performances it has given through the years have gone into music scholarships or the advancement of local community programs.

The orchestra members, ranging in age from 12 to 22, are serious music students from areas within a 150 mile radius of Ann Arbor. Rehearsals are held every other Saturday with some students driving 300 miles over the weekend to participate.

In addition to the Upper Michigan tour, the orchestra schedule this year includes appearances at eight Michigan cities —Howell, Marshall, Grosse Ile, Tecumseh, Dearborn, Bay City, Flint and Jackson.

League Aids In Representation Petition Drive

The Escanaba League of Women Voters will participate in a nationwide drive April 15-22 to win congressional representation for the 800,000 residents of Washington, D.C., Dorrine Anderson, Gladstone, Escanaba League President announced.

"Although some of our members have been collecting signatures already," said Mrs. Anderson, "most of our efforts will coincide with the national drive during those eight days."

The League-sponsored petition calls for a constitutional amendment granting a congressional voice to Washington, D. C., residents.

Escanaba League members are working with instructors and students in area high schools and Bay de Noc Community College to collect signatures. By April 23 the drive will be over and all petitions will be sent to the State League office to be taken to Washington, said Mrs. Anderson.

Petitions from all over the country will be formally presented to Congress during the League of Women Voters National Convention in Washington May 4-8.

Nationally, the League hopes to get one million signatures. The Escanaba League has set a goal of 500-700 signatures, 10-15 per member.

Dufour Loses Damage Suit

MARQUETTE — After listening to four days of testimony and deliberating for five hours a jury of eight men and four women returned a "no cause of action" in a $25,000 civil suit in U.S. District Court here, Judge W. Wallace Kent, Kalamazoo, presiding.

The trial opened last Tuesday and the case went to the jury Friday, when court was recessed for the weekend. The jury resumed deliberations Monday morning and returned its verdict in the afternoon.

Terry Dufour, Escanaba, was seeking a $25,000 judgment from Stephen A. and Thomas E. Malato, Chicago, for injuries sustained in an automobile accident. It occurred on April 20, 1968, on highway U.S. 41 near the Marquette city limits.

Attorneys were Robert W. Hansley, Escanaba, for Dufour and John E. McDonald, Marquette, for the Malatos.

Area Men Named To Task Force

LANSING — Gov. William Milliken today appointed three Upper Peninsula members to the Advisory Task Force to the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, including Rev. Louis Cappo, pastor of St. Anne's Church in Escanaba, and John W. Moffat of Manistique, vice president and general manager of Inland Lime & Stone Co.

Also appointed were Roger C. Williams of Menominee and Myrton M. Riggs, editor and publisher of the Cheboygan Daily Tribune. Williams, president of the Menominee Publishing Co. and editor and publisher of the Menominee Harold-Leader, is president of Bay Graphics, Inc., a printing sales firm, and president of the Menominee Area Chamber of Commerce.

Fr. Cappo has been active in community development work throughout the Upper Peninsula for many years. He formerly served on the Michigan Tourist Council and now is chairman of the Economic Development Committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress (UPCAP).

Moffat, is a former member of the Board of Trustees of the Michigan Tech Development Fund, former director of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, and former member of the Manistique Area Board of Education advisory committee.

Riggs is a former president of the North Central Health Facilities Planning Council and now is a member of the Hospital Research and Educational Reserve and the Advisory Council of the Small Business Administration.

He also served as president of the Northern Michigan Development Council from 1955 to 1965 and as a member of Gov. George Romney's Blue Ribbon Committee on Higher Education.

The four new appointees will join the 21-member Task Force at its next meeting.

Rest Center Goal Is Near

Manager Walter Lewke of the Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce reported to the Board of Directors Monday that commitments totaling $14,880 have been received which is not quite the minimum demanded by the City of Escnaba for the development of the downtown rest center.

However, there are several who are awaiting word from home offices for authorization to participate in the program, he reported. The project is being let out on bids and construction should begin shortly. President Thomas Straebel conducted the meeting.

Chairman Jack Winters of the Transportation Committee has finalized the date for the transportation seminar to be held on May 18 from 7-9 p. m., at the Chamber building, the Board was advised. Final details are being completed on the agenda.

The Board of Directors approved the purchase of tickets for the Green Bay Packers-Buffalo Bills exhibition game Sept. 12.

The State Affairs Committee will begin study of the daylight savings time controversy immediately after April 15. The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce is attempting by public petition to put this on a referendum ballot in November.

The Delta County Board of Commissioners has approved the printing of 50,000 Delta County tourist folders and the Chamber Board of Directors approved the printing of 50,000 copies of the Escanaba folder for the 1971 season. The Tourism Committee, Fred Saykly, chairman, met Tuesday evening to discuss potential tourist attractions for the 1970 season.

Under direction of the Retail Division, an assembly was held at Holy Name High School on the prevention of shoplifting. Mrs. Carrie Larson chaired the presentation and Aaron Stein, Nicholas Chapekis, Richard Paradise, Gordon Bean and Lewke participated.

The Board accepted as new members Don's Spur Gas Station, assigned to Donald Grzena; Mr. Ed's Bar, assigned to Edwin H. Young; Delta Sewing Center, assigned to Lawrence Smith; and the Mayflower Restaurant, assigned to Tassos Matiatos.

Ruppe To Visit Delta County

WASHINGTON D.C.—Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton) has scheduled a visit to Delta County Friday.

Included in the Congressman's schedule are office hours in both Escanaba and Gladstone, a speech before an assembly of students at Escanaba Area High School, and a dinner address at the annual meeting of the Delta County Soil Conservation Service.

Rupp's office hours in the Gladstone City Hall are scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon and all area residents are invited to discuss problems they may have regarding the federal government. Office hours in Escanaba are scheduled in the Civil Service room of the Escanaba Post Office from 3 to 5 p.m.

In a speech before the student body at the Escanaba Area High School, Ruppe will discuss "The Environmental Dilemma," describing the options and choices which face the nation in the field of pollution control.

Saturday, Ruppe will travel to Iron Mountain and Ishpeming before going to lower Michigan for office hours at Cheboygan, Otsego and Charlevox counties.

Wednesday, April 22, Ruppe will participate in the environmental teach in at Alpena Community College.

McGillis Gets Prison Term

James McGillis, formerly of Escanaba, was sentenced at Grand Haven to serve 2 to 10 years in prison for breaking and entering the Jenison High School.

McGillis, 24, was sentenced on Tuesday by Ottawa County Circuit Judge Raymond Smith.

Escanaba police said McGillis has a record here and that he was on probation at the time of the offense at Grand Haven.

On Jan. 12, 1968, McGillis broke into Holy Name High School. In Circuit Court here he was sentenced to serve six months in jail and was placed on probation for three years.

LA Lakers Dunk Atlanta, 105-94

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry West, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer, plays defense, too.

The Los Angeles star pitched in 23 points Tuesday night as the Lakers defeated Atlanta 105-94 to take a 2-0 lead in the Western Division playoff finals.

But West's key contribtion came on defense where he continued to shackle Atlanta's Lou Hudson, holding him to 12 points, 13 below his regular season average.

Hudson managed to hit only 5 of 20 shots from the floor, and went only 6 of 16 in his 16-point effort in the first game of the best-of-7 series here Sunday.

"We did not expect to win two games here," West said. "It's nice to be in this situation."

Los Angeles could sweep the series with victories on its home floor Friday and Sunday nights and then face the New York-Milwaukee survivor for the NBA championship.

New York also leads the Eastern Division playoffs, which resume at Milwaukee Friday night, by a 2-0 margin.

If the capacity crowd of 7,100 expected to see blood, they were disappointed.

Atlanta Coach Richie Guerin, irged at officiating in Sunday's game, called a news conference Monday and accused officials of protecting West and Elgin Baylor.

"If we get called for little bitty fouls, then West and Baylor won't be around at the end," Guerin had said. "A lot of blood will be split on the floor tomorrow night."

Walter Kennedy, the league commissioner, slapped a $1,000 fine on Guerin for remarks "detrimental to basketball."

However, the game wasn't any rougher than the average NBA game, but an aroused crowd peppered paper cups and occasionally ice onto the floor when they disagreed with an official's calls.

Wilt Chamberlain, continuing to play back into peak condition, pulled down 24 rebounds and matched teammate Dick Garret's game high 24 points.

The Atlanta Stadium scoreboard was flashing numbers so fast it was an electrician's dream—the ideal situation for a machine-age hitter like Ken Henderson.

First there was an eight-run inning for the Braves, then a five-run inning for San Francisco and the numbers were running wild. So too was Henderson, the Giants' outfielder, who walloped a grand slam home run in the ninth inning, breaking up the slugfest and giving the Giants a 15-11 victory.

The homer was the fourth hit of the night for Henderson, who improved his batting style this spring with the help of a pitching machine which fed him curves while the live arms were concentrating on straight balls.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Cincinnati belted San Diego 6-1, St. Louis edged Montreal 6-5 in 10 innings, Los Angeles nipped Houston 3-2, Chicago topped Philadelphia 5-4 and Pittsburgh tripped New York 6-4 in 10 innings.

Henderson Homers

Henderson broke up the Giants-Braves game with his ninth inning grand slam against reliever Milt Pappas, Atlanta's sixth pitcher, after San Francisco had loaded the bases with three straight walks against Gary Neibauer.

The homer was a reversal for Henderson who had vowed to concentrate on meeting the ball instead of going for long ones this year. To that end, Henderson spent much of the spring practicing against the Giants' curve-balling machine.

What the Braves needed Tuesday was a pitcher who could hold the Giants back. They never did find one even though they opened with an eight-run second inning. San Francisco bounced back with five in the third, three of them on Dick Dietz' homer and kept pecking away at the Braves until they tied it on Willie McCovey's two-run homer in the eighth.

Another Grand Slam

Hank Aaron had his fourth homer of the young season for Atlanta.

Bobby Tolan crossed up San Diego's strategy, belting a grand slam homer to wrap up Cincinnati's victory over the Padres. The shot by the left-handed Tolan came against southpaw Danny Coombs, who had just come into the game to face him. Earlier, Tony Perez and Johnny Bench had tagged consecutive homers for the Reds.

The Cardinals pushed across two runs in the last of the 10th on pinch singles by Jim Campbell and Cookie Rojas to overtake Montreal. Jose Cardenal had three hits including a homer for the Cards and Rusty Staub drove in three runs with two singles for Montreal. Marv Staehle's two-out triple in the top of the 10th had given the Expos the lead.

Jim Brewer pitched three perfect innings of relief, saving Los Angeles' victory over Houston. Wes Parker singled one Dodger run across in the first and scored another on Billy Grabarkewicz' two-out single in the sixth. Willie Crawford homered for LA.

Cubs Win

Ernie Banks cracked a double and two singles, helping the Cubs whip Philadelphia. Doubles by Banks and Johnny Callison were the key hits in a three-run first that put Chicago in front to stay. Ken Holtzman went the distance for the victory, surviving a four-run Phillie flurry in the ninth.

Rookie Bob Robertson cracked a homer in the ninth, tying the game and then the Pirates pushed across two runs in the 10th on clutch singles by Richie Hebner and Matty Alou to beat the Mets. Reliever Tug McGraw's throwing error on an attempted sacrifice set the stage for Pittsburgh's winning rally.

Bruins Triumph, Lead In Series

By The Associated Press

Coach Sinden didn't reveal what he told the Boston Bruins between periods of their Stanley Cup National Hockey League playoff game.

Whatever it was, it got results. The Bruins came from behind on two third-period goals by Phil Esposito and beat the New York Rangers 3-2 Tuesday night on Boston ice.

The victory gave the Bruins a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 quarterfinal series. They can take the series by beating the Rangers in the sixth game at New York Thursday night.

The St. Louis Blues also came from behind to whip the Minnesota North Stars 6-3 in the other Stanley Cup playoff game Tuesday. The Blues now lead 3-2 in the best-of-7 quarter-final series and can wrap it up in the sixth game at Minnesota Thursday night.

Bobby Orr gave Boston a 1-0 lead, but the Rangers tied it on Jack Egers' goal and went ahead in the second period on a shot by Orland Kurtenbach.

Goals by Terry Gray, Red Berenson and Jim Roberts broke the game at St. Louis wide open in the third period.

Tigers Maul Indians Before 46,891 Fans

DETROIT (AP) — Opening Day adrenalin got to the Tigers Tuesday, and if their performance is any indication of the 1970 season then rivals better beware, beware.

"The last time I saw the club hit like that was in the World Series," said manager Mayo Smith rather calmly after his team demolished the Cleveland Indians 12-4 before 46,891 home opening day fans at Tiger Stadium Tuesday.

It was Detroit's 70th home opener and the Tigers have now won eight of their last 11 initial home games.

"When it's Opening Day the adrenalin always flows a little more," Smith added, referring to the Tigers 15 hits and dozen runs.

Tribe Uses 7 Pitchers

The Indians labored through seven pitchers while Detroit's ace Mickey Lolich staggered through a 12-hitter himself, picking up his second win in three starts and third straight complete game.

"If we would have scored nine runs in the ninth I would have found somebody left to come in and pitch," said Cleveland manager Alvin Dark bitterly.

It was one of the most lopsided Opening Day home victories for the Tigers. The next biggest run total in the last 25 years was in 1953 when the Indians knocked off Detroit 11-8.

Every Tiger starter scored at least one run Tuesday and everyone but shortstop Cesar Gutierrez got at least one hit and knocked in at least one run.

Cash Homers

Norm Cash and Jim Northrup had three hits apiece, including a two-run homer by Cash off reliefer Mike Paul in the seventh inning.

The Tigers scored four runs in the third off starter and loser Dick Hand, 0-2, with a two-run double by veteran Al Kaline the big blow. The hit was his 806th for extra bases, putting him third on the all-time Tiger list in a tie with Hall of Famer Harry Heilmann.

The Tigers scored five more times in the fifth, getting a walk and seven straight hits off three Indian reliefers.

Actually the game marked the third straight opener for Detroit and also for Lolich this season. They won the American League Presidential Opener by shutting out Washington 5-0 April 6 and then fell to Baltimore 3-2 in 10 innings in the Orioles home opener Friday.

Kaline Lamments

Kaline, beginning his 18th season as a Tiger, said the atmosphere of Opening Day always helps the team and concurred with Smith's adrenalin theory.

"You always enjoy playing in front of a home crowd on Opening Day," he said, combing his hair. "I think there's a little extra incentive when you know everyone is behind you."

The way the Tigers jumped off to a lead they had little trouble getting the crowd behind them.

"The fans like to see a lot of runs," Kaline added. "I think it's great for them. It gives them more to remember and maybe they'll come back more often."

Tiger Power

It was Kaline's double greeting reliefer Steve Hargan that set Detroit on its way. Dick McAuliffe knocked in a run in that third inning with a single and Willie Horton sent home another with a ground out.

Horton batted in another run in the fifth with a single. Also in the frame Northrup knocked in a score with a double, Bill Freehan sent two runners home with a single, and Lolich singled in a run.

Don Wert got his first hit of the season with a single in the third, then he singled in the fifth, and knocked in Cash with a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Cash's homer in the seventh completed the Tigers scoring.

Cleveland scored a pair of runs off Lolich in the fifth on a single, a double by Roy Foster who was 4-for-5, and a single by Tony Horton. Pinch hitter Chuck Hinto singled home a lone run in the sixth, then Ted Ford led off the eighth with a home run for his first major league hit.

Today was an off day for both teams. Thursday Smith said he would pitch Earl Wilson, 0-2, against Cleveland's Dean Chance, 1-0.

Henderson Is Junior Pool Champ

Ron Henderson reigned as the 1970 Junior Boy's Pool Champ by topping a twenty-man field at the Civic Center last night to take home the title and trophy. Henderson first drew a bye, and then defeated Gary Taylor, Jim Moberg and Ron Anderson, before meeting and beating Gary Bougie 2-1 in the finals.

Second place went Gary Bougie, who defeated Jeff McClosky, Joe Moberg, and Tom Valind before bowing to Henderson in the championship match.

Tom Valind won the consolation title by defeating Rory Montgomery and Doug LaPine, losing to Bougie, and then defeating Ron Anderson in the battle for third place.

Ron Anderson finished fourth by winning over Paul Peltier and Nick Wagner, dropping one to Ron Henderson, and then bowing to Valind in the consolation match.

Tournament action continues tonight with the Senior Men's action getting underway at 6:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Smith, Boston Whip Yankees

By The Associated Press

Home is still the best place for Boston's Reggie Smith, but the other man's grass has been greener this spring for the California Angels.

Smith crashed a homer, triple and double as the Red Sox whipped the New York Yankees 8-3 in their first start at Boston, while the Angels, who had reeled off five consecutive road victories to set the early pace in the American League, bowed to the Chicago White Sox 3-1 in their initial home game as Joe Horlen tossed his 100th career victory.

In other AL games, the Detroit Tigers mauled the Cleveland Indians 12-4 and Oakland bombed Milwaukee 9-1 behind lefthanders Al Downing and Paul Lindblad. Kansas City and Minneapolis - St. Paul and Washington's game at Baltimore was postponed because of wet grounds.

Horlon got relief help from Wilbur Wood in picking up his 100th career victory. Wood came out of the bullpen to choke off an Angel rally in the eighth inning after Jay Johnstone's run-scoring single ruined Horlen's shutout bid.

The White Sox, who had won only one of six previous starts, gave Horlen a three-run lead in the first inning with the help of an error by second baseman Sandy Alomar.

At Boston, 34,010 jammed Fenway Park to see the Red Sox wreck the Yanks with a 12-hit barrage. Smith, George Scott and Tony Conigliaro pounded bases-empty homers over the short left field wall. Smith doubled home two more runs and tripled and scored another while boosting his early batting average to .345.

Milwaukee miscues handed the A's four unearned runs and Rick Monday wrapped up Downing's first Oakland victory with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Downing, acquired from the Yankees during the winter, limited the Brewers to a tainted run and eight scattered hits in the 6 1-3 innings he worked. Lindblad allowed one more hit in his mop-up job.

Bay de Noc Has Bowling Banquet Tuesday Evening

New officers were named and trophies were presented to the outstanding bowlers of the Bay de Noc League at the annual Awards Banquet held Tuesday evening at Marco's.

Dick Puddy was named president for the 1970-71 season, while Bob Haddock and Don Koish were elected vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

The league championship trophy, the U.P. Power traveling trophy and the second half championship trophy went to Escanaba Machine Co. and Knotty Pine received the first half championship trophy along with the roll-off trophy.

Gene Jones received the high individual game award for a 278 game and Bob Karas got the high individual series trophy for a 676. Puddy was second in the high game department with a 265 and Randy Farmer was third with a 251. Following Karas in series were Dick Marenger 643 and Bill Rodman 623.

A special Sportsman-of-the-Year Trophy was awarded to Tom Gafner and Harold Krusic received an award for having the highest average in the league.

The Escanaba Daily Press had the high team game for the season, a 1151, and Coast-To-Coast had the high team series, 3207.

Warriors Owner To Block Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association has started a pattern play toward merger—general agreement among its club owners—and now its up to the National Basketball Association to help complete the goal.

But a member of the NBA team—owner Franklin Mieuli of the San Francisco Warriors—is threatening to block the shot at marrying the two pro leagues.

And Mieuli also has hollered technical foul at Ned Irish, president of the NBA New York Knicks, charging Irish with pushing for merger in the interests of Madison Square Garden, which owns the Knicks.

These were the developments Tuesday on the bumpy road toward merger.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph announced after an owners' meeting in New York that they had agreed in seven general areas for merger. The two leagues' merger committees already had agreed on the points, he said, and now if the NBA owners agree, more technical negotiations can begin.

The NBA owners might meet in New York next week.

Four of the seven points agreed on were:

—All 11 of the ABA teams will be included in any merger.

—All players who are involved in multiple signings will remain in their current legal status and will be resolved between the two teams involved.

—An indemnity of approximately $11 million will be paid by the ABA.

—The Washington-Baltimore situation cannot be resolved unilaterally, and a decision on this matter will depend on the NBA meeting. However, Earl Foreman has indicated to the ABA that he is not unwilling to leave Washington under certain circumstances, and the ABA has reached an agreement on a recommendation to be given the NBA on this matter.

Mieuli said he wants only six ABA teams to join the NBA—Indiana, Kentucky, Carolina, Denver and two more to be picked by the NBA.

He also said he not only wants Rick Barry returned to the Warriors from Washington but wants all other players who jumped, or are expected to jump, to the ABA returned to their NBA clubs.

LA Lakers Dunk Atlanta, 105-94

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry West, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer, plays defense, too.

The Los Angeles star pitched in 23 points Tuesday night as the Lakers defeated Atlanta 105-94 to take a 2-0 lead in the Western Division playoff finals.

But West's key contribtion came on defense where he continued to shackle Atlanta's Lou Hudson, holding him to 12 points, 13 below his regular season average.

Hudson managed to hit only 5 of 20 shots from the floor, and went only 6 of 16 in his 16-point effort in the first game of the best-of-7 series here Sunday.

"We did not expect to win two games here," West said. "It's nice to be in this situation."

Los Angeles could sweep the series with victories on its home floor Friday and Sunday nights and then face the New York-Milwaukee survivor for the NBA championship.

New York also leads the Eastern Division playoffs, which resume at Milwaukee Friday night, by a 2-0 margin.

If the capacity crowd of 7,100 expected to see blood, they were disappointed.

Atlanta Coach Richie Guerin, irged at officiating in Sunday's game, called a news conference Monday and accused officials of protecting West and Elgin Baylor.

"If we get called for little bitty fouls, then West and Baylor won't be around at the end," Guerin had said. "A lot of blood will be split on the floor tomorrow night."

Walter Kennedy, the league commissioner, slapped a $1,000 fine on Guerin for remarks "detrimental to basketball."

However, the game wasn't any rougher than the average NBA game, but an aroused crowd peppered paper cups and occasionally ice onto the floor when they disagreed with an official's calls.

Wilt Chamberlain, continuing to play back into peak condition, pulled down 24 rebounds and matched teammate Dick Garret's game high 24 points.

Henderson Is Junior Pool Champ

Ron Henderson reigned as the 1970 Junior Boy's Pool Champ by topping a twenty-man field at the Civic Center last night to take home the title and trophy. Henderson first drew a bye, and then defeated Gary Taylor, Jim Moberg and Ron Anderson, before meeting and beating Gary Bougie 2-1 in the finals.

Second place went Gary Bougie, who defeated Jeff McClosky, Joe Moberg, and Tom Valind before bowing to Henerson in the championship match.

Tom Valind won the consolation title by defeating Rory Montgomery and Doug LaPine, losing to Bougie, and then defeating Ron Anderson in the battle for third place.

Ron Anderson finished fourth by winning over Paul Peltier and Nick Wagner, dropping one to Ron Henderson, and then bowing to Valind in the consolation match.

Tournament action continues tonight with the Senior Men's action getting underway at 6:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Smith, Boston Whip Yankees

By The Associated Press

Home is still the best place for Boston's Reggie Smith, but the other man's grass has been greener this spring for the California Angels.

Smith crashed a homer, triple and double as the Red Sox whipped the New York Yankees 8-3 in their first start at Boston, while the Angels, who had reeled off five consecutive road victories to set the early pace in the American League, bowed to the Chicago White Sox 3-1 in their initial home game as Joe Horlen tossed his 100th career victory.

In other AL games, the Detroit Tigers mauled the Cleveland Indians 12-4 and Oakland bombed Milwaukee 9-1 behind lefthanders Al Downing and Paul Lindblad. Kansas City and Minneapolis - St. Paul and Washington's game at Baltimore was postponed because of wet grounds.

Horlon got relief help from Wilbur Wood in picking up his 100th career victory. Wood came out of the bullpen to choke off an Angel rally in the eighth inning after Jay Johnstone's run-scoring single ruined Horlen's shutout bid.

The White Sox, who had won only one of six previous starts, gave Horlen a three-run lead in the first inning with the help of an error by second baseman Sandy Alomar.

At Boston, 34,010 jammed Fenway Park to see the Red Sox wreck the Yanks with a 12-hit barrage. Smith, George Scott and Tony Conigliaro pounded bases-empty homers over the short left field wall. Smith doubled home two more runs and tripled and scored another while boosting his early batting average to .345.

Milwaukee miscues handed the A's four unearned runs and Rick Monday wrapped up Downing's first Oakland victory with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Downing, acquired from the Yankees during the winter, limited the Brewers to a tainted run and eight scattered hits in the 6 1-3 innings he worked. Lindblad allowed one more hit in his mop-up job.

Bay de Noc Has Bowling Banquet Tuesday Evening

New officers were named and trophies were presented to the outstanding bowlers of the Bay de Noc League at the annual Awards Banquet held Tuesday evening at Marco's.

Dick Puddy was named president for the 1970-71 season, while Bob Haddock and Don Koish were elected vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

The league championship trophy, the U.P. Power traveling trophy and the second half championship trophy went to Escanaba Machine Co. and Knotty Pine received the first half championship trophy along with the roll-off trophy.

Gene Jones received the high individual game award for a 278 game and Bob Karas got the high individual series trophy for a 676. Puddy was second in the high game department with a 265 and Randy Farmer was third with a 251. Following Karas in series were Dick Marenger 643 and Bill Rodman 623.

A special Sportsman-of-the-Year Trophy was awarded to Tom Gafner and Harold Krusic received an award for having the highest average in the league.

The Escanaba Daily Press had the high team game for the season, a 1151, and Coast-To-Coast had the high team series, 3207.

Warriors Owner To Block Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association has started a pattern play toward merger—general agreement among its club owners—and now its up to the National Basketball Association to help complete the goal.

But a member of the NBA team—owner Franklin Mieuli of the San Francisco Warriors—is threatening to block the shot at marrying the two pro leagues.

And Mieuli also has hollered technical foul at Ned Irish, president of the NBA New York Knicks, charging Irish with pushing for merger in the interests of Madison Square Garden, which owns the Knicks.

These were the developments Tuesday on the bumpy road toward merger.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph announced after an owners' meeting in New York that they had agreed in seven general areas for merger. The two leagues' merger committees already had agreed on the points, he said, and now if the NBA owners agree, more technical negotiations can begin.

The NBA owners might meet in New York next week.

Four of the seven points agreed on were:

—All 11 of the ABA teams will be included in any merger.

—All players who are involved in multiple signings will remain in their current legal status and will be resolved between the two teams involved.

—An indemnity of approximately $11 million will be paid by the ABA.

—The Washington-Baltimore situation cannot be resolved unilaterally, and a decision on this matter will depend on the NBA meeting. However, Earl Foreman has indicated to the ABA that he is not unwilling to leave Washington under certain circumstances, and the ABA has reached an agreement on a recommendation to be given the NBA on this matter.

Mieuli said he wants only six ABA teams to join the NBA—Indiana, Kentucky, Carolina, Denver and two more to be picked by the NBA.

He also said he not only wants Rick Barry returned to the Warriors from Washington but wants all other players who jumped, or are expected to jump, to the ABA returned to their NBA clubs.

NO NAME VILLAGE, Cambodia (AP) — "The Viet Cong came and took the Vietnamese villagers away from here, that's why there is no one here," the Cambodian captain said, snapping at the flies with his braided oxwhip.

His two companies of troops moved through the village on the Prek Trabek River where mostly Vietnamese had lived. They searched the small thatch huts, then put matches to the tinder-dry walls.

The captain, flicking his whip, said he didn't know the name of the village. None of his troops did either, and it really didn't matter. In their eyes all the Vietnamese villagers were Viet Cong.

One soldier, carrying a basket full of small items taken from a house, pointed at the river and chattered nervously. A body was drifting slowly downstream on its back. It was a Vietnamese man in civilian dress, and he appeared to be still alive although wounded.

The soldiers began to unlimber their AK47 rifles, but the man twitched convulsively and turned on his face. "Viet Cong, Viet Cong," the troops said, but didn't waste a shot. The man had died.

The captain said there had been a battle in No Name Village earlier in the morning. Two Cambodian villagers who cautiously returned described in sign language how Viet Cong and Cambodian forces had clashed in the village. There were no casualties on the Cambodian side, however, and the Viet Cong withdrew to another village three miles downstream.

While some of the troops set the looted houses ablaze, others cautiously probed the numerous reinforced bunkers that the Vietnamese had built beneath their houses. The captain said the Viet Cong had tried to entrench themselves in the village by fighting from the bunkers.

Down a dusty wagon path which wound under leafy shade trees, the troops formed a skirmish line before a large Catholic church, the pride of the village. They set up a machine gun and fired repeated bursts through the closed wooden doors. Then the troops moved inside, sacked it and set it afire.

The roof collapsed in a roar and the life-size statues of the Virgin Mary and Joseph could be seen through the flames.

The giggling soldiers rounded up chickens and ducks and tied them to their belts for the evening meal. One soldier led a pony, another had a cow in tow. Three pigs were shot, and the troops loaded the carcasses on a truck that also carried bicycles, bedding and goods from the small village store.

By noon, the village was gutted, and at least 70 houses were burned, the homes of Cambodians as well as Vietnamese, along with the mounds of straw that had been piled up to feed the cattle during the current dry season.

The Cambodian government's report of the operation Saturday said its forces at 5 a.m. Saturday launched a mopup operation about a mile south of Kompong Trabek, in Prey Veng Province.

"Helped by the complicity of Vietnamese residents," the communique said, "the Viet Cong—numbering around 50—hidden in the homes of the Vietnamese fired on Cambodian troops. Our troops killed seven Viet Cong, captured four clips of ammunition for Chinese-made assault rifles, and seized 16 bags of rice. The homes of the Vietnamese were set afire."

Ford Takes Step To Reduce Auto Exhaust Fumes

DETROIT (AP)— Ford Motor Co. took another step Tuesday in the campaign to reduce auto exhaust pollution when it applied to the State of California for a formal okay of a used car emissions control system.

"As soon as our system is officially accredited by the California Air Resources Board, we will offer it nationally to owners of cars, from 1955 through 1965 models," said Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford North American automotive operations.

Ford announced last December it had begun the used car emissions control program. It conducted tests on a restricted basis with a fleet of cars at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida and also in Los Angeles in February.

California gave a tentative approval to the program today and Ford said 4,000 - mile tests on 20 of the vehicles will begin immediately at Ford's proving grounds in Romeo, Mich.

General Motors and Chrysler have similar programs underway for the nation's older cars.

$9,550 Fine!

MONROE (AP) — A Detroit attorney, Walter Kurz, has been sentenced to 152 days in jail and ordered to pay $9,550 in fines for 106 counts of contempt stemming from a drunken driving case heard last June in Monroe County Circuit Court.

Kurz reported he will appeal the penalties, which he termed "cruel and unusual treatment."

Down a dusty wagon path which wound under leafy shade trees, the troops formed a skirmish line before a large Catholic church, the pride of the village. They set up a machine gun and fired repeated bursts through the closed wooden doors. Then the troops moved inside, sacked it and set it afire.

The roof collapsed in a roar and the life-size statues of the Virgin Mary and Joseph could be seen through the flames.

The giggling soldiers rounded up chickens and ducks and tied them to their belts for the evening meal. One soldier led a pony, another had a cow in tow. Three pigs were shot, and the troops loaded the carcasses on a truck that also carried bicycles, bedding and goods from the small village store.

By noon, the village was gutted, and at least 70 houses were burned, the homes of Cambodians as well as Vietnamese, along with the mounds of straw that had been piled up to feed the cattle during the current dry season.

The Cambodian government's report of the operation Saturday said its forces at 5 a.m. Saturday launched a mopup operation about a mile south of Kompong Trabek, in Prey Veng Province.

"Helped by the complicity of Vietnamese residents," the communique said, "the Viet Cong—numbering around 50—nidden in the homes of the Vietnamese fired on Cambodian troops. Our troops killed seven Viet Cong, captured four clips of ammunition for Chinese-made assault rifles, and seized 16 bags of rice. The homes of the Vietnamese were set afire."

Ford Takes Step To Reduce Auto Exhaust Fumes

DETROIT (AP)— Ford Motor Co. took another step Tuesday in the campaign to reduce auto exhaust pollution when it applied to the State of California for a formal okay of a used car emissions control system.

"As soon as our system is officially accredited by the California Air Resources Board, we will offer it nationally to owners of cars, from 1955 through 1965 models," said Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford North American automotive operations.

Ford announced last December it had begun the used car emissions control program. It conducted tests on a restricted basis with a fleet of cars at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida and also in Los Angeles in February.

California gave a tentative approval to the program today and Ford said 4,000 - mile tests on 20 of the vehicles will begin immediately at Ford's proving grounds in Romeo, Mich.

General Motors and Chrysler have similar programs underway for the nation's older cars.

$9,550 Fine!

MONROE (AP) — A Detroit attorney, Walter Kurz, has been sentenced to 152 days in jail and ordered to pay $9,550 in fines for 106 counts of contempt stemming from a drunken driving case heard last June in Monroe County Circuit Court.

Kurz reported he will appeal the penalties, which he termed "cruel and unusual treatment."

Card of Thanks

Martinson

We wish to express our sincere thank you to relatives, friends and neighbors for their gifts and acts of kindness during the recent illness and death of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Alina Martinson. We especially wish to thank the Rev. Reuben Carlson for his comforting words, the nurses on first and fourth floors for the wonderful care they gave her while she was at St. Francis Hospital; to Dr. Hult, Dr. Gordon and Dr. Anderson, and to all those who donated and served food. Your thoughtfulness will always remain with us.

The Family Of
Mrs. Alina Martinson

Miller

Our heartfelt thanks are extended to all who aided by acts of kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of my beloved wife, Lucille Miller. A special word of appreciation to Rev. Walfred Nelson for ihs comforting words, to those who sent floral and memorial gifts, the singing by the choir, the donation of food and to all who assisted in any way. Your many acts of kindness will always be remembered.

The Family Of
Mrs. Harvey Miller

Schoen

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and sympathy in our bereavement, the death of our wife, mother, and grandmother, Myrtle Schoen. We are especially grateful to Rev. Philip Kuckhahn for his comforting words, to the pallbearers, those who offered the use of their cars, those who donated food, gifts of spiritual bouquets and flowers, to those who contributed to the memorial fund, to the Ladies of St. Paul's Lutheran Church who prepared the food. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

Spacemen Confident Of Safe Landing

Trio Heading 'Home'

Scientists Elated Over 'Moonquake'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The rest of the Apollo 13 mission may be a washout but scientists are elated with the moonquake created by crashing the Saturn 5 booster rocket into the lunar surface.

The impact at 8:09 p.m. EST Tuesday sent a four-hour shudder through the moon that was recorded by a seismometer erected in the lunar Ocean of Storms last November by the Apollo 12 crew.

Describing the seismic signals radioed to earth as exciting data scientists said the moonquake proves that crashing manmade objects into the lunar sphere can be a powerful tool for ultimately unraveling the mystery of the moon's origin.

"We now have a powerful and effective method for investigating the lunar interior even if we never get a big meteor impact and even if we never get a moonquake," said Dr. Maurice Ewing of Columbia University.

Ewing, Dr. Gary Latham of Columbia's Lamont Geophysical Observatory and Dr. Frank Press of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology spoke at a news conference Tuesday, several hours after the booster rocket impact.

The three seismologists were baffled by the seismic signal received last November when the Apollo 12 lunar lander was purposely crashed in a similar experiment. Such an impact on earth would have produced a brief signal, but on the moon the seismic waves lasted an hour.

When the seismic signal received Tuesday was almost identical with the one last November, the scientists knew the Apollo 12 moonquake was not a unique event. It proved that man-made impacts can produce significant seismic data and that seismic investigations aren't dependent on meteor hits or natural moonquakes.

"Now we can think in terms of a series of studies, maybe four or five moon missions or so, where you have impacts of succeeding distances so that seismic waves penetrate deeper and deeper into the moon," said Press.

The seismologists have not agreed yet on what causes the strange reverberating seismic signals from the spacecraft crashes.

Latham prefers the idea that the moon's outer shell is extremely broken up—a layer of jumbled blocks that bounce seismic waves like sound in an echo chamber.

Press thinks perhaps the impact of a spacecraft in the vacuum of the lunar atmosphere creates a "wave of debris" that fans out for miles under the surface.

"As this debris moves horizontally along the surface it continues to pump energy into the ground. It continues to excite seismic waves" he explains.

Two Apollo Wives Resume Vigil

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Having talked with the President and met with NASA's top official, two Apollo 13 wives resumed the vigil today over their husbands' troubled space mission.

President Nixon telephoned Marilyn Lovell and Mary Haise late Tuesday to express concern for the crew.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the President assured the wives that he and the entire nation were watching with concern the progress of the disabled craft, which swung around the moon Tuesday night and began the 250,000-mile trip homeward.

NASA Administrator Thomas O. Paine visited the homes of astronauts James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. and, in response to a question about the problems, said, "Things could be worse."

Lovell, Haise and John L. Swigert fired the descent engine of the lunar lander Tuesday night to kick Apollo 13 toward a Pacific Ocean splashdown scheduled for Friday.

Mrs. Haise and Mrs. Lovell stuck close to home, watching television newscasts and listening to communications between the crew and flight controllers.

Mrs. Haise kept her three children home from school Tuesday and, like Mrs. Lovell, was visited by a large number of friends and astronauts' wives.

Mrs. Lovell sent the youngest of her children, Jeffrey, 4, to nursery school but the other three remained at her side.

In Denver, Colo., Swigert's father, J. Leonard Swigert, told newsmen he was confident NASA "won't leave any stone unturned to bring them back."

He said his wife perhaps was "more emotional" than he and had a tendency for "continual worry" about her bachelor son.

In Milwaukee, Mrs. Lovell's sister, Mrs. Robert McCann, said, "Once I heard Marilyn say she wasn't worried and that everything was going to be all right, then there was no reason for me to be anxious."

Mrs. McCann, who returned home from Cape Kennedy after watching the Apollo 13 launch, said Mrs. Lovell told her on the telephone: "Jim and the others will be home safe soon."

The sister added, "I haven't stopped praying all day."

Biggest Mass Killing Noted

NEAKLEUNG, Cambodia (AP) — The bodies of hundreds of Vietnamese floated down the Mekong River in southeast Cambodia today, many with their hands tied behind them. It appeared to be the biggest mass killing yet revealed in Cambodia.

A police official at the Neak Leung ferry crossing 36 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, said he had counted 400 bodies this morning. But still they came, and more could be seen for a mile up the river, until it disappeared around a bend.

The stench was overpowering, and passengers on the ferry gagged as the boat moved through the bodies.

Some women were among the slain but very few. Most were men clad only in black shorts. One group of eight bodies, including one woman, floated by tied together.

Cambodians along the bank including the police said they had no idea where the bodies came from.

The government leaders who deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk have been whipping up an anti-Vietnamese campaign directed not only at the thousands of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops who operate back and forth across the border with South Vietnam but at the 600,000 Vietnamese who live in Cambodia.

Impeachment Stage Prepared

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford has set the stage for a possible impeachment move against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, charging that Douglas may have had long-time ties with gambling and underworld figures.

Ford's attack on Douglas, drafted for presentation to the House today, covers a wide range of the 71-year-old Justice's activities, including his voting record on the court, his off-the-bench writings and his relationships with Las Vegas figure Albert Parvin and possibly with Parvin's associates.

Douglas' dealings with Parvin began in 1960 when he aided in setting up the Albert Parvin Foundation and became a director and later its president at $12,000 a year. Douglas resigned from the post last May.

Ford charges that Parvin has long been connected with underworld figures, the associations dating back as far as 1946 when he was hired by Bugsy Siegel to decorate the Flamingo Hotel, a Las Vegas gambling palace.

Air Controllers Return To Work

By The Associated Press

The Federal Aviation Administration reported today that the air travel problems caused by a three-week air controllers strike are over.

"There are no problems at any facility in the country," an FAA spokesman said.

Air travel began returning to normal Tuesday as hundreds of striking controllers reported back to work. The FAA said the manpower level was normal or near normal in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and most other spots around the country.

Nixon Names Blackmun For Justice Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judicial record of Supreme Court nominee Harry A. Blackmun, a federal appeals judge considered a strict constructionist by President Nixon, does not appear that easy to pin down.

The judge himself brushed aside labels shortly after he learned Tuesday in St. Louis, where he sits on the U.S. 8th Court of Appeals, that Nixon had named him to fill the vacancy created almost a year ago with the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas.

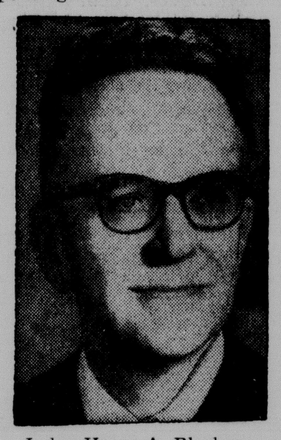

"I've been called liberal and conservative," Blackmun said. "Labels are deceiving. I call them as I see them."

Blackmun, 61, who lives in Rochester, Minn., has been compared judicially with his old friend and fellow Minnesotan, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the Supreme Court, as being fairly liberal on civil rights issues and strict on the rights of criminal defendants.

Nixon, who has frequently criticized court decisions expanding the rights of defendants in criminal cases, was reported by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler to have been highly impressed when he studied Blackmun's judicial record.

Twice Blackmun wrote decisions turning back challenges to the constitutionality of the death penalty. One of them is before the Supreme Court now in a major test case, apparently deadlocked awaiting a ninth justice. But Blackmun would not be able to help out in this case since he wrote the decision being challenged.

Last week the Supreme Court overturned a Blackmun decision rejecting the contention that a man was placed in double jeopardy when he was tried twice in connection with the robbery of a poker game.

Watching Flight Plans

LOOKING OVER flight plan procedure in Mission Control, Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., after Apollo 13 developed fuel cell trouble are: Donald K. Slayton, left, seated, Director of Apollo flight crews; and Jack Lousma, right, seated, capsule communicator. Standing at left is Thomas K. Mattingly, who originally was scheduled to make the trip as command module pilot. The other man is unidentified. (AP Wirephoto)

Short Circuit Caused Trouble?

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Some spacecraft engineers believe an electrical short may have caused an explosion which disabled the Apollo 13 spacecraft.

A short circuit in either a fan or a heater in one of the spacecraft's two oxygen tanks could have caused a rise in pressure which exploded the tank, a source at the Manned Spacecraft Center said Tuesday.

The two oxygen tanks in the spacecraft are in the service module. Each tank has a sort of electric blanket heater on the outside and a fan on the inside.

The heaters force an increase in oxygen pressure by causing the liquid oxygen in the tanks to turn into gas. The fans circulate the oxygen and make the heating uniform.

The source said a short in a heater could have caused a rapid rise in pressure as more oxygen was turned into gas than the oxygen system could use. When this pressure reached 1,530 pounds per square inch the tank would explode.

If the short was in a fan the oxygen would heat up unevenly, again causing a rise in pressure.

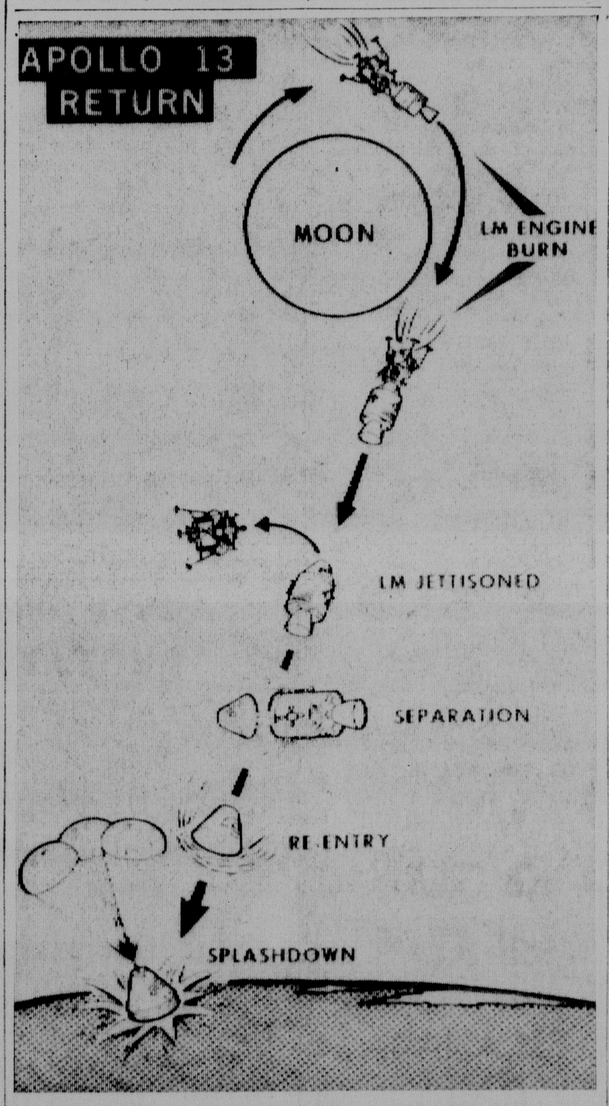

The explosion of a metal oxygen tank could have sent shrapnel-like fragments into the second tank or nearby plumbing. This could account for the slow loss of oxygen which emptied the second tank in three hours.

Space officials discounted reports that the oxygen leak and explosion might have been caused by the impact of a meteoroid.

Such an impact, they said, would not explain the increase of pressure before the explosion.

Officials will not be able to search the service module for the exact cause of the explosion. It will be left in space and will burn up when it re-enters the earth's atmosphere.

Flight Director Gene Kranz said however that he believed enough data was obtained before and after the emergency to permit investigators to determine the cause.

THIS IS HOW the crippled Apollo 13 will make the emergency homeward trip to earth. The lunar module craft provided thrust that placed the command module on target for earth and later will be jettisoned before separation and reentry to the earth's atmosphere for final splashdown Friday. (AP Wirephoto)

Stronger Postal Plan In Trouble?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is reported about to get an even stronger postal corporation proposal than it had before the mail strike—and already is mapping strategy to kill it.

Administration and postal union negotiators have reached basic agreement on a postal reform plan a knowledgeable source says "will be a little harder for the unions to swallow" than the corporation plan approved by a House committee last month.

The agreement, tying an 8 per cent pay boost for postal employes to the reform, is to be submitted to President Nixon for transmittal to Congress as soon as union and administration lawyers are convinced the technical language says exactly what they want.

The 8 per cent boost for postal employes effective next July would come on top of the 6 per cent across-the-board pay increase passed by Congress Tuesday.

Corporation has become a bad word to influential congressmen and the proposed agency would not be given that name. Nor would it be called a U.S. Postal Authority as proposed before the mail strike.

It may even keep the present name: Post Office Department.

The agency will reportedly take the nation's mails from the control of Congress and put them under the direction of an independent management board that would appoint its own postmaster general.

Splashdown Slated In S. Pacific Friday

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 13's astronauts nursed their disabled spaceship back toward earth today as confidence built among space officials that they would make it.

But the dangers remained clear. The men have no margin for error or further malfunctions. They are living and flying on emergency supplies.

Supplies Hoarded

James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. were hoarding their vital oxygen, water and power supplies effectively as Apollo 13 escaped from lunar gravity and sped into the earth's sphere of influence at a point 219,000 miles in space. The spacecraft was going 2,650 miles an hour.

The astronauts rested and did little activity as they conserved their consumables. They were in good spirits after the tense hours of Monday and Tuesday. An oxygen tank rupture late Monday aborted their moon landing plans and placed them in the gravest danger ever faced by American astronauts.

Crew Confident

Although confidence was building that they would land safely in the Pacific, officials cautioned there is always a possibility something could go wrong in the remaining two days. The astronauts have been reduced to dependence on the power and other resources of the attached lunar landing craft.

On the performance of the lunar module, flight director Eugene Kranz said, "I think the LM spacecraft is in excellent shape, and I think it's fully capable of getting the crew back. I feel we are much better off than we were last night as far as consumables and everything is concerned. We have a better margin to work with and we have more flexibility."

Landing Time Set

The astronauts will ride the command ship through the atmosphere to a planned splashdown near Samoa in the Pacific at 1:04 p.m. EST Friday, some 46 minutes later than earlier estimated by the space agency.

Because of the possibility that Tropical Storm Helen, now about 500 miles away, might be in the recovery area, Mission Control told the astronauts it might delay a final course correction until Thursday afternoon.

This would give them a chance to make the best possible adjustment in aim and, doing it only once, conserve power.

Will Use Battery

The command vessel normally relies on power and oxygen from the attached service module. But these were made useless in the accident. For re-entry, the astronauts will switch on a battery and auxiliary oxygen system, the standard procedure on all Apollo missions.

But this time there will be no chance to recharge the batteries from the service module's systems since they are dead.

First, they will jettison the lunar and service modules, both of which will burn up in the atmosphere.

One part of the lunar vehicle is not expected to burn up. It is a canister carrying a small amount of radioactive plutonium 238, which would have been used to power a science station Lovell and Haise had planned to leave on the moon.

No Harm To Life

To prevent escape of the radioactive material, the canister was designed to survive a blazing dive through the atmosphere. It is expected to sink in the Pacific. Even if plutonium should be exposed, the dose is so small it would not harm life, officials reported.

As Apollo 13 streaked closer to earth, Mission Control spent more than an hour today radioing up instructions for setting hundreds of switches in the command ship, placing them in the proper order for re-entry and landing.

Oil Flow From Alaska Could Face Slowdown

NEW YORK (AP) — A court challenge by conservationists is likely to hold back for perhaps a year the flow of oil from the rich, newly discovered Alaskan North Slope fields, and cost oil companies drilling there many millions of dollars.

A U.S. District Court judge in Washington Monday granted an injunction requested by three conservation groups prohibiting Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel from issuing a right-of-way permit for a road leading from the oil fields to southern Alaska.

This had the effect of preventing the start of construction of a $1-billion paralleling 48-inch pipeline from Prudhoe Bay to the port of Valdez.

Oil companies a year ago paid the State of Alaska $900 million for North Slope leases in the greatest bidding competition in industry history.

The 800-mile pipeline, under and above the frozen Alaskan surface, is to be built by Trans Alaskan Pipeline System—TAPS—owned by subsidiaries of Atlantic Richfield Co., B. P. North America Ltd. and Humble Oil & Refining Co.

"We can't go ahead with our hoped for start on the pipeline this spring," a TAPS spokesman said in Anchorage, Alaska, Tuesday.

The federal government has yet to issue a permit for the pipeline, but an industry source said, "A pipeline permit without a road permit is worthless."

Another source said he expected that the oil companies already engaged in drilling would go ahead even though they would not be able to move the oil out as expected. This, he said, would add millions of dollars to their costs.

Weather

ESCANABA AND VICINITY—Increasing cloudiness and cool today with a high near 50. Cloudy tonight with showers likely and turning warmer. Low tonight in the mid 30s. Russ Offer Help

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin told President Nixon today that his government stands ready to help rescue astronauts of Apollo 13 and dispatched two ships to the Pacific area where the splashdown is expected, Tass said.

The Soviet news agency dispatch from Moscow said the Russian ships Akademician Rykoc Rykachev and Novopolotsk had changed course at sea and were speeding toward the Fiji Islands.

Wildcat Strikes Forcing Layoffs

By The Associated Press

Wildcat strikes by truck drivers in scattered cities have caused increased layoffs and an embargo on some piggyback freight rail shipments to Chicago. Teachers remained on strike in Los Angeles and Minneapolis. But an air traffic controllers strike was reported virtually ended.

The trucker strikes were blamed by nine railroads for an embargo they imposed today on piggyback freight shipments to many Chicago companies. However, a Chicago Teamsters union official termed the embargo an attempt by the railroads to help the trucking industry break the truckers' walkout.

Shared Time Approved; School Budget Adopted

By MIKE UTT

A tentative operating budget for 1970-71 and shared time with Holy Name High School were approved by the Escanaba Area Board of Education Tuesday night at the Soo Hill School.

The board unanimously adopted a proposed budget of $3,256,705 and will now submit it to the Delta County Tax Allocation Board.

The tentative budget represents an increase of $341,095 over the current year's operating budget. The increase includes salary and wage increases for nearly 300 teaching and non-teaching employes included in negotiated contracts, needed capital outlay and maintenance items deleted from the present year's budget, and other demands for improvement.

Pledges Cooperation

The board also pledged its full cooperation in trying to work out shared time programs with Holy Name in vocational subjects. The only limitations to such time sharing would be dictated by space limitations.

Superintendent Luther Barrett stated that Escanaba High School is proud of its facilities and said that it would be able to accommodate a limited number of Holy Name students in vocational educational classes.

The Holy Name Board of Education had requested consideration on this matter through its superintendent, Father Vincent Oulette, prior to the meeting.

The board also went on record as pledging support in the area of matching funds up to $600 for the 1970-71 school year towards any fund raising group wishing to work towards the improvement of playground equipment for the area schools.

Urge Physicals

Board approval was also given to the school administration to strongly urge the parents of all students entering the seventh grade to have a doctor's physical examination taken by the students and have a report turned in to the school on a form that will be provided.

This move was taken in the interest of the welfare of the students and their parents as well as in the protection of physical education teachers in the school, board members said. If a child has some physical condition which would make strenuous exercise inadvisable the school should know this and the program for this child would be altered accordingly. If a child has such a condition, and the school does not have knowledge of it, then the school and its employes would have no liability, they indicated.

The board also approved the purchase of three new 66-passenger busses similar to the specifications of those bought last year. Diesel engine busses had been talked about, but a representative of the diesel companies has not contacted the school yet, so the board decided to purchase the new busses and think about diesels next year.

Joseph Hampton, Vocational Education Implementer through the Intermediate Schools attended last night's meeting and asked the board's cooperation in geting a vocational program in the Upper Peninsula moving. Th board unanimously accepted his proposal, which now needs approval from other school boards in the U. P.

Change Curriculum

Other action taken by the board last night included the approval of the submission of the 1969-70 NDEA Title III project in the amount of $16,600 to cover projects in industrial arts, reading, language arts and audio-visual; acceptance of teacher resignations from Susan Diehm, Mary Halvorson, Carolyn Davis and Richard Terry; and approval of curriculum changes in the departments of home economics, industrial arts, mathematics, social studies, science, English and health.

Board President Albin Pearson was recently elected to the Escanaba City Council and the board accepted his resignation as of June 30.

In his letter, Pearson stated that his association with the board had been gratifying for him and that he regretted not being able to complete the last year of his term. He said that in his nw role as a councilman, he hoped to nurture a cooperative relationship between county and city government and the schools.

Allocation Board

With the resignation of Albin Pearson Jr., from the Esnaba Area Board of Education Tuesday evening, Ron Lankford, a member of the board, will replace him on the Delta County Tax Allocation Board.

This move was made at a previous meeting of the board, but made public at last night's meeting.

Death Claims Mrs. LaLande

Mrs. Della LaLande, 91, of Gladstone died at 9:25 p.m. Tuesday at the Pinehaven Nursing Home. She was born Sept. 15, 1878 in Wisconsin and had resided most of her life in Delta County.

She is survived by four sons, Frank LaLande of Austin, Minn., Joseph Andrew and Eli LaLande of Seattle and Eli T. of Pontiac; four daughters, Mrs. William (Eva) Lancour of Escanaba, Mrs. Walter (Georgianna) Jensen of Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Henry (Filicate) Drossart of Escanaba, Mrs. Stewart (Louise) Helsten of Traverse City and 47 grandchildren.

Friends may call after 4 p.m. Thursday at the Skradski Funeral Home and parish prayers will be recited at 8 p.m. Funeral services will be conducted at 9 a.m. Friday at All Saints Church with Msgr. Matt LaViolette officiating. Burial will be in Fernwood Cemetery.

Party Workers To Be Honored

MACKINAC CITY — The 11th District Democratic Party Organization voted to honor two outstanding party workers for their years of dedicated service at its meeting held here Saturday.

Special recognition will be given to Ann Villeneuve of Escanaba as "Democratic Precinct Worker of the Year" and Stanley Jaroski of Naubinway as 'Democratic Senior Citizen of the Year." The two will be welcomed as special guests at the Democratic Party's $35 a plate Jefferson - Jackson Day Dinner on April 25 in Detroit.

Other activities at the district meeting included election of Iron Mountain Attorney Francis D. Brouillette to fill the post of treasurer of the organization, succeeding Nino Green of Gladstone, who recently resigned to devote full attention to his congressional candidacy.

LeRoy J. Nelson of Powers was elected to fill a new position on the Democratic Party's State Central Committee. Nelson is chairman of the Menominee County Democratic Committee and Brouillette is the chairman in Dickinson County.

Nelson's seat on the State Central Committee represents implementation of one of the political reforms adopted by the Democratic Party at its State Convention in January and gives greater representation to the 11th District.

Guests and speakers at the meeting were Frank J. Kelly, Michigan's Attorney General; George Googasin, David Vaughn and Robert Beckem, members of Sen. Phillip A. Hart's campaign staff; Robert Mitchell of the Democratic State Central staff; and Nino Green, 11th District Democratic candidate for congress.

Local Bankers Attend Meeting

FLORENCE, Wis.—The Lake States Chapter of the Bank Administration Institute held its second meeting of the year here Tuesday evening at the Hollywood Supper Club.

LOUIE PARLATO, Escanaba Branch manager for Fairmont Foods Co., will retire April 30 after 21 years of service with the company, it is announced by R. A. Lom, district sales manager. Parlato started with Fairmont in 1949 and became branch manager in July, 1950. He will be replaced by Leland Hermsen who has been with the company since 1960 as sales merchandiser in the Green Bay area. Hermsen, 35, is a 1958 graduate of Marquette University, played football and was selected to the Catholic Conference All American Team, is married and has three children. Parlato in retirement will spend his summers at his cottage near Rapid River and will be in Denver, Colo., in the wintertime.

Rotarians Tour Tower:

High Rise View Impresses Club

Members of the Escanaba Rotary Club were conducted on a tour of the Senior Citizens housing structure on Tuesday —and were impressed by the spectacular panorama seen from the top of the 18-story tower.

From the roof, 180 feet above Ludington St., the Rotarians could see virtually the length and breadth of Delta County, from distant Lake Michigan on the east to the wooded inland to the west.

The tour was arranged by Escanaba City Manager George Harvey with the cooperation of the Housing Commission, of which John Gannon is director.

Serving as guides on the tour of the 176-unit apartment building for senior citizens of low income were Harvey, Gannon, City Engineer John Dulek, Controller Howard Smale and Administrative Assistant Gary LaPlant.

Thomas Straebel, Rotary president, conducted the club meeting at which Harvey and Gannon presented information about the housing project in advance of the tour. Members of the Housing Commission who have worked to successfully bring the $2.6 million project to reality are Gannon, Carl Anderson, William Winkler, Arnold Williams, William DeHaan and Mike Jensen.

Members of the City Council were also present for the Rotary meeting and the visit to the tower, including Mayor Ronald DeVos, Albin Pearson Jr., Robert Bink and Cecil Chase. Councilman Richard Pryal could not be present.

The tower is scheduled for completion on June 18, dedication is set for July 13 in a program to be highlighted by the presence of Miss America, and occupancy of the 176 units is scheduled for mid-July.

Gannon reported that more than 600 applications had been received originally, that the number is being reduced as ineligibles are removed from the list, and that final determinations will continue to the time of occupancy. This is necessary since the situation changes from time to time because of several factors, including death of some of the applicants.

Consolidation Meetings Slated

Public meetings have been scheduled in Hermansville and in Powers - Spalding by the Boards of Education of the two school districts to discuss with residents of the area the proposed consolidation of the two school districts.

The consolidation election is scheduled Monday, May 11.

The meeting at Powers-Spalding will be held Thursday April 30, in the Powers - Spalding gymnasium. The meeting at Hermansville is set for Thursday, May 7, at the Hermansville Community Club. Both meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

"Everyone is urged to attend at least one of these meetings to become well-informed about all of the issues in this election," the school boards said.

Board members of the two districts met recently with Attorney Thomas Nordberg to review legal matters concerning the proposed consolidation.

Some of the items discussed were: legal procedures to be followed if consolidation is approved by the voters; the interim board of education; operational millage for the new district; status of teachers in the new district; bonded indebtedness and the election of a new board of education for the new district.

Information on those subjects along with answers to questions from residents will be provided at the public meetings, the school boards said.

Kindergarten Registration Set For Friday

Kindergarten registration for the 1970-71 school year will be held Friday, April 17.

Parents of pre-kindergarten students whose last names begin with letter A through L should come in to register during the hours from 9-11:30 a.m. and those whose last names begin with letter M through Z from 12:30-3:30 p.m. At least one parent should accompany the child.

The child's birth certificate, entrance data sheet and immunization sheet indicating the parent's desire with regard to the required immunizations are needed.

The Delta-Menominee Health Department will provide preschool physicals and immunizations at a clinic on Wednesday, April 22 at 12:30 p.m. at the Sheltered Workshop in Hermansville.

'Spring Thing' Set Thursday At Rapid River

"Spring Thing" is the title of this year's Spring Festival, which will be presented at the Rapid River High School gymnasium, Thursday, at 8 p.m. by Rapid River High School students.

The general program, directed by Mrs. Johnson, will feature musical numbers by the high school chorus. Accompaniment will provided by Linda Jo Deneau and Carol Holmlund on the piano and Dale Morin on the guitar.

Robert Debelak will direct the tumbling acts, trampoline and parallel bars demonstrations. A style revue will be presented by the home economics girls directed by Mrs. Fran Phillips. Forensic presentations will be given by Judy Hansen, Ruth Olson, and Cheryl Johnson directed by Mr. Pete Brock.

Classes displaying projects will include science, biology, math, geometry, bookkeeping, typing, shop, driver education, art, home economics, mechanical and architectural drawing.

Beaver, Otter Trappings Drop

The Department of Natural Resources reported today that the number of animals taken and number of licenses issued showed a sharp decline in the beaver and otter trapping season which ended April 8.

Only 324 licenses were sold this spring in the Escanaba district (Delta, Marquette and the western half of Alger counties) compared with 389 in 1969 and 478 in 1978.

Number of beaver taken dropped to 572 from 1,033 last year and 1,815 in 1968. There were only 73 otter trapped, compared with 99 last year and 125 in 1968.

"Trapping conditions were far from ideal with ice covered waters and cold weather prevailing," officials reported.

Prices averaged $20 for blanket beaver with a $3 drop in sizes and large otter brought $25.

Snow in the open areas, particularly in Delta County, is rapidly disappearing and burning permits are now required. Permits are available free of charge from the DNR by advising the legal description of the property upon which you wish to burn, providing conditions are otherwise safe for burning.

- Spring fish runs have not developed to any great extent as yet, officers reported ..

There is some activity off Thompson Creek, where open water exisits, for rainbow trout. The Munising area is producing fair for lake trout, rainbow and salmon as is the mouth of the AuTrain River, but fishing is thru the ice.

Ice conditions are rapidly becoming unsafe.

Players To Present Comedy Of Witches

Another well-casted, well-produced Players de Noc production is coming to the Escanaba stage beginning next week, Thursday. "Bell, Book and Candle," a delightful and entertaining hit, will star two well-known Escanabans—Betty Donalds and Jim Bruce.

Betty Donalds, who portrays the role of Gillian Holroyd, an alluring 20th Century witch, has graced the Escanaba stage in many high school and Players productions. She recently appeared in Mame, this season's musical, and adds the Crucible, Glass Managerie and Carousel to her credits.

Betty is employed as the assistant Lab technician at St. Francis Hospital. In her role as Gillian, Betty casts a bewitching spell on Shepherd Henderson, Jim Bruce, to fall in love with her and eventually finds herself falling into the magic-spell of love.

Jim Bruce, who plays the part of Shep, first appeared on stage as the older Patrick in Mame. He has become very active in Players as well as many community affairs. Jim is a CAP specialist in the Community Action Program for UPCAP.

Players de Noc will present "Bell, Book and Candle" for its third production of the '69-'70 season. The comedy will be produced three nights — Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 23, 24 and 25 at the Escanaba Area High School Auditorium with an 8 o'clock curtain time.

Tickets are on sale at Gust Asp, Wolverine Discount, all the First National Bank locations in Escanaba and Gladstone, Beck's Western Auto and the high schools and college. Tickets are adults $2 and students $1.

Bay Alumni Meet Saturday

There will be spring meeting of the Bay de Noc Community College Alumni Association on Saturday the 18th in the club room of the Civic Center beginning at 1 p.m.

Topics scheduled for discussing at the meeting include, soliciting for membership within the area and establishing a student scholarship for students at Bay de Noc Community College.

Oliver Turan, membership officer for the Alumni Association stated, "that any persons interested in becoming a member can contact him at room 105 in the Civic Center or by calling him at 786-6723.

The goal of the board of the BDNCC Alumni Association, is to encourage anyone who is interested in furthering education, by scholarships, students loans and by associating within the organization to help create new ideas.

The members of the board of trustees are as follows, Joe Viau, President, Eugene Slagstad Vice-President, Gene Herbert Treasurer, Betty Nelson Secretary and Oliver Turan. The appointed committee chairman are Mrs. Jeannie Savard corresponding secretary and Rudy Lydmark by-law chairman.

Blewett Heads Petition Effort On Parochiaid

Paul F. Blewett of Escanaba has been appointed Delta County coordinating chairman in the petition campaign by the Council Against Parochiaid to place the question of aid to non-public schools on the November ballot in Michigan.

"If the necessary 280,000 signatures are obtained, the question of giving public money to private schools will be decided by the voters in Michigan in the November election," Blewett said.

"I hope that we can obtian the help and support from the citizens of Delta County to achieve our goal."

Any registered voter is eligible to circulate a petition and all registered voters may sign. Anyone desiring further information may call 786-0567, Blewett said.

Newspaper Firm Reports Higher Revenue In 1970

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Knight Newspapers Inc. reported Tuesday operating revenue for the first three months of 1970 was $59,853,000, up from $37,790,000 for the same period in 1969.

Net income for this period was $2,558,000 or 49 cents per common share, compared with $2,862,000 or 56 cents per share last year.

The decline, which had been forecast, resulted from a combination of high interest charges and start-up costs in Philadelphia where the Inquirer and Daily News became Knight Newspapers Dec. 31, the company said.

GREENVILLE (AP) — Lloyd Walker has been appointed as Greenville's mayor at a reorganizational meeting of the city council. Walker succeeds Mayor Ronald Blanding.

Worth Is Named Award Recipient

Jean Worth of Escanaba, former editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, has been selected to receive the 1970 Lake Superior State College Distinguished Service Award, it is announced by Dr. Kenneth J. Shouldice, president.

The award will be presented at commencement exercises to be held on June 13.

"Mr. Worth does us honor in accepting this award," said Shouldice. "It is particularly fitting that the College should this year draw attention to a man who has devoted much of his life to writing on the Upper Peninsula and the conservation of our natural resources."

Awards in the past have been presented to Richard Burnett, president of the Soo Electric Co., and to Prentiss M. Brown, former U.S. Senator.

Worth was editor of the Menominee Herald-Leader before coming to Escanaba as editor of the Daily Press in 1955. He retired from the Daily Press in 1969 as editor and continues associated with the Panax Corp. as a contributing writer.

U.P. Gerontology Meeting Delayed

The Upper Peninsula conference on gerontology, originally scheduled for May 6-7 in Marquette, has been postponed until June 10-11, announced John Rukavina, Marquette Catholic Social Services worker for the Upper Peninsula.

Rukavina, who is chairman of the planning committee for the UPCAP Committee on Aging sponsoring the conference, said that the date was changed to avoid conflict with other professional meetings in May.

Rusk Fears Spread Of Asia Fighting

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk says there is "a real possibility" the fighting in Southeast Asia can spread seriously into Cambodia.

Rusk, the nation's chief diplomat under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, made the statement recently in a question-and-answer session with students of Agnes Scott College here.

He said he was surprised that Prince Sihanouk had been overthrown in Cambodia.

"On the whole, he had done a good job," Rusk said. He added, however, that Sihanouk "had fudged a little on his neutrality."

Bark River

Among recent weekend guests at the C. Elmer Johnson home for the Boyce-Johnson wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ted J. Nelson of Elgin, Ill., Mrs. Elmer Carlson of Kipling, Jacqueline Johnson of Eau Claire, Wis. and Maxine Johnson of Escanaba, Mrs. N. Arlen Johnson of Augusta, Wis. and Mrs. R. C. Boulet of Corte Madera, Calif.

Mrs. Boulet is the former Betty Johnson and she is now manager of an insurance office in San Rafael, Calif. She returned to Los Angeles to attend a three-day conference for office managers scheduled for April 13, 14 and 15. There she arranged to meet Joan Barr, formerly of Bark River, who now teaches high school in a suburb near Los Angeles. The Barrs moved to California several years ago.

Mrs. N. Arlen Johnson is visiting relatives in Wells, Escanaba and Bark River for a week before returning home.

Order In Court

What can a trial judge do to maintain order in the court when dealing with violently obstreperous defendants? On the basis of a ruling by the U. S. Supreme Court, he can do just about anything he thinks necessary.

The judge may employ the relatively gentle practice of citing the defendant for contempt of court and impose a jail sentence upon him. Or he may have the defendant bound and gagged whenever in court. Or he may have him removed from the courtroom entirely and order the trial to proceed in the defendant's absence.

With the exception of Justice William O. Douglas, who wrote a separate opinion, the court was unanimous in its ruling.

The defendant in the case heard by the Supreme Court was William Allen, who was charged with holding up a tavern and robbing it of $200. His defense against the charge was insanity. When he appeared in court in Chicago 14 years ago on the charge, Allen did indeed carry on like a madman. Judge Grover Niemeyer finally ordered him removed from the court room, and the trial continued without him.

The U. S. Court of Appeals in Chicago invalidated the conviction last July on the grounds that it was in violation of the Sixth Amendment granting defendants the right to face their accusers.

★ ★ ★

The Supreme Court's reversal of the appellate court's ruling came at a timely moment. It vindicates Judge Julius J. Hoffman's decision to order Bobby G. Seale bound and gagged during the trial of eight radicals charged with inciting riots during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968. (Seale was later ordered to stand trial separately from the other seven defendants.)

What the Supreme Court said in this recent ruling, in effect, was that, above all, there must be decorum in the nation's courts.

The constitutional rights of defendants lie at the heart of the American system of jurisprudence and democracy. But these rights and freedom itself are meaningless if we have chaos in the courts.

As Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said in a concurring opinion, the guarantees of liberty, justice and equality "cannot endure if we allow our precious heritage of ordered liberty to be ripped apart amid the sound and fury of our time." And even Justice Douglas agreed that a criminal trial cannot exist in bedlam.

Justice Hugo L. Black, who wrote the opinion for the majority, summarized the issue thusly: "It would degrade our country and our judicial system to permit our courts to be bullied, insulted and humiliated and their orderly progress thwarted and obstructed by defendants brought before them charged with crimes."

Trial judges may now run their courts secure in the knowledge that they need tolerate no violent disruptions from defendants.

Government Guide

The League of Women Voters has published a handbook of local government for Delta County, "Know Your County," which should be required reading for everyone in the county.

In its 47 pages, the paperbound book contains a wealth of information about how government is organized and operates in the county through sections on Delta County, Libraries of Delta County, Education, City of Escanaba and the City of Gladstone. Included are maps which show school district boundaries and voting precincts and diagrams which illustrate the structuring of government and the chain of command.

Did you know, for example, that including school districts there are 27 individual units of government functioning within the county? That the Escanaba Area School district, which includes the City of Escanaba and Wells, Ford River and Cornell Townships is not contiguous? That the county operates five parks? That Delta County had 14,953 registered voters in 1968?

The book was edited by Mrs. Louis Gregory and Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder of Escanaba and dedicated to the citizens of Delta County, reports Mrs. William E. Taylor, president of the league, "in the hope that it will assist them in the fulfillment of that responsibility (as citizens), that they will use it as an index to governmental services and find it a ready source of information."

The League of Women Voters over the years has provided many valuable services to the people of the county. It is appropriate in 1970, the 50th anniversary of the League of Women Voters of the United States, that this is one of their finest contributions.

Sale of $1,600,000 in school bonds for construction of a new school (kindergarten through 12th grade) in the North Dickinson County School District was announced by Superintendent Stewart Oja. The bonds were sold to First of Michigan Corp. & Associates at an interest rate of 6.35202 per cent. Site of the new school, which is expected to be completed by September of 1971, will be on County Road 569 just east of the Groveland mine entrance road. The school district now has 530 children enrolled in the Channing and Felch areas. When the building is completed, Channing and Felch High Schools will become one school to be known as the North Dickinson County High School.

The Western Union telegraph office in Ironwood has found a new home. Company officials, who previously had announced that the office would be closed and the service relocated in the Kilponen Hardware Store, relented in the face of negative public opinion and will move the office to the Chicago & North Western Railroad depot.

Industry, Environment Crusades Clash Headon

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A West German company, the BASF Corp., is suspending plans to build a $100 million chemical plant on the South Carolina coast until "responsible federal agencies" have passed judgment on the pollution risk to beach resort areas.

This is a good example of the new wariness about the need for protecting the environment, and it is certainly to be commended. It shows that Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel, once the object of suspicion in a conservation-minded U.S. Senate, is right on the ball in his zeal to make this a cleaner country.

Even so, there is a certain irony connected with it, for if any region needs new industries, it is the Carolina Low Country. The Negroes who remain there, resisting the urge to pile into the squalid slums of our northern cities, definitely need jobs; they suffer from hookworm, dysentery, and various deficiency diseases, and they can't make enough out of farming and shrimp catching to keep body and soul together.

The irony is that two crusades, both of them desirable, have clashed in the Carolina impasse. There is the crusade for a clean environment, and there is the crusade to decentralize our industry. Somehow the two crusades must be merged, for it is the congested cities, "spewing out their wastes," that are the chief menace to a decent life for 200 million Americans.

It so happens that, just as South Carolina was experiencing difficulties in its drive to attract new industry to its open countryside, a Presidential Task Force on Rural Development report, "A New Life for the Country," was reposing on Richard Nixon's White House desk.

The report looks at the drift to city life, and is properly horrified by what happens when bodies are impacted in rundown urban areas, when children become heroin pushers at the age of 12, and when rape and murder are so common that decent people barricade themselves in their homes at night.

The Task Force report addresses itself to the need for reversing what has been one of the "largest migrations in recorded history," a migration that has brought 25 million people from the rural areas into the cities in the past quarter of a century. Some three-fourths of our population now lives on two per cent of our land, which is a ridiculous waste of a country that is still wide open and beautiful no matter what its detractors may say.

★ ★ ★

The Task Force ticks off a number of things that might be done to restore the balance between city and country. It speaks of using tax incentives to lure businesses into the open spaces, and of building new "people-to-job" roads to get workers from their part-time farms to supplementary jobs in factories. It suggests a Rural Development Credit Bank, not for providing investment capital directly to farmers but to develop rural industries.

Somehow the Task Force recommendations sound wistful. Not that they aren't worthwhile in themselves, but they run up against all the things that the government has been doing to force the drift into the cities.

Franklin D. Roosevelt talked eloquently about restoring the balance between city and country, but his New Deal farm programs worked to displace the small farmer and encourage the development of large - scale corporate farming. This sort of thing still goes on. The big farmer used his support money to buy new tractors, better seed, more abundant fertilizer. However, the small farmer, lacking benefits in volume, couldn't afford the capital equipment to keep pace in a continually overproduced market. He has been crowded off the land.

Nevertheless, the balance between city and country may be redressed by a natural growth in repugnance to city life. A talent - hunting firm reports that it is increasingly difficult to recruit executives to work in big cities, particularly in New York. If this attitude snowballs we may see more and more corporations decentralizing their activities.

Yet if we are to hasten the day, we shall have to find ways to avoiding the South Carolina impasse. In moving to the country, our industries must recycle their wastes.

This is the technical problem to which our young "Earth Day" enthusiasts should be addressing themselves, which means that they should spend less time demonstrating and more time in their chemistry and biology laboratories.

Russ Leader, U.S. 'Boss' Share Some Of Same Ideas

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Observations from the world of business and finance:

—The top-ranking official in the world's most powerful Communist nation, and the top man in the largest manufacturing concern in the capitalist world, apparently share some thoughts.

In criticizing lagging labor productivity, Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's comments sounded a bit like those of James Roche, chairman of the board of General Motors Corp.

Wants Workers Penalized

In a television address this week to the Russian people, Brezhnev said:

"Many of our rank-and-file workers and many leading officials at times lack a heightened sense of responsibility and discipline. Some sectors of the economy fail year after year to fulfill their plan."

He demanded stiff penalties against shirkers and drunkards, and he reminded workers that each "has an interest in the improved functioning of enterprises."

In a speech several weeks ago to the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Roche complained that worker productivity was falling badly, that absenteeism had doubled in a decade, and that the quality of work was not what it should be.

Responsibility Cited

Roche said workers had a responsibility to produce quality in keeping with their demands for higher quality in the goods they buy. Like Brezhnev, he reminded workers that their efforts do indeed affect the total picture.

"Our ability to improve our standards of living depends directly on our willingness to work to create the goods and services we enjoy," Roche said.

—Boeing Co. officials are puzzled by the long lines that seem to develop near restrooms on the new 747s. The 12 facilities on most 747s were based on studies of prior usage on smaller planes. But for some reason, perhaps because they are free to roam about, 747 jumbo jet passengers seem to have changed their habits.

Nothing Confused?

—After months of pleading that a misbilling be corrected, a customer said to the service representative of a large utility: "Things must be pretty confused in your billing department."

"Oh no," she replied. "We've got only 10,000 similar situations now."

Told that this appeared to be a very high figure, she stated: "A few months ago we had 40,000."

The bookkeeping and paperwork breakdown illustrated by this conversation is considered by concerned observers, businessmen included, to be the ranking scandal of American business.

Broad Spectrum Involved

It involves a broad spectrum of business. On Wall Street, some firms have actually capitulated under a confusion of paper. In many retail stores, the flood of complaints is simply ignored. Some mail order houses are immersed in troubles.

Damage greater than what can be measured in dollars and cents may be the consequence of the breakdown. Frustrated in their attempts to communicate with business, customers often find that the only response they get is a threat to their credit rating.

Smoke from the funnels of the four big ore carriers and an occasional blast from one of the hoarse whistles, or from the light ship fog horn in the harbor, led to many conversations about the possible date for the opening of navigation here. Crews of the four boats are arriving and it was expected that all would be fully manned by the end of the week. This week also will see an official government inspection.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead—six of spades.

It is not uncommon for the outcome of a contract to hinge on the play of one card. Consequently, whenever declarer is faced with a situation where his decision on which card to play may make or break the contract, he should direct every vestige of his energy and logic to that particular problem.

Consider this case where West leads a spade. East wins with the ace and returns the jack, and it is at this point that South must make the crucial decision of whether to play the queen or the nine.

If he puts on the queen, he goes down two; if he ducks, he winds up with nine ironclad tricks.

The question is how declarer can tell which play is more likely to succeed. The answer is actually quite simple — if you know the Rule of Eleven.

Declarer's main concern is to diagnose East's spade holding. If East started with four spades, which is unlikely, South will make the contract whatever he does — because his only losers are four spade tricks.

Equally, if East started with A-J-x, declarer will be unhorsed whatever he does, for the defense will promptly score five spade tricks.

The only situations that matter are where East has A-J bare — in which case South must duck and leave East hopelessly on lead — and where East has A-J-10, in which case South must cover the jack in order to block the suit and prevent it from being run.

According to the Rule of Eleven, declarer can tell by subtracting six (the card led) from eleven that the North, East and South hands contain five cards higher than the six.

Since those five cards—dummy's seven, South Q-9 and East's A-J — are fully accounted for, it follows that East cannot have started with the A-J-10 and that the only real chance of blocking the suit is to play East for the A-J doubleton.

Federal Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $415,000 federal grant has been awarded the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity to help provide program administration, neighborhood centers, community organization and senior opportunities and services.

Local contribution for the programs is $137,888.

U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said the grant was made by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

Ann Landers

Iowan Has Trouble Swallowing The Bait

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is either the most loving and Christian man in the world or he is trying to brainwash me for reasons of his own.

Tim says he loves me so much he wants me to have an affair with another man. He claims he wants my life to be complete and that he would not mind if I had a side romance, provided it didn't change my feelings for him.

Do you believe it is possible for a woman to take a lover and feel the same about her husband? I don't. I've told Tim I am unable to give myself just for kicks. I'm a one-man woman and I'll never change. I was a virgin when I married and I have no desire to have an affair.

Tim keeps hounding me—insists I am missing something. Have you ever heard of a husband urging his wife to be unfaithful because he wants her to enjoy life more? Sounds fishy to me. What do you say? —Iowa Dilly

Dear Dill: Sounds fishy to me, too. No man in his right mind would encourage his wife to have an affair just for the halibut.

There's something sick about Tim's suggestion. Either he wants to even the score because he has guilt feelings about his own philandering or he finds the mental image of you with another man sexually stimulating. In any event, stick to your principles and tell Tim to throw the idea back in the tank.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: I just had to write and tell you I saw myself in your advice to Warren's mother. I hung on to my son too fiercely for too long. I kept telling myself the boy needed me because his father was weak. I made excuses for letting him come home from camp after two days (allergies), getting him excused from physical education (asthma) and letting him come home from college after ten days (skin rash). I encouraged him to break two engagements with girls who were lovely.

My "Warren" is now 29. He has no friends, male or female. All he wants to do is hang around me and my widowed friends. He is an overgrown baby and I am to blame. Thanks for letting me get this out of my system.—A Twin To Warren's Mother

Dear Mother: Getting it out of your system doesn't help your son much. Urge him to see a therapist and let's hope he is salvageable.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's the situation. I think I am pregnant. I am not married. The father of my unborn child is a nice guy but nobody I would care to marry. He probably wouldn't marry me anyway, so it's just as well that I'm not ape over him.

Is there any way I can arrange to give the baby away if it is a girl and keep it if it's a boy? Or must a girl make up her mind in advance and stick to it? Can I name the baby Jr. and use the father's last name? My last name is terrible and I'd hate to hang it on a kid. Please give me some advice.—Blue Eyes

Dear Eyes: The person in charge of the Home For Unwed Mothers will answer your first question. As for your second question please don't give your child the name of a man to whom you are not married. It would be a mess, and from the way your letter reads, you're going to have plenty of problems without this one.

Milliken Plans Five-Stop Fly-In On Pollution Tour

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken planned again today to set off on a five-stop flying tour of local antipollution programs across Lower Michigan.

The flying trip to Saginaw, Detroit, Benton Harbor, Muskegon and Grand Rapids, aboard a National Guard C-54, had been scheduled two weeks ago but was canceled when a sudden spring storm dumped eight to 16 inches of snow across the state's midsection.

"Our tour today," Milliken said in a statement from his office, "should serve to highlight the problems we face in the environment, outline in some detail the steps being taken to solve them and stimulate greater voluntary effort as well as greater state-local cooperation."

The tour's scheduled stops were aimed at stressing positive, successful pollution combat, in contrast to developments of recent weeks that kept Milliken and chief departmental aides on the defensive.

Tuition Up

ALLENDALE (AP) — Tuition and fees go up at Grand Valley State College this summer with an increase in dormitory room and board charges scheduled to take effect in the fall.

Tuition and fees for Michigan residents will rise $15 per term to $140. For nonresidents, the increase is $30 per term to $360. Room and board charges will be hiked $81 per academic year to $1,080.

St. Clair Waters Closed To Fishing By Milliken

LANSING (AP) — Michigan waters of the Mercury - contaminated St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair are closed to fishing by executive order of Gov. William Milliken.

The closure, effective at 1 p.m. today, follows similar steps taken several days earlier by Canada.

Banned By Canada

However, Canada also banned fishing in the Detroit River. Michigan has not.

Milliken, in announcing over the weekend his intention to declare the St. Clair closures, said he did not have enough information to justify it for the Detroit River as well.

Violators of the closure order are subject to a fine of up to $100 and a jail term of up to 90 days.

In signing the closure order, Milliken also said he will propose legislation soon to require "registration of processes, materials and manufacturing products in Michigan and the content and volume of waste discharges" into state waters. "I am also evaluating alternative methods of expanding the state's capabilities for monitoring and surveillance necessary to increase protection of the state's waters," he said.

Question Evaded

The governor has sidestepped the question of legal action against companies responsible for mercury pollution, and said the important matter is stopping pollution in the future.

Meanwhile, Ohio Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown announced his state would bring suit against Dow Chemical Co. of Sarnia, Ont., and Wyandotte Chemical of Detroit.

Ohio has banned commercial fishing on its side of Lake Erie.

Brown said he expects attorneys in adjoining states to join in the lawsuit. Leon Cohan, deputy attorney general for Michigan, said Michigan legal authorities had not yet been contacted and he did not know whether the state would join in such a suit.

Lawsuit Planned

Meanwhile, Ohio Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown announced his state would bring suit against Dow Chemical Co. of Sarnia, Ont., and Wyandotte Chemical Co. of Detroit and an Ontario official said the province is studying legal technicalities of launching its own suit against the two chemical companies.

George Kerr, Ontario energy and resources minister, also says the province has begun issuing invitations to both American and Canadian government leaders to attend an international conference on pollution that may be held in Toronto in June.

Charges Denied

Donald Collins, chairman of the Ontario Water Resources Commission denied Ohio's charges Tuesday that Ontario is a primary contributor to Great Lakes pollution.

Collins told a meeting of Kent County municipalities that 97 per cent of the pollutants dumped into the Detroit River come from Michigan and charged that Ohio also is contributing "massive doses" of pollutants to its own waterways such as the Maumee River. He suggested pollution control in the state is less effective than Ontario's.

The other lovely is Mrs. Lance Reventlow. They were in Fort Smith for opening of a Minitek theater, a joint venture of United Artists Theatres and Holiday.

A flock of 1,000 starlings will consume about 65 lbs. of feed in one day.

Cattle Farmers Asking Top 'Cut'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen say they will produce plenty of beef for expanding consumer appetites, but only if prices remain high and the federal government keeps its nose out.

"We think, and we're confident, that the cattle industry is going to continue to produce beef at a rate which would allow a further increase in the per capita level of consumption," says C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association.

"But we need to be sure to have the economic incentive to do it," McMillan said during an interview with ANCA leaders. "Of course, this is reflected in prices."

William D. Farr, ANCA president, whose feedlots near Greeley, Colo., turn out nearly 20,000 tons of quality beef annually, said today's cattle prices—generally the highest in many years—would provide such incentive.

The ANCA remarks followed a congressional committee action last Thursday which turned back a report calling for more federal supervision of the cattle business.

The report, written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., urged Congress to set up a special commission to determine "the adequacy of the meat supply" at all marketing levels from ranches to supermarkets.

The report also said present U.S. meat import quota regulations were detrimental to consumers by restricting the amount of foreign beef allowed to come into this country.

Farr and other cattlemen opposed the recommendation and effectively lobbied last week against the report.

Agnew Wrong About U-M, Governor Milliken Claims

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An aide to Michigan Gov. William Milliken said Tuesday he plans to voice a private complaint to Vice President Spiro Agnew about Agnew's attack on the University of Michigan.

Milliken, a Republican, said Agnew was "wrong" in leveling criticism at the university during a speech at Des Moines, Iowa, Monday.

Agnew charged University president Robben Fleming with "surrender" in negotiating with black students and a "callow retreat from reality" by meeting the demands of the Black Action Movement.

10 Per Cent Blacks

The university agreed to try for a 10 per cent black enrollment by the 1973-74 school year.

A spokeman for Milliken said the governor would "make his views known" to Agnew, perhaps while the governor is in Washington Thursday for a Republican leadership conference.

Milliken said, in reacting to the Agnew speech that the Vice President "did not have as much information as did the elected board of regents in making its decision." Milliken added that Michigan will "continue to be" one of the nation's leading universities.

Lowering Standards?

Agnew charged that by admitting what he called "unqualified" students, the University of Michigan would be lowering its standards and reputation.

Michigan's president Robben Fleming said Tuesday "We do not wish to apologize in any way, we are proud" of our program. Felming said that Agnew was "very badly informed, among other things" in regards the black student enrollment program at the Ann Arbor school.

Fleming Strikes Back

Fleming said that in the United States "we say we stand for equality of educational opportunity. If we mean that we should open the university to the black student population who have been disadvantaged for so long."

Fleming said that Agnew "concludes that the students admitted would be unqualified, while in fact "they will be most able to compete at the university, perhaps with a little help" to make up for their academic background in certain areas.

Fleming called race relations in the nation "a cancer, and if we are not ready to move, then we are in a sorry state."

Apology Asked

Rep. George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, majority leader in the state House of Representatives said "If Vice President Agnew opens his mouth again, it should only be to apologize to the regents, administration, faculty and students."

Montgomery, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said Agnew's speech represented an "irresponsible and malicious attempt to interfere with the affairs of the people of the state."

Gardner Ackley, Henry Carter Adam's professor of economics at Michigan and former United States Ambassador to Italy, who was quoted by Agnew in his speech said Tuesday "I very much resent the fact that the Vice President has used a sketchy and rather misleading newspaper report of my remarks at a faculty meeting several weeks ago to support his unwarranted attack on the University of Michigan."

Campus Authority Hit

Ackley said the quotes used by Agnew were "not directed at the 10 per cent black enrollment program, which I support, but to campus authority during student unrest."

Ackley also commented on the Agnew statement about Italian universities' devalued diplomas. Ackley said "as a student of Italian history and affairs his (Agnew's) remarks are incomprehensible and completely irrevelent to the U.S. situation."

William Keast, president of Wayne State University in Detroit supported Fleming's statement and said in a telegram to President Nixon, "I deplore (Agnew's) irresponsible and inaccurate remarks on the complex problems of extending opportunity in higher education to black students."

Not His Concern?

When asked at a news conference Tuesday if the Dniversity of Michigan was the "proper" concern of the Vice President, Robben Fleming said "well, I suppose if one is Vice President then he can concern himself with anything around the country, and he does."

Births

THELANDER — A daughter, weighing 6 pounds and 6½ ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thelander, 430 Delto Ave., on Sunday, Apr. 12, at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital. The mother is the former Mary Lou Selling.

Police Discover Stolen Goods In Own Department

ROOSEVELT PARK (AP) — The trail of one of 16 typewriters stolen during an August, 1968 burglary at Kenowa Hills High School near Grand Rapids led right to the police station in this Muskegon suburb.

Lawrence Flynn, a Kent County sheriff's deputy, said one of the typewriters was used at the police station for more than a year after its purchase from a local businessman.

Police Chief Dale A. DeMarr, a bit embarrassed by the incident, said the department had no idea the typewriter was stolen. DeMarr helped recover six other stolen machines in the Muskegon area but thus far no charges have been filed against anyone in the case.

PO Job Okayed

CADILLAC (AP) — Rep. Guy VanderJadt, R-Mich., says construction of a new post office has been approved for Cadillac.

The city is currently using a post office that is more than 60 years old. Construction of the new building is expected to begin within the year, the Cadillac congressman said. No cost figures for the building were announced.

Hospital

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital over the weekend were Dawn Russell, Harold Rochefort, Gladys Scott, Josephine Derwin, Al Lavigne, Lorraine Ozanich, Robert Burton, Patricia Stapleton, Mary Lou Thelander, Emily Anderson and Myron Moore.

MISS HELEN VOISINE, cooperative vocational distribution education teacher at the Manistique High School, will serve as a member of the advisory committee to the Center for Vocational and Technical Education at Ohio State University. Her appointment was recommended by Richard J. Shupe, state supervisor for cooperative vocational distributive education in Michigan. The committee will work on developing programs for professional preparation of vocational and technical teachers of disadvantaged youths and teacher-coordinators of cooperative programs. Miss Voisine, who formerly worked in retailing in the Detroit area, taught in Detroit schools and at Wayne State University, holds both a B.A. and M. A. from Wayne.

MANISTIQUE

Library Week Will Be Observed Here

National Library Week is being observed with special projects being inaugurated in honor of the occasion at the Manistique School and Public Library.

The library is emphasizing the theme "Read-Look-Listen" with the emphasis on listening. A cassette check-out service has been stated with a listening station installed so patrons may use tapes available from the school audio-visual department. Posters, book marks, lapel buttons and bumper stickers (imploring the looker to "Follow me to the Library") are available for distribution.

Board of Education members are to be special guests of the Library Advisory Board at their regular luncheon meeting Thursday in the Conference Room of the high school.

A Story Hour is scheduled for Saturday morning at 10:30 and all children three years and older are invited to attend the program at the library.

In cooperation with the Bureau of Library Services, Blind and Physically Handicapped Library in Lansing, the local library has received a Talking Book machine and a pilot program is being inaugurated. Complete novels, biographies, non-fiction material and periodicals are on records for use by the blind and physically handicapped and will be demonstrated during the next month.

Library personnel have issued an invitation to old and new patrons to stop in and browse.

Women's Club Hosts Senior Girls At Tea

About 75 girls attended the one o'clock dessert which featured a spring and summer fashion show, courtesy of Northern Woolen Goods Store. Miss Helen Voisine was narator with organ music provided by James Malloy.

Models included Roberta Ebli, Mary Cockram, Patricia Slining, Meg Moffat, Barbara Beaton, Marlene Pawley, Karen Jetty and Juli Garber.

Mrs. J.P. Quick entended the welcome. Mrs. Clyde Strasler and Mrs. Charles Varnum were co-chairmen of the hostess committee.

Next meeting of the club will be the May 5 spring luncheon at the Surf. Program for the afternoon will be by the drama committee.

Obituary

MRS. CHARLES WILLOUR

Mrs. Charles (Florence) Willour, 55, of Gulliver died enroute to the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Tuesday morning after being stricken at her home.

The former Florence Stites was born Aug. 28, 1914 in Huntspur and spent all of her life in the Gulliver area. She was married Oct. 16, 1933 to Charles Willour in Calspar.

Survivors include her husbond; her father, Edward Stites, Gulliver; one son, Harry, Gulliver, and one daughter, Mrs. Harley (Shirley) Seaman, Germantown, Wis.; two brothers, Lawrence Stites, Waukesha, Wis., and Ralph Stites, Gulliver; three sisters, Mrs. Emil (Anna) Price, Mrs. William (Lucille) Price and Mrs. Edwin (Eleanor) MacGregor, all of Gulliver. Four grandchildren also survive.

Friends may call beginning at four o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Messier-Broullire Funeral Home. Services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. from the funeral home with Rev. Norman Weaver officiating. Burial will follow in the Fairview Cemetery.

Sample President Of Booster Club

Officers were elected at the organizational meeting of the Manistique Athletic Booster Club Monday night.

Eldon Sample is president; Robert White, vice president; and Mrs. Arthur Fountain Jr., secretary-treasurer.

Anyone interested in athletics is invited to join the next meeting of the group on May 4 at 7:30 p.m. Further information may be obtained from the officers.

A membership drive is planned for next fall.

Newspaper Want Ads are a big sell! One billion, twenty-one million was spent on classified ads last year . . . more than for all magazine advertising combined and more than 300 million more than radio advertising.

Mrs. Mercier Gets Auxiliary Award

Mrs. Gladys Mercier received the Margaret Anderson Membership Trophy during the spring rally of posts and auxiliaries held at Flat Rock last Sunday. Attending from Manistique were Clifford Lambert, Post 83 Commander, Mrs. Wallace Peck, Mrs. Martha Malloch, Mrs. Lalla Martin, and Mrs. Mercier who is auxiliary president.

At a recent auxiliary meeting, the group wrote letters which will be sent to a state officer who will group them with other communications requesting the Hanoi government to release prisoners of war held in North Vietnam. Plans were also announced for the annual Poppy Day sale in May.

Anyone desiring to bup antenna flags for cars should contact Mrs. Mercier at 341-5172 or any other Auxiliary member.

The Auxiliary also announced they had purchased a library memorial book in honor of Mrs. J. Joseph Herbert.

Game awards went to Mrs. Clara Whitman and Mrs. George Stephens. Next meeting will be May 13 at the Lakeside School.

Being A Southpaw Has Its Drawbacks

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Are you a cuddy wifter, maybe buck-fisted, coochy-handed, kayneived, gibble-fisted or dolly-pawed?

Dr. Harold Orton, visiting professor of English at the University of Tennessee, says these expressions are just a few of the 88 ways the English have of saying left-handed.

Orton, professor emeritus at the University of Leeds in England, discovered the expressions while compiling his 12-volume "Survey of English Dialects."

Orton, who retired in 1964, is teaching courses in history of the English language at UT.

Rev. John Marrs

Rev. J. Marrs To Headline Church Conclave

The Rev. John Marrs is one of several speakers to present, "Missions Today," at the Calvary Baptist Church of Escanaba during the annual missionary conference to be held April 15-19. This year the missionary emphasis will be on missions at home and around the world.

Beginning this evening a missionary filmstrip on Argentina and the working of God in this country will be shown, with special prayer for the conference.

Thursday evening, the Rev. David Swanson will share the work of the home mission pastor as he relates the beginning of and establishing of new churches in new communities.

Friday evening the Rev. William Murray will be the guest speaker. He is a missionary on furlough from mission work in Ethiopia. Saturday evening the Rev. Elmer Johnson, director of the Great Lakes Baptist Conference will speak on the subject of missions as it relates to the local church in the community.

Sunday, the Rev. John Marrs, missionary from Brazil, will speak at the morning service. Rev. Marrs is a veteran missionary and will tell of the work of God in the South American countries.

Sunday evening the film, "Unanswered Island," will be shown. The film tells of the lives of two young men in the city of Cebu in the Philippine Islands.

All of the evening meetings will begin at 7 in the sanctuary of the church and question and answer sessions will be held at all meetings except the Sunday morning service which begins at 11 a.m. All area persons are invited to attend. The church is located across from the U.P. Fairgrounds.

Save Our Air Report:

Odors Are Discovered At Oregon Kraft Mill

By DAVE ANDREWS

An American Can Co., pulp mill more than 2,000 miles from the Upper Peninsula took on added significance today in the local and state controversy over plans of the Mead Corp., to build a kraft process pulp mill at the Escanaba Paper Co.

The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save our Air indicated Tuesday night that it would pursue its objections to the Mead Corp., plans at a meeting of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission in Lansing next Tuesday on the basis of a report developed on the Halsey, Ore., mill by Ray Sabuco of Escanaba, a member of the SOA committee.

An application by Mead Corp., for a construction permit to build a 700-ton, $65 million pulp mill at the Escanaba Paper Co., will be considered by the Air Pollution Control Commission at 10 a. m.

Two Day Visit

Sabuco spent two days in Halsey, Ore., earlier this month investigating air pollution conditions in the area following a report to the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission last month by Bernard Bloomfield of the State Health Department that the American Can Co., operation is "essentially odor free." The report substantiated the contention of Mead Corp., that modern technology has made it possible to construct a kraft pulp mill without creating an air pollution (odor) problem.

Sabuco, John Walbridge and Amer Pederson of the Save Our Air group indicated Tuesday night at a meeting at Marco's Restaurant that they would challenge the state report on the basis of Sabuco's findings.

"The results of this (Sabuco's trip to Oregon) just reinforce my contention that there's never been a kraft mill built that doesn't smell," Walbridge said. "My firm conviction is that if a kraft mill is built it's going to change the character of the community."

48 Interviews

Sabuco, who reported on his findings to a group of residents and Escanaba, Gladstone and Delta County governmental leaders, said he interviewed 48 residents of the Halsey area.

Two persons found the odors objectionable all the time, 12 found it objectionable some of the time (twice or more per week), 33 found it objectionable some of the time, but not too bad, and one person never smelled it at all.

The interviews all were conducted within a three and a half mile radius of the American Can Co., mill, he said.

Sabuco said the key factor in odor in the area is wind direction.

The American Can mill is located west of Halsey, a town of about 440 population in the Willamette Valley, and the prevailing winds in the valley are north and south. Consequently, he said, the residents of the community generally do not encounter odors from American Can Co., unless winds blow from the west.

Two Other Mills

He also said residents of the area are influenced by odor from kraft mills at Albany, 16 miles north, and Springfield, 31 miles south, from mills which he termed two "of the worst polluters in the nation."

"The only time people in Halsey find odors from the American Can Co., mill objectionable is when the wind is out of the west for a considerable length of time, which is rarely the case," he said.

Sabuco, who showed a short film taken at Halsey, said he did not contact any officials from American Can Co., because his sole purpose was to determine the environmental impact of the mill on the residents of the area.

Sabuco said that when he first arrived in Halsey, about 5 a. m., April 6, the air was heavy and a light rain was falling. Temperature was 47 degrees and wind was out of the southwest at about three miles per hour.

Odor In Area

"Odors of hydrogen sulfide permeated the entire area around the American Can Co. The odors varied from a trace one mile from the plant in a southerly segment to very objectionable in the northerly segment as far as three miles from the plant."

Later in the day, he reported, the weather cleared and "there were no noticeable odors in the southern segment from the plant and only a trace as far away as three miles in the northern segment."

Early in the morning (4:30 a. m.) on April 7, Sabuco also said "no odors noticeable anywhere in the area except a trace as far as three miles to the north."

As far as his interviews, Sabuco said "it was necessary that I interview people of the area in which I could find the people and that was mostly in the towi of Halsey. Halsey is away from the prevailing winds that pass the mill, therefore, out of the "stink" zone. Those people whose homes were in line with the prevailing winds, did, in fact, smell objectionable odors much of the time."

For Michigan Week:

Youth Symphony Coming May 14

The 125 - member Michigan Youth Symphony will play in Escanaba and three other Upper Peninsula cities as a highlight of Michigan Week.

On its first visit to the U. P., the Youth Symphony will play at Escanaba in William Oliver Auditorium at 7:30 p. m., May 14, followed by concerts at Marquette, Houghton and Sault Ste. Marie.

Harry B. Welliver, chairman of the Michigan Week Cultural Activities Committee, said expenses of the tour are being underwritten by the Mott Foundation, together with local sponsoring groups. Tour participants will be lodged at homes of high school musicians in three Upper Michigan communities and at Michigan Tech dormitories after their concerts.

The 1,200 mile tour will be made in three buses which will depart from Dearborn, Ann Arbor and Flint on May 14. Dr. Orien E. Dalley, founder, director and conductor of the Michigan Youth Symphony arranged the tour.

Welliver termed the Upper Michigan visit of the 21-year-old orchestra "a new and heartening profile of young Americans of varied origins and backgrounds fused together in an unusual cultural organization."

A nonprofit group, the youthful orchestra is sponsored by the University of Michigan School of Music and the U. of M's Extension Service.

Proceeds from the more than 200 performances it has given through the years have gone into music scholarships or the advancement of local community programs.

The orchestra members, ranging in age from 12 to 22, are serious music students from areas within a 150 mile radius of Ann Arbor. Rehearsals are held every other Saturday with some students driving 300 miles over the weekend to participate.

In addition to the Upper Michigan tour, the orchestra schedule this year includes appearances at eight Michigan cities —Howell, Marshall, Grosse Ile, Tecumseh, Dearborn, Bay City, Flint and Jackson.

League Aids In Representation Petition Drive

The Escanaba League of Women Voters will participate in a nationwide drive April 15-22 to win congressional representation for the 800,000 residents of Washington, D.C., Dorrine Anderson, Gladstone, Escanaba League President announced.

"Although some of our members have been collecting signatures already," said Mrs. Anderson, "most of our efforts will coincide with the national drive during those eight days."

The League-sponsored petition calls for a constitutional amendment granting a congressional voice to Washington, D. C., residents.

Escanaba League members are working with instructors and students in area high schools and Bay de Noc Community College to collect signatures. By April 23 the drive will be over and all petitions will be sent to the State League office to be taken to Washington, said Mrs. Anderson.

Petitions from all over the country will be formally presented to Congress during the League of Women Voters National Convention in Washington May 4-8.

Nationally, the League hopes to get one million signatures. The Escanaba League has set a goal of 500-700 signatures, 10-15 per member.

Dufour Loses Damage Suit

MARQUETTE — After listening to four days of testimony and deliberating for five hours a jury of eight men and four women returned a "no cause of action" in a $25,000 civil suit in U.S. District Court here, Judge W. Wallace Kent, Kalamazoo, presiding.

The trial opened last Tuesday and the case went to the jury Friday, when court was recessed for the weekend. The jury resumed deliberations Monday morning and returned its verdict in the afternoon.

Terry Dufour, Escanaba, was seeking a $25,000 judgment from Stephen A. and Thomas E. Malato, Chicago, for injuries sustained in an automobile accident. It occurred on April 20, 1968, on highway U.S. 41 near the Marquette city limits.

Attorneys were Robert W. Hansley, Escanaba, for Dufour and John E. McDonald, Marquette, for the Malatos.

LANSING — Gov. William Milliken today appointed three Upper Peninsula members to the Advisory Task Force to the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, including Rev. Louis Cappo, pastor of St. Anne's Church in Escanaba, and John W. Moffat of Manistique, vice president and general manager of Inland Lime & Stone Co.

Also appointed were Roger C. Williams of Menominee and Myrton M. Riggs, editor and publisher of the Cheboygan Daily Tribune. Williams, president of the Menominee Publishing Co. and editor and publisher of the Menominee Harold-Leader, is president of Bay Graphics, Inc., a printing sales firm, and president of the Menominee Area Chamber of Commerce.

Fr. Cappo has been active in community development work throughout the Upper Peninsula for many years. He formerly served on the Michigan Tourist Council and now is chairman of the Economic Development Committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress (UPCAP).

Moffat, is a former member of the Board of Trustees of the Michigan Tech Development Fund, former director of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, and former member of the Manistique Area Board of Education advisory committee.

Riggs is a former president of the North Central Health Facilities Planning Council and now is a member of the Hospital Research and Educational Reserve and the Advisory Council of the Small Business Administration.

He also served as president of the Northern Michigan Development Council from 1955 to 1965 and as a member of Gov. George Romney's Blue Ribbon Committee on Higher Education.

The four new appointees will join the 21-member Task Force at its next meeting.

Rest Center Goal Is Near

Manager Walter Lewke of the Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce reported to the Board of Directors Monday that commitments totaling $14,880 have been received which is not quite the minimum demanded by the City of Escnaba for the development of the downtown rest center.

However, there are several who are awaiting word from home offices for authorization to participate in the program, he reported. The project is being let out on bids and construction should begin shortly. President Thomas Straebel conducted the meeting.

Chairman Jack Winters of the Transportation Committee has finalized the date for the transportation seminar to be held on May 18 from 7-9 p. m., at the Chamber building, the Board was advised. Final details are being completed on the agenda.

The Board of Directors approved the purchase of tickets for the Green Bay Packers-Buffalo Bills exhibition game Sept. 12.

The State Affairs Committee will begin study of the daylight savings time controversy immediately after April 15. The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce is attempting by public petition to put this on a referendum ballot in November.

The Delta County Board of Commissioners has approved the printing of 50,000 Delta County tourist folders and the Chamber Board of Directors approved the printing of 50,000 copies of the Escanaba folder for the 1971 season. The Tourism Committee, Fred Saykllv, chairman, met Tuesday evening to discuss potential tourist attractions for the 1970 season.

Under direction of the Retail Division, an assembly was held at Holy Name High School on the prevention of shoplifting. Mrs. Carrie Larson chaired the presentation and Aaron Stein, Nicholas Chapekis, Richard Paradise, Gordon Bean and Lewke participated.

The Board accepted as new members Don's Spur Gas Station, assigned to Donald Grzena; Mr. Ed's Bar, assigned to Edwin H. Young; Delta Sewing Center, assigned to Lawrence Smith; and the Mayflower Restaurant, assigned to Tassos Matiatos.

Ruppe To Visit Delta County

WASHINGTON D.C.—Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton) has scheduled a visit to Delta County Friday.

Included in the Congressman's schedule are office hours in both Escanaba and Gladstone, a speech before an assembly of students at Escanaba Area High School, and a dinner address at the annual meeting of the Delta County Soil Conservation Service.

Rupp's office hours in the Gladstone City Hall are scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon and all area residents are invited to discuss problems they may have regarding the federal government. Office hours in Escanaba are scheduled in the Civil Service room of the Escanaba Post Office from 3 to 5 p.m.

In a speech before the student body at the Escanaba Area High School, Ruppe will discuss "The Environmental Dilemma," describing the options and choices which face the nation in the field of pollution control.

Saturday, Ruppe will travel to Iron Mountain and Ishpeming before going to lower Michigan for office hours at Cheboygan, Otsego and Charlevox counties.

Wednesday, April 22, Ruppe will participate in the environmental teach in at Alpena Community College.

McGillis Gets Prison Term

James McGillis, formerly of Escanaba, was sentenced at Grand Haven to serve 2 to 10 years in prison for breaking and entering the Jenison High School.

McGillis, 24, was sentenced on Tuesday by Ottawa County Circuit Judge Raymond Smith.

Escanaba police said McGillis has a record here and that he was on probation at the time of the offense at Grand Haven.

On Jan. 12, 1968, McGillis broke into Holy Name High School. In Circuit Court here he was sentenced to serve six months in jail and was placed on probation for three years.

Storm Possible At Landing Site

ABOARD USS IWO JIMA (AP) — A tropical storm that could give birth to a hurricane lumbered toward the Apollo 13 splashdown site today but recovery ship officials said they expected no weather they could not cope with.

Observers aboard the Iwo Jima kept a close watch on Tropical Storm Helen as it moved across the Pacific at less than six miles per hour.

If it keeps up its present course and speed forecasters said the storm's fringe could be as near as 230 miles to the target point when Apollo 13 returns to earth Friday.

Winds near the center of the storm were clocked at nearly 50 miles per hour and gusts up to about 35 m.p.h. licked out from the center for 150 miles.

The ship's meteorologist, Lt. R. B. Otis, said the storm probably will intensify. "It could very well become a hurricane" he said. He added that Helen, traveling southeastward, could take a more southerly course and speed up.

Officials noted that if the weather creates critical problems the astronauts could maneuver their craft to land 200 miles beyond or short of the splashdown target, about 600 miles south of Samoa.

Capt. Leland F. Kirkemo, commander of the recovery ship, said he anticipated no problems even if the splashdown occurred in winds of around 45 m.p.h. He said several practice exercises already had been conducted in winds of that velocity off Hawaii.

LA Lakers Dunk Atlanta, 105-94

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry West, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer, plays defense, too.

The Los Angeles star pitched in 23 points Tuesday night as the Lakers defeated Atlanta 105-94 to take a 2-0 lead in the Western Division playoff finals.

But West's key contribtion came on defense where he continued to shackle Atlanta's Lou Hudson, holding him to 12 points, 13 below his regular season average.

Hudson managed to hit only 5 of 20 shots from the floor, and went only 6 of 16 in his 16-point effort in the first game of the best-of-7 series here Sunday.

"We did not expect to win two games here," West said. "It's nice to be in this situation."

Los Angeles could sweep the series with victories on its home floor Friday and Sunday nights and then face the New York-Milwaukee survivor for the NBA championship.

New York also leads the Eastern Division playoffs, which resume at Milwaukee Friday night, by a 2-0 margin.

If the capacity crowd of 7,100 expected to see blood, they were disappointed.

Atlanta Coach Richie Guerin, irged at officiating in Sunday's game, called a news conference Monday and accused officials of protecting West and Elgin Baylor.

"If we get called for little bitty fouls, then West and Baylor won't be around at the end," Guerin had said. "A lot of blood will be split on the floor tomorrow night."

Walter Kennedy, the league commissioner, slapped a $1,000 fine on Guerin for remarks "detrimental to basketball."

However, the game wasn't any rougher than the average NBA game, but an aroused crowd peppered paper cups and occasionally ice onto the floor when they disagreed with an official's calls.

Wilt Chamberlain, continuing to play back into peak condition, pulled down 24 rebounds and matched teammate Dick Garret's game high 24 points.

Giants Outslug Braves; Henderson Has Big Day

By The Associated Press

The Atlanta Stadium scoreboard was flashing numbers so fast it was an electrician's dream—the ideal situation for a machine-age hitter like Ken Henderson.

First there was an eight-run inning for the Braves, then a five-run inning for San Francisco and the numbers were running wild. So too was Henderson, the Giants' outfielder, who walloped a grand slam home run in the ninth inning, breaking up the slugfest and giving the Giants a 15-11 victory.

The homer was the fourth hit of the night for Henderson, who improved his batting style this spring with the help of a pitching machine which fed him curves while the live arms were concentrating on straight balls.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Cincinnati belted San Diego 6-1, St. Louis edged Montreal 6-5 in 10 innings, Los Angeles nipped Houston 3-2, Chicago topped Philadelphia 5-4 and Pittsburgh tripped New York 6-4 in 10 innings.

Henderson Homers

Henderson broke up the Giants-Braves game with his ninth inning grand slam against reliever Milt Pappas, Atlanta's sixth pitcher, after San Francisco had loaded the bases with three straight walks against Gary Neibauer.

The homer was a reversal for Henderson who had vowed to concentrate on meeting the ball instead of going for long ones this year. To that end, Henderson spent much of the spring practicing against the Giants' curve-balling machine.

What the Braves needed Tuesday was a pitcher who could hold the Giants back. They never did find one even though they opened with an eight-run second inning. San Francisco bounced back with five in the third, three of them on Dick Dietz' homer and kept pecking away at the Braves until they tied it on Willie McCovey's two-run homer in the eighth.

Another Grand Slam

Hank Aaron had his fourth homer of the young season for Atlanta.

Bobby Tolan crossed up San Diego's strategy, belting a grand slam homer to wrap up Cincinnati's victory over the Padres. The shot by the left-handed Tolan came against southpaw Danny Coombs, who had just come into the game to face him. Earlier, Tony Perez and Johnny Bench had tagged consecutive homers for the Reds.

The Cardinals pushed across two runs in the last of the 10th on pinch singles by Jim Campbell and Cookie Rojas to overtake Montreal. Jose Cardenal had three hits including a homer for the Cards and Rusty Staub drove in three runs with two singles for Montreal. Marv Staehle's two-out triple in the top of the 10th had given the Expos the lead.

Jim Brewer pitched three perfect innings of relief, saving Los Angeles' victory over Houston. Wes Parker singled one Dodger run across in the first and scored another on Billy Grabarkewicz' two-out single in the sixth. Willie Crawford homered for LA.

Cubs Win

Ernie Banks cracked a double and two singles, helping the Cubs whip Philadelphia. Doubles by Banks and Johnny Callison were the key hits in a three-run first that put Chicago in front to stay. Ken Holtzman went the distance for the victory, surviving a four-run Phillie flurry in the ninth.

Rookie Bob Robertson cracked a homer in the ninth, tying the game and then the Pirates pushed across two runs in the 10th on clutch singles by Richie Hebner and Matty Alou to beat the Mets. Reliever Tug McGraw's throwing error on an attempted sacrifice set the stage for Pittsburgh's winning rally.

Bruins Triumph, Lead In Series

By The Associated Press

Coach Sinden didn't reveal what he told the Boston Bruins between periods of their Stanley Cup National Hockey League playoff game.

Whatever it was, it got results. The Bruins came from behind on two third-period goals by Phil Esposito and beat the New York Rangers 3-2 Tuesday night on Boston ice.

The victory gave the Bruins a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 quarter-final series. They can take the series by beating the Rangers in the sixth game at New York Thursday night.

The St. Louis Blues also came from behind to whip the Minnesota North Stars 6-3 in the other Stanley Cup playoff game Tuesday. The Blues now lead 3-2 in the best-of-7 quarter-final series and can wrap it up in the sixth game at Minnesota Thursday night.

Bobby Orr gave Boston a 1-0 lead, but the Rangers tied it on Jack Egers' goal and went ahead in the second period on a shot by Orland Kurtenbach.

Goals by Terry Gray, Red Berenson and Jim Roberts broke the game at St. Louis wide open in the third period.

Tigers Maul Indians Before 46,891 Fans

DETROIT (AP) — Opening Day adrenalin got to the Tigers Tuesday, and if their performance is any indication of the 1970 season then rivals better beware, beware.

"The last time I saw the club hit like that was in the World Series," said manager Mayo Smith rather calmly after his team demolished the Cleveland Indians 12-4 before 46,891 home opening day fans at Tiger Stadium Tuesday.

It was Detroit's 70th home opener and the Tigers have now won eight of their last 11 initial home games.

"When it's Opening Day the adrenalin always flows a little more," Smith added, referring to the Tigers 15 hits and dozen runs.

Tribe Uses 7 Pitchers

The Indians labored through seven pitchers while Detroit's ace Mickey Lolich staggered through a 12-hitter himself, picking up his second win in three starts and third straight complete game.

"If we would have scored nine runs in the ninth I would have found somebody left to come in and pitch," said Cleveland manager Alvin Dark bitterly.

It was one of the most lopsided Opening Day home victories for the Tigers. The next biggest run total in the last 25 years was in 1953 when the Indians knocked off Detroit 11-8.

Every Tiger starter scored at least one run Tuesday and everyone but shortstop Cesar Gutierrez got at least one hit and knocked in at least one run.

Cash Homers

Norm Cash and Jim Northrup had three hits apiece, including a two-run homer by Cash off reliefer Mike Paul in the seventh inning.

The Tigers scored four runs in the third off starter and loser Dick Hand, 0-2, with a two-run double by veteran Al Kaline the big blow. The hit was his 806th for extra bases, putting him third on the all-time Tiger list in a tie with Hall of Famer Harry Heilmann.

The Tigers scored five more times in the fifth, getting a walk and seven straight hits off three Indian reliefers.

Actually the game marked the third straight opener for Detroit and also for Lolich this season. They won the American League Presidential Opener by shutting out Washington 5-0 April 6 and then fell to Baltimore 3-2 in 10 innings in the Orioles home opener Friday.

Kaline Lamments

Kaline, beginning his 18th season as a Tiger, said the atmosphere of Opening Day always helps the team and concurred with Smith's adrenalin theory.

"You always enjoy playing in front of a home crowd on Opening Day," he said, combing his hair. "I think there's a little extra incentive when you know everyone is behind you."

The way the Tigers jumped off to a lead they had little trouble getting the crowd behind them.

"The fans like to see a lot of runs," Kaline added. "I think it's great for them. It gives them more to remember and maybe they'll come back more often."

Tiger Power

It was Kaline's double greeting reliefer Steve Hargan that set Detroit on its way. Dick McAuliffe knocked in a run in that third inning with a single and Willie Horton sent home another with a ground out.

Horton batted in another run in the fifth with a single. Also in the frame Northrup knocked in a score with a double, Bill Freehan sent two runners home with a single, and Lolich singled in a run.

Don Wert got his first hit of the season with a single in the third, then he singled in the fifth, and knocked in Cash with a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Cash's homer in the seventh completed the Tigers scoring.

Cleveland scored a pair of runs off Lolich in the fifth on a single, a double by Roy Foster who was 4-for-5, and a single by Tony Horton. Pinch hitter Chuck Hinto singled home a lone run in the sixth, then Ted Ford led off the eighth with a home run for his first major league hit.

Today was an off day for both teams. Thursday Smith said he would pitch Earl Wilson, 0-2, against Cleveland's Dean Chance, 1-0.

Henderson Is Junior Pool Champ

Ron Henderson reigned as the 1970 Junior Boy's Pool Champ by topping a twenty-man field at the Civic Center last night to take home the title and trophy. Henderson first drew a bye, and then defeated Gary Taylor, Jim Moberg and Ron Anderson, before meeting and beating Gary Bougie 2-1 in the finals.

Second place went Gary Bougie, who defeated Jeff McClosky, Joe Moberg, and Tom Valind before bowing to Henerson in the championship match.

Tom Valind won the consolation title by defeating Rory Montgomery and Doug LaPine, losing to Bougie, and then defeating Ron Anderson in the battle for third place.

Ron Anderson finished fourth by winning over Paul Peltier and Nick Wagner, dropping one to Ron Henderson, and then bowing to Valind in the consolation match.

Tournament action continues tonight with the Senior Men's action getting underway at 6:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Smith, Boston Whip Yankees

By The Associated Press

Home is still the best place for Boston's Reggie Smith, but the other man's grass has been greener this spring for the California Angels.

Smith crashed a homer, triple and double as the Red Sox whipped the New York Yankees 8-3 in their first start at Boston, while the Angels, who had reeled off five consecutive road victories to set the early pace in the American League, bowed to the Chicago White Sox 3-1 in their initial home game as Joe Horlen tossed his 100th career victory.

In other AL games, the Detroit Tigers mauled the Cleveland Indians 12-4 and Oakland bombed Milwaukee 9-1 behind lefthanders Al Downing and Paul Lindblad. Kansas City and Minneapolis - St. Paul and Washington's game at Baltimore was postponed because of wet grounds.

Horlon got relief help from Wilbur Wood in picking up his 100th career victory. Wood came out of the bullpen to choke off an Angel rally in the eighth inning after Jay Johnstone's run-scoring single ruined Horlen's shutout bid.

The White Sox, who had won only one of six previous starts, gave Horlen a three-run lead in the first inning with the help of an error by second baseman Sandy Alomar.

At Boston, 34,010 jammed Fenway Park to see the Red Sox wreck the Yanks with a 12-hit barrage. Smith, George Scott and Tony Conigliaro pounded bases-empty homers over the short left field wall. Smith doubled home two more runs and tripled and scored another while boosting his early batting average to .345.

Milwaukee miscues handed the A's four unearned runs and Rick Monday wrapped up Downing's first Oakland victory with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Downing, acquired from the Yankees during the winter, limited the Brewers to a tainted run and eight scattered hits in the 6 1-3 innings he worked. Lindblad allowed one more hit in his mop-up job.

Bay de Noc Has Bowling Banquet Tuesday Evening

New officers were named and trophies were presented to the outstanding bowlers of the Bay de Noc League at the annual Awards Banquet held Tuesday evening at Marco's.

Dick Puddy was named president for the 1970-71 season, while Bob Haddock and Don Koish were elected vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

The league championship trophy, the U.P. Power traveling trophy and the second half championship trophy went to Escanaba Machine Co. and Knotty Pine received the first half championship trophy along with the roll-off trophy.

Gene Jones received the high individual game award for a 278 game and Bob Karas got the high individual series trophy for a 676. Puddy was second in the high game department with a 265 and Randy Farmer was third with a 251. Following Karas in series were Dick Marenger 643 and Bill Rodman 623.

A special Sportsman-of-the-Year Trophy was awarded to Tom Gafner and Harold Krusic received an award for having the highest average in the league.

The Escanaba Daily Press had the high team game for the season, a 1151, and Coast-To-Coast had the high team series, 3207.

Warriors Owner To Block Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association has started a pattern play toward merger—general agreement among its club owners—and now its up to the National Basketball Association to help complete the goal.

But a member of the NBA team—owner Franklin Mieuli of the San Francisco Warriors—is threatening to block the shot at marrying the two pro leagues.

And Mieuli also has hollered technical foul at Ned Irish, president of the NBA New York Knicks, charging Irish with pushing for merger in the interests of Madison Square Garden, which owns the Knicks.

These were the developments Tuesday on the bumpy road toward merger.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph announced after an owners' meeting in New York that they had agreed in seven general areas for merger. The two leagues' merger committees already had agreed on the points, he said, and now if the NBA owners agree, more technical negotiations can begin.

The NBA owners might meet in New York next week.

Four of the seven points agreed on were:

—All 11 of the ABA teams will be included in any merger.

—All players who are involved in multiple signings will remain in their current legal status and will be resolved between the two teams involved.

—An indemnity of approximately $11 million will be paid by the ABA.

—The Washington-Baltimore situation cannot be resolved unilaterally, and a decision on this matter will depend on the NBA meeting. However, Earl Foreman has indicated to the ABA that he is not unwilling to leave Washington under certain circumstances, and the ABA has reached an agreement on a recommendation to be given the NBA on this matter.

Mieuli said he wants only six ABA teams to join the NBA—Indiana, Kentucky, Carolina, Denver and two more to be picked by the NBA.

He also said he not only wants Rick Barry returned to the Warriors from Washington but wants all other players who jumped, or are expected to jump, to the ABA returned to their NBA clubs.

NO NAME VILLAGE, Cambodia (AP) — "The Viet Cong came and took the Vietnamese villagers away from here, that's why there is no one here," the Cambodian captain said, snapping at the flies with his braided oxwhip.

His two companies of troops moved through the village on the Prek Trabek River where mostly Vietnamese had lived. They searched the small thatch huts, then put matches to the tinder-dry walls.

The captain, flicking his whip, said he didn't know the name of the village. None of his troops did either, and it really didn't matter. In their eyes all the Vietnamese villagers were Viet Cong.

One soldier, carrying a basket full of small items taken from a house, pointed at the river and chattered nervously. A body was drifting slowly downstream on its back. It was a Vietnamese man in civilian dress, and he appeared to be still alive although wounded.

The soldiers began to unlimber their AK47 rifles, but the man twitched convulsively and turned on his face. "Viet Cong, Viet Cong," the troops said, but didn't waste a shot. The man had died.

The captain said there had been a battle in No Name Village earlier in the morning. Two Cambodian villagers who cautiously returned described in sign language how Viet Cong and Cambodian forces had clashed in the village. There were no casualties on the Cambodian side, however, and the Viet Cong withdrew to another village three miles downstream.

While some of the troops set the looted houses ablaze, others cautiously probed the numerous reinforced bunkers that the Vietnamese had built beneath their houses. The captain said the Viet Cong had tried to entrench themselves in the village by fighting from the bunkers.

Down a dusty wagon path which wound under leafy shade trees, the troops formed a skirmish line before a large Catholic church, the pride of the village. They set up a machine gun and fired repeated bursts through the closed wooden doors. Then the troops moved inside, sacked it and set it afire.

The roof collapsed in a roar and the life-size statues of the Virgin Mary and Joseph could be seen through the flames.

The giggling soldiers rounded up chickens and ducks and tied them to their belts for the evening meal. One soldier led a pony, another had a cow in tow. Three pigs were shot, and the troops loaded the carcasses on a truck that also carried bicycles, bedding and goods from the small village store.

By noon, the village was gutted, and at least 70 houses were burned, the homes of Cambodians as well as Vietnamese, along with the mounds of straw that had been piled up to feed the cattle during the current dry season.

The Cambodian government's report of the operation Saturday said its forces at 5 a.m. Saturday launched a mopup operation about a mile south of Kompong Trabek, in Prey Veng Province.

"Helped by the complicity of Vietnamese residents," the communique said, "the Viet Cong—numbering around 50—hidden in the homes of the Vietnamese fired on Cambodian troops. Our troops killed seven Viet Cong, captured four clips of ammunition for Chinese-made assault rifles, and seized 16 bags of rice. The homes of the Vietnamese were set afire."

Ford Takes Step To Reduce Auto Exhaust Fumes

DETROIT (AP)— Ford Motor Co. took another step Tuesday in the campaign to reduce auto exhaust pollution when it applied to the State of California for a formal okay of a used car emissions control system.

"As soon as our system is officially accredited by the California Air Resources Board, we will offer it nationally to owners of cars, from 1955 through 1965 models," said Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford North American automotive operations.

Ford announced last December it had begun the used car emissions control program. It conducted tests on a restricted basis with a fleet of cars at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida and also in Los Angeles in February.

California gave a tentative approval to the program today and Ford said 4,000 - mile tests on 20 of the vehicles will begin immediately at Ford's proving grounds in Romeo, Mich.

General Motors and Chrysler have similar programs underway for the nation's older cars.

$9,550 Fine!

MONROE (AP) — A Detroit attorney, Walter Kurz, has been sentenced to 152 days in jail and ordered to pay $9,550 in fines for 106 counts of contempt stemming from a drunken driving case heard last June in Monroe County Circuit Court.

Kurz reported he will appeal the penalties, which he termed "cruel and unusual treatment."

Card of Thanks

Martinson

We wish to express our sincere thank you to relatives, friends and neighbors for their gifts and acts of kindness during the recent illness and death of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Alina Martinson. We especially wish to thank the Rev. Reuben Carlson for his comforting words, the nurses on first and fourth floors for the wonderful care they gave her while she was at St. Francis Hospital; to Dr. Hult, Dr. Gordon and Dr. Anderson, and to all those who donated and served food. Your thoughtfulness will always remain with us.

The Family Of
Mrs. Alina Martinson

Miller

Our heartfelt thanks are extended to all who aided by acts of kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of my beloved wife, Lucille Miller. A special word of appreciation to Rev. Walfred Nelson for ihs comforting words, to those who sent floral and memorial gifts, the singing by the choir, the donation of food and to all who assisted in any way. Your many acts of kindness will always be remembered.

The Family Of
Mrs. Harvey Miller

Schoen

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and sympathy in our bereavement, the death of our wife, mother, and grandmother, Myrtle Schoen. We are especially grateful to Rev. Philip Kuckhahn for his comforting words, to the pallbearers, those who offered the use of their cars, those who donated food, gifts of spiritual bouquets and flowers, to those who contributed to the memorial fund, to the Ladies of St. Paul's Lutheran Church who prepared the food. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

INTRODUCING...The Largest Selection Of SPORTSWEAR In Upper Michigan!

THE SCOOP ON SKINNY RIBS

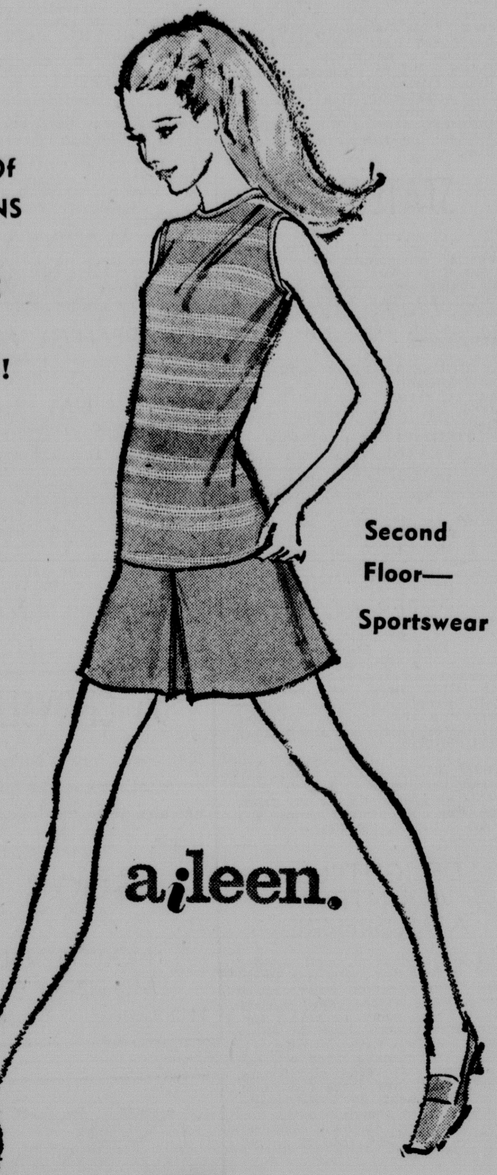

As long as it's ribbed . . . it's news. And the Summer flash is anything goes. Long sleeves or short, mini ribs or more, Aileen makes the most of what's new with the cotton knit Skinny Scoop. It's snugger, straighter, and definitely all-girl. Especially when it's paired up with cotton/nylon Jamaica shorts for summer headlines. Available in White, Red and Navy.

LET THE SUN SHINE IN

Go where it's at in Aileen's summer playthings . . . T-Top and pant skirt. As carefree as you want it to be in 100% cotton knit, it's ready to go wherever you do and keep its cool. The striped T-Top zips up to a neat little neck, and the pant skirt are all easy stretch for season's soft life. And all in summer shades like Red and Navy.

IT'S A NATURAL

Elongated1T's go to great lengths. The thin little cotton knit undershirt you grow out of has grown up. Aileen stretches the imagination to longer proportions in brave, bright stripes of May Yellow or Flip Green. It's the great basic look to top to-gether cotton Nassau shorts in White.

EASY RIDER

Summer sporting goes soft with looks that play along. Easy-riding. Natural. And what could be more natural than the softened slipover? Of carefree 100% cotton knit, it goes from Big League ballgames to all-day outings. Aileen knits up a whole summerful of fun in Red and Navy. Tender topping for its own coordinated knit sportslacks.
